Daanyan

Multilithed in the U.S.A.
by the Brigham Young University Press

To you . . .

and you . . .

Out of this year of inspiration and growth, of carefree fun and lasting friendships, comes another Banyan. A picture and paragraph record of delightful, unforgettable memories—one short, breathless period of your life. If it contains a spark of the happiness that was yours during this year, then it will always be alive—a chronicle of your college days. To you, its inspiration, we dedicate the 1938 Banyan, hoping that it will always be a part of you through all the glorious years to come

Representative

of the "Y"'s renowned spirit of geniality and openheartedness is its energetic president, Franklin Stewart Harris. Through each busy day he has a warm hand-clasp, a friendly smile, for everyone . . . in lighter moments his comradeship is a rare pleasure to know.

Inspirations

LEADERS, CLASSMATES--YOUR INSPIRATIONS!

College was different than you expected and yet you weren't disappointed. As a freshman you wandered over the campus, inspired and yet a little awed by those worldly upperclassmen or learned professors . . . You shook hands with the President and met the Deans, and college was underway --classes, study--new friends-- life! Each hour, each day was filled with so much of joy and inspiration that before you knew it the year was over. Yet out of it came so much worth while that you knew your life from then on would be fuller because of the University. Leaders, classmates--your inspiration!

COLORFUL CAMPUS

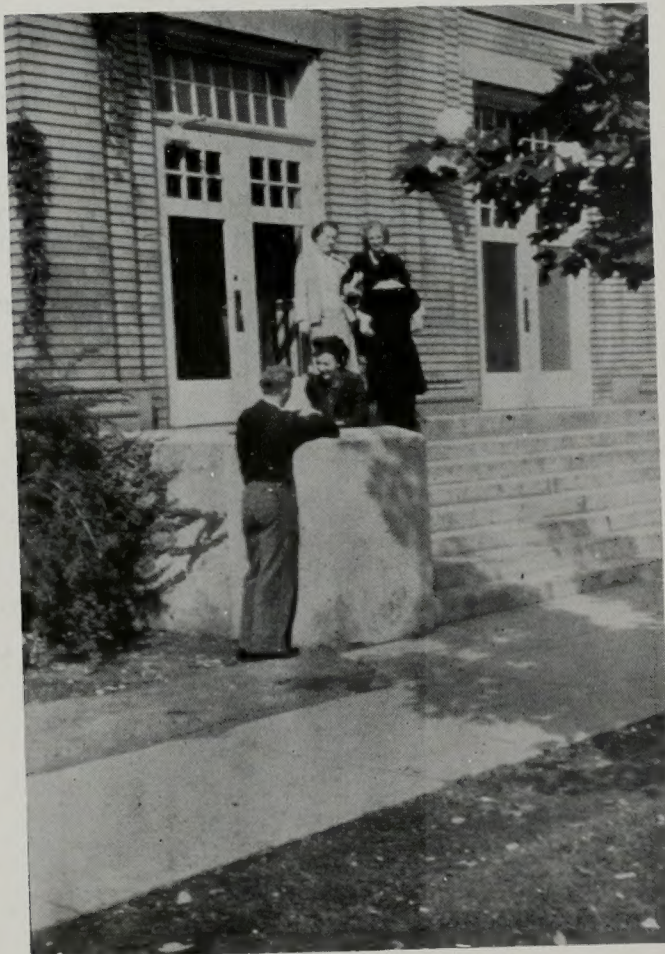

You have lived here on the campus of Brigham Young University the past year, so there is really no need to tell you how lovely it is. You strolled along the many walks the first few days of the fall quarter, so you already know how delightfully gorgeous it is in autumn dress. You followed Blue Key on the night of the Frosh Trek, and you learned how enchanting it can be in moonlight. The same night you saw the Y on the east mountain brighten the valley when the Sophomores lighted it for Frosh benefit. And in the spring, myriads of brilliant blossoms. Truly the campus at Young University is colorful, a lovely place.

Lower Campus

... ivy covered walls

The Gate . .

Remember the first thing you saw at Brigham Young University? Wasn't it the old entrance gate at Fifth North and University? Gift of the 1912 graduates, the gate is symbolic of the beginning of a new life, opening before each person who sees it for the first time a new, exciting realm of experience. Even now, can't you feel its challenge—its invitation for you to explore the regions within? Suppose we steal a few minutes and take a flying trip around the campus. First let's turn left to the Women's gym across the street.

The Women's Gym

How would you like to work a couple or two problems in mathematics? OK — find the number of people who have danced here since its erection in 1913. Or take the number of basketballs that have been worn out in the gym and divide it by all the girls who here learned their "head, shoulders, knees and toes". Give up? Well, anyhow, maybe you get the idea—that during its twenty-five years of existence the Women's Gym has been the hub of Brigham Young's wheel of social and physical activity. But back through the entrance gate and on with our trek . . .

jealously guard secrets of love and laughter

Education Building

The oldest building on the campus, through whose sacred front door you lowly frosh (Do you remember "when", Seniors?) are forbidden to enter—at least during those hectic hazing days. Originally the home of the administration offices, the building now houses the art, geology, education, chemistry, psychology, physics and home economics departments. Room D, on the third floor, was the first Assembly hall of the Institution, and now serves as a combination study room, art gallery, and museum. Incidentally, the "I'll meet you under the clock" clock is found in the main hall, and and in the tower "The Old Y Bell" clangs out its message—"it's twenty after and another class is over. Thank the Lord!"

The Aztec Fountain

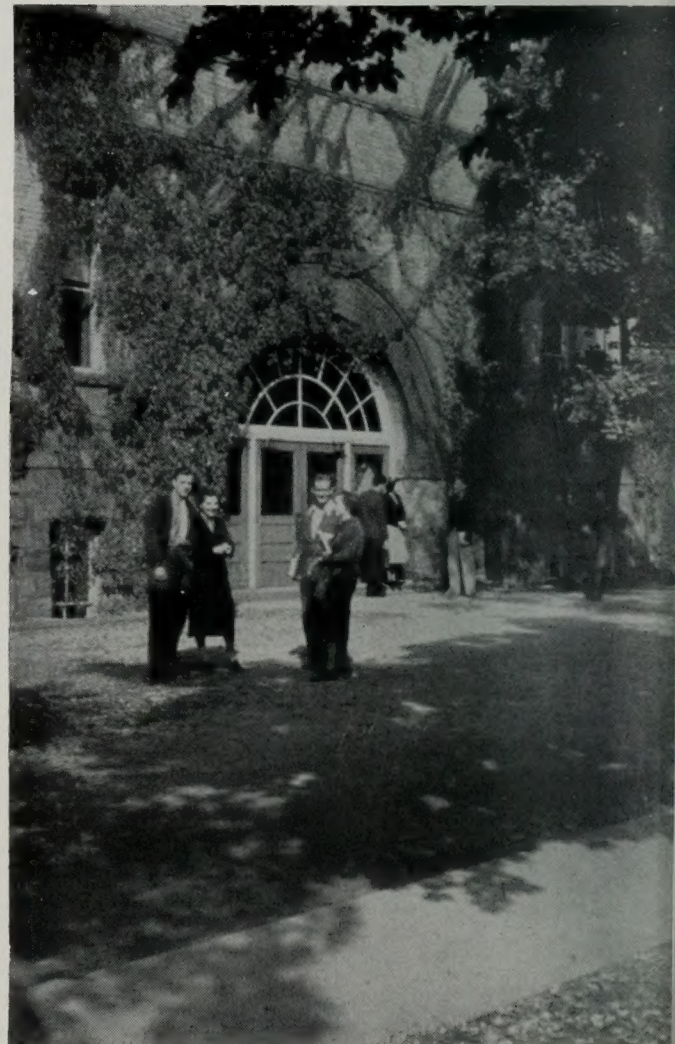

Directly west of the main entrance to the Education Building we find the Aztec fountain. It's a good thing it "ain't talkin'". If it could, it might reveal lots of things. It could tell your secrets—secrets whispered to your one and only (all five of them). It could tell of your ambitions and plans, your hopes and desires—confidences revealed as you paused on one of its sides. Or, again, it might embarrass those lazy Freshmen you ducked in its shallow "depths". Freshmen must whitewash the Y on the east mountain—or else. Gift of an early graduating class, the fountain could greet as an old friend, every student since that time.

... canopies of cool, inviting shade

President's Entrance

Now almost forgotten, and rarely used, covered by vines and shrubbery, the President's Entrance is a sentimental reminder of days of the past. Then it was all important, leading into the president's offices. Now, since the rapid growth of the school, the administration offices have been moved to the newer upper campus. Thus the old is unused and forgotten, making way for the new. Leaving this shrine of days that have been, we round the Education Building to the College Building. . .

College Building

Remember those mad dashes to assembly from your 10:30 class on the hill? Up the steps to College hall, where, if you were lucky, you had a friend with a seat waiting for you. Otherwise, you probably stood. And in this same hall you often gathered to share in Brigham Young's fine music and dramatic presentations. On the lower floor you saved your quarters by reading the bookstore's latest magazines (Esquire, College Humor, Judge, and occasionally the Atlantic Monthly or Reader's Digest) . . . Or for the good of the stadium you bought a candy bar or sharpened your pencil

... rivaled only by autumn's gorgeous glory

Training Building

Passing the training school, we see a group of athletes lounging on the steps. Maybe you've noticed that you seldom pass here without glimpsing some of the boys. The reason might be that the top floor of this building is athletic headquarters, with men's gymnasium and coaches' office. And you education majors probably had your first teaching experience here, because it is the "little red schoolhouse" for the elementary grades of the Brigham Young University Training School

.. 2nd East Steps

Leaving the lower campus, let's start towards the site of the newest additions to Brigham Young U.—the Upper Campus. Following one well-traveled route we came to the 2nd East Steps — popular in spring and fall because of the beauty of the rich foliage and shrubbery bordering them — and on moonlight nights because of Lover's Lane branching off at the middle landing. At the top of the steps we find the Sundial

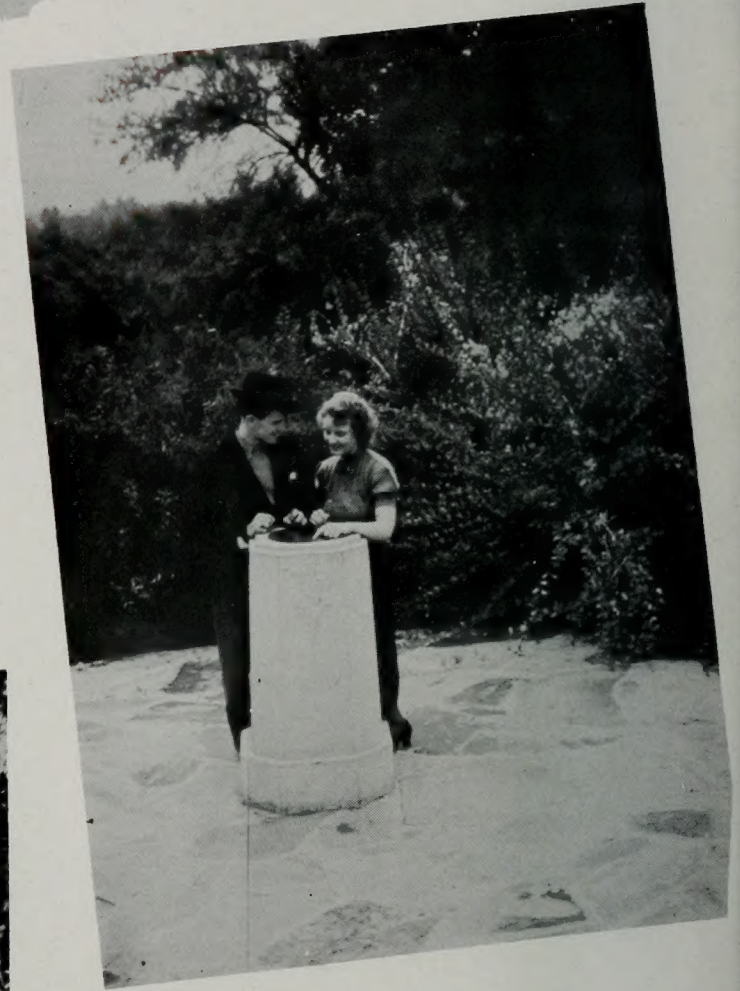

Upper Campus

sunny skies, familiar faces

The Sundial

The Sundial — what would a campus do without one? A gift of the graduating class of 1916, the original was placed on the brow of the hill west of the Maeser building. In 1936 it was replaced by the present dial, the surroundings of which were designed and planted by the Landscape Architecture classes under Professor LaVal S. Morris of the University faculty

3rd East Steps

Maybe you left our party and slipped around by the 3rd East steps to the hill. The students down 3rd East and vicinity offer this little recipe for exercise: Wait at the bottom of the steps until about a minute before time for the last bell and then race up to your class in the top of the Brimhall Building. Wanna try it?

make each day a lovely, lasting treasure . . .

The Maeser Memorial

Regardless of the way you chose, the first thing you saw as you reached the top of the hill was the Maeser Memorial Building, whose stately pillars can be seen throughout the surrounding country. It is fitting that such a building should honor our first president, Karl G. Maeser, whose work in youth education places his name in a position comparable to that of the building — a place of eminence, overlooking all its surveys. Within its walls are found the offices of the University and Associated Student presidents, President's Aides. The College of Commerce, the University Press, the Y News and Public Service Bureau, and last, but by no means least, the Banyan office. Yea, man!!!

The Grant Library

Erected in 1925, the new library was named in honor of the president of the L. D. S. Church, Heber J. Grant. It is today one of our most modern and well-equipped buildings. Besides housing a complete library of books and periodicals, the Grant Library is headquarters for the English, History and Language departments. On the second floor is found the large reading room, used almost exclusively as a clearing house for dates. Remember? — that place where you went to chat with your friends—and to study occasionally . . .

... a between-class-chat,

Brimhall Building

Newest of campus additions, the Brimhall Building has an interesting history. It began a humble existence back in 1919 as the one-storied Mechanic Arts Building. Then feeling the need of expansion it added a couple of stories, changed its name and in 1935 became the modern, imposing structure it is today. Named after our late president, George H. Brimhall, the building is home to the departments of Bacteriology, Mechanic Arts, Office Practice, Botany, Zoology, Horticulture, Landscape Architecture, and the Extension Division

President's Home

Leaving the Brimhall Building, we stop next at the home of our genial President and his family. For eight years the Harris's have occupied this lovely home. Most of us have, at one time or another, taken advantage of their hospitality and have been graciously received at their doors. These doors have been opened for many University activities, including faculty, coed, and senior receptions. Stepping out of the east door we find ourselves in the cool, flowered loveliness of the President's garden . . .

. . a stroll in the Harris' garden . and a Saturday thrill

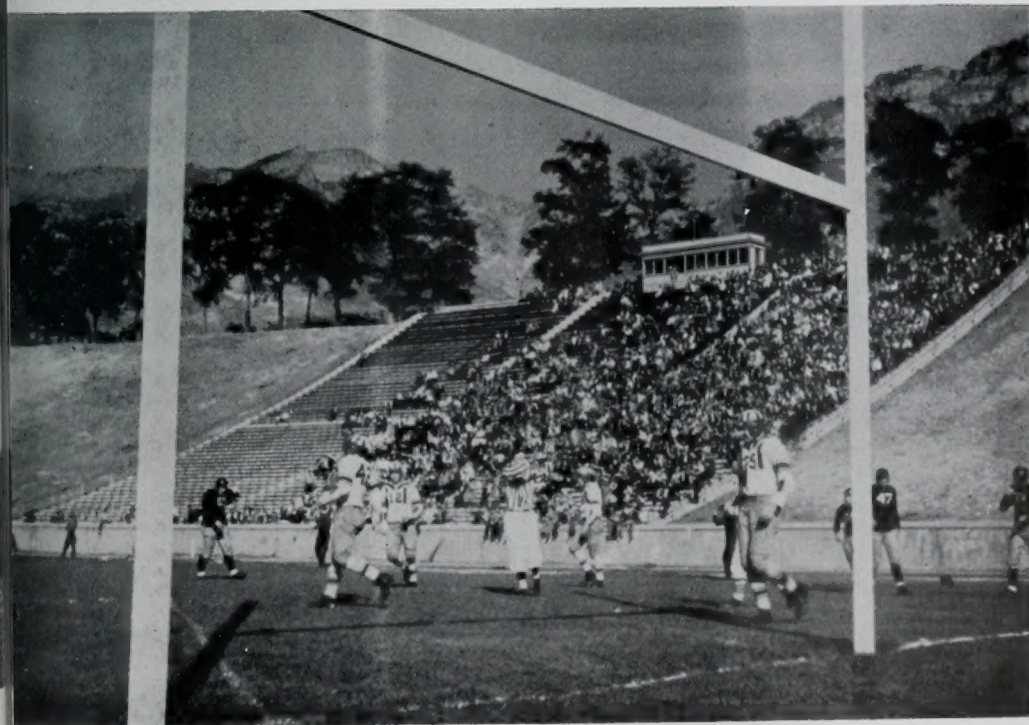

President's Garden

The President's garden was designed and planted by Professor Laval S. Morris of the Landscape Architecture department. Its design embraces five parts. The "Unit of Entertainment" has no flowers, it is used solely for garden parties. The "Circular Garden" is the main flower unit and contains a pool surrounded by a succession of lovely flowers from early spring to late autumn. Directly behind this unit is the "Rose Garden", a profusion of many rose varieties. The "Pergola", the only architectural feature, opens at one end into the "Rock Garden", and at the other, into the "Wall-Garden". A delightful place to stroll and chat, but we must hurry on to the stadium, it's kick-off time.

The Stadium

On Saturday, October the ninth, you were one of several thousand who gathered in the Y stadium to see the team play the California Aggies. It was a great day for the Y boys who romped off the field with a 34 to 0 victory. On Saturday, November 20, you witnessed a 19-0 Homecoming Day victory. And thus it went throughout the season. Through the courtesy of nature, the B. Y. U. Stadium was built on the west slope of Temple Hill in 1928. Its natural bowl has seen a number of great football teams. But it wasn't until this fall that a really great team appeared on the gridiron. We wish that we might see, as the stadium will, the golden years of greatness which are coming to Y football squads. . . .

ADMINISTRATION

You are lucky to have the opportunity of attending an institution where the faculty is so gifted and versatile. You are lucky to know such men as President Harris, Dr. Sperry, Registrar Hayes, and all the others who so much typify the ideal we seek. Truly, we are distinctive here. A glorious setting, a versatile faculty, a spirit of friendship, these and many more are blessings to cherish. In the pages that follow we have tried to give you a picture of the administration. We have tried to tell, in word and picture, all the interesting little things that make our faculty different.

A banker, a farmer--travelers both

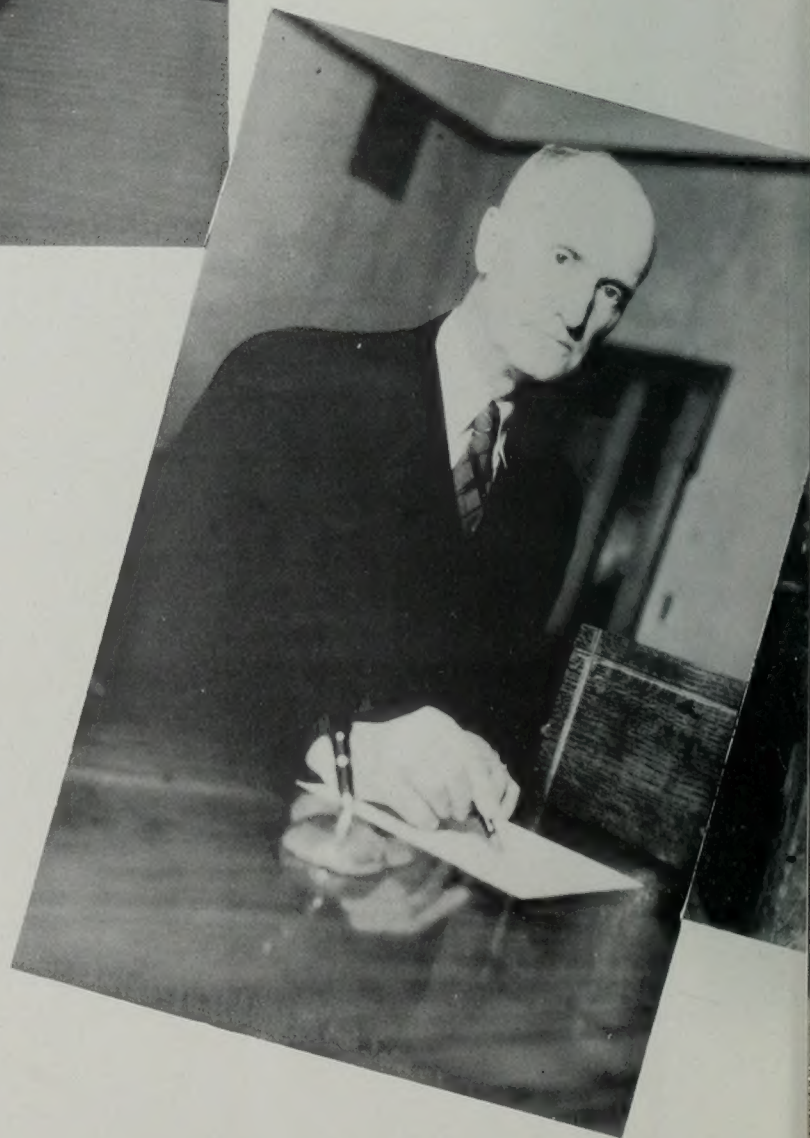

So versatile are our two presidents that the old rhyme of "a banker, a lawyer, a merchantman, a chief" seems rather aptly to fit them. Heber J. Grant, president of the Church of which we are a part, is well known in banking and finance circles throughout the nation. Our own president Franklin S. Harris (below) was, before his presidency, an agronomist and soils expert by profession. Both have held numerous civic and industrial positions. And both for years have been world commuters. Within the past year President Grant has returned from an extended tour of Europe and has been called upon to preside at the dedication of church chapels in every corner of the United States. President Harris has been present at church and educational functions as far south as Mexico and as far north as Canada. For leadership, for noble example, we cherish their association and words of inspiration.

Mormon Educator

Into the able hands of Dr. Franklin L. West, church commissioner of education, the church heads have placed the destinies of young Mormondom. His is the job of shaping the educational policies of numerous stake seminaries and, more specifically, of Brigham Young University. It is seldom we see him on the campus, yet the power he wields is felt by all who attend the institution. Dr. West stands as an example of what he preaches, a pleasure to know, and an inspiration to all who come under his influence.

The President's Right Hand

E. H. Holt (opposite page, lower), treasurer and historian, B. T. Higgs (lower left), custodian, John E. Hayes (lower right), registrar, and Kiefer B. Sauls, secretary and purchasing agent, are truly the president's right hand. Efficiency has become a by-word with this quartet. Custodian Higgs this year rounds out 30 years service in that capacity. Mr. Holt came about the same year to teach business, and the other two have established enviable records of service to youth.

DEAN OF WOMEN

Dean Nettie Neff Smart likes informal chats with "her" girls. The photographer found her one day pleasantly conversing with Martha Johnson, and the picture for the Banyan was made. Dean Smart loves her home. Just newly finished, the house receives all the attention she can give. She delights in buying and arranging new things in it, planning pleasant little surprises for her boys, Neff and Eddie. A good cook, the Dean relishes salads and is always trying new and different recipes. Her duties include the supervision of the Associated Women Students and the well-knit organization at Young University is due largely to her untiring effort and careful planning. She is not above the girls, but rather one of them . . . a big sister to all the girls just as the Mentors are to Freshmen.

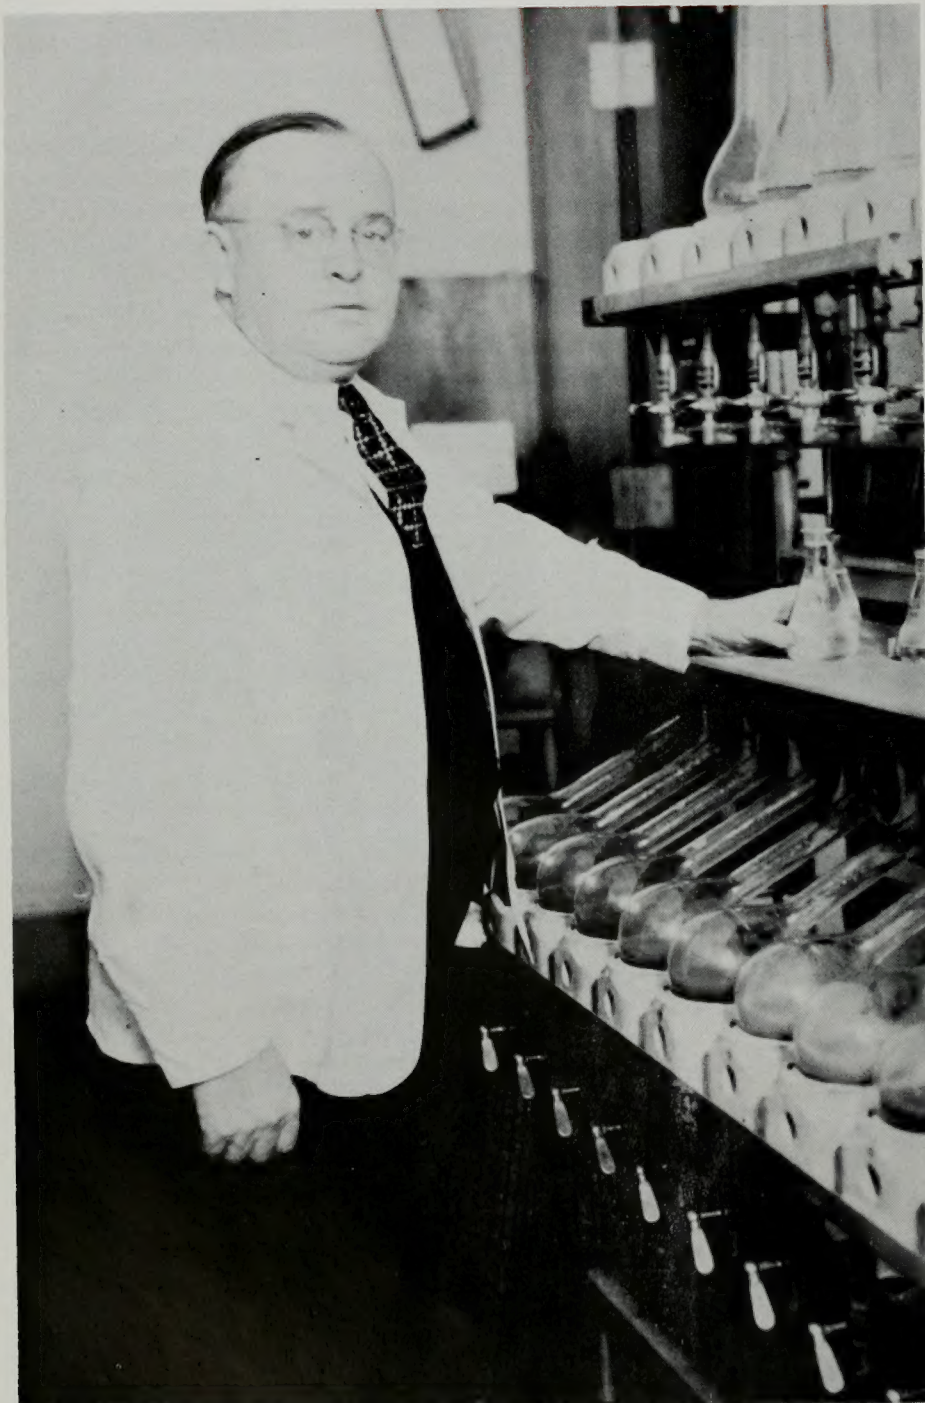

DEAN OF MEN

Here is a combination for you! Dr. Wesley P. Lloyd, Dean of Men, likes Elbert Hubbard and malted milks. Dean Lloyd is in his first year at the Y and already he has made himself a place in the heart of every male student on the campus. So very likeable, he is always just one of the boys. The boy in him always calls for apple pie, yet the heart of a man and the lover of fine things finds expression in the beauty of rich sunsets and twilights. The busy buzz of student conversation just before class is called intrigues him. An avid sports fan, he likes football and basketball. As a collector of ties he is never satisfied.

APPLIED SCIENCES

... the Dean

Nitrogen Fixer

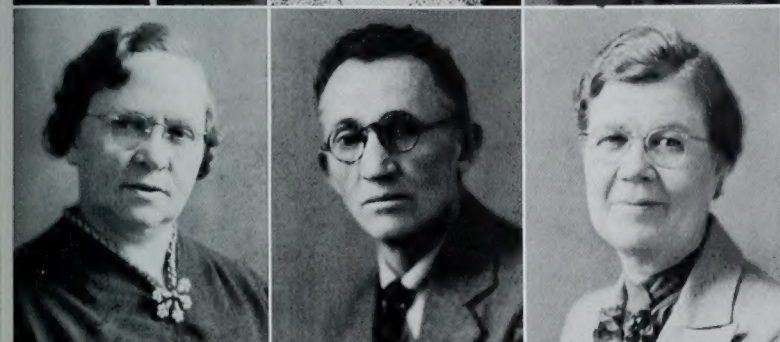

Dean Thomas L. Martin is known throughout the entire west for his studies in soils. Dean Martin, of the College of Applied Sciences, not only handles the duties connected with his office of dean, but teaches a number of classes in bacteriology and related subjects. Especially does he enjoy teaching soils and agronomy classes. The nitrogen fixation processes are his particular interest and he has done much investigation in that line. He is the possessor of a formula known as Martin's gargle, a powerful disinfectant. Probably the smallest member of our faculty, his is a dominating figure in church and civic life. As further work he fathers a good old Mormon family.

... and the faculty

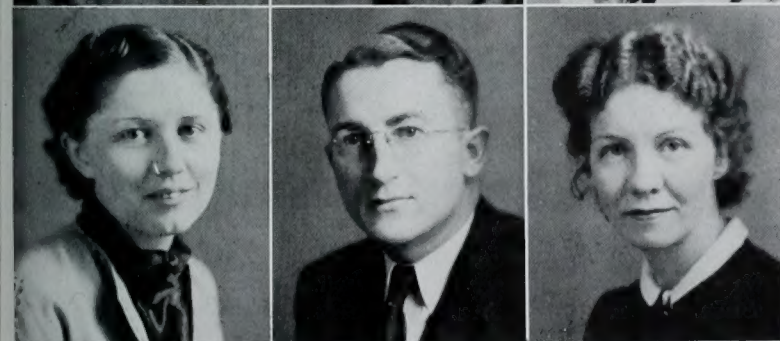

The faculty at Brigham Young University is extremely versatile. Many of them hold responsible positions in church and state and do a great deal of work outside the University. Among the faculty members of the College of Applied Sciences we find some of our best all-around people. Professor Laval S. Morris has designed and planted grounds for churches, park, and civic buildings. At present he is in charge of roadside improvements for the State Road Commission. Professor W. H. Snell of the mechanic arts department built the stadium house and supervised the construction of the dormitory, has charge of all campus construction. Seth T. Shaw analyzes fruits for spray residue. May Billings has produced a book on sewing printed on the "Y" Press.

APPLIED SCIENCES ... holds fashion show

As a practical application of the things that are taught in clothing and textiles classes the department each year sponsors a fashion show. The show this year was probably the best one yet held. These pictures show some of the things done, and are being worn by the makers.

On the opposite page are showings of both sport and formal wear.

ARTS AND SCIENCES . . . the Dean

Rock Saver-upper

Dr. George H. Hansen, Acting Dean of The College of Arts and Sciences, boasts the finest mineral collection in the Rocky Mountain territory. Outside of sauerkraut and lemon pie his chief interests are centered in duck hunting, reading anthropology, and planting native shrubs around his home. He has about one hundred varieties now. Taking over the deanship just as school started last fall quarter, when Dean Carl F. Eyring was called to preside over the Eastern States mission, likeable Dr. Hansen is carrying on in the best tradition of the University.

ing things

besides handling the work regularly connected with their positions as faculty members many of our instructors are gaining recognition for their outside work. Often this comes from following a hobby or spare time diversion. Over weekends Professor M. Wilford Poulson, head of the psychology department, has collected old journals, diaries, and are books of pioneer days. The work seemed so worthwhile that President Harris has made it a University assignment. Professor Harrison R. Merrill and Karl E. Young are both enthusiasts for indian lore and dances. Mr. Young shakes a picked leg as an indian dancer. Edna Snow, botany instructor, helped the United States Forest Service find what the Uintah lakes need for a better balanced diet for fish, this spring quarter she left for an extended trip to South America. Laval S. Morris, head of the landscape architecture department, is now in charge of roadside improvements for the State Road Commission. Dr. Wayne B. Hales' lecture on "The Antics of Rotating Bodies" is as popular with schools as the lyceum numbers they pay high for.

COMMERCE . . . the Dean

Herald R. Clark

Personal acquaintance with more great artists and lecturers than any other man in the intermountain west . . . such a statement is surely applicable to Dean Clark. He is the man who has, this year, brought us such personalities as Helen Jepson, Stuart Chase, Mischa Elman, and a score of others. Besides efficient handling of the duties of this office in the College of Commerce, the Dean directs the Lyceum Committee, does much work in church and state, and is an authority on stocks and bonds. To know him is to know the most business like man in the University. What we want to know, where does he find time for all his duties.

COMMERCE

The Y has a kind of record in placing the College of Commerce graduates. This department is generally recognized as the best commerce school in the state, and the fact that such a large majority are placed each year substantiates the beliefs. This is in no small measure due to the extremely versatile faculty, pictured on the previous pages. Then, of course, a great deal of credit is due the Dean. Dean Clark has a way of inspiring his faculty and students which results in far greater achievement. In the picture above we show a section of one of the type rooms with Robert Hodson and Beth Low at the machines.

In looking for pictures the photographer happened in on Oscar "Butch" Arnold working an accounting problem. He looked all right when working (left), but when he looked up! Some problems would make anyone wild eyed.

EDUCATION . . . the Dean

Amos N. Merrill

A. N. Merrill, Acting Dean of the College of Education, dislikes intellectual dishonesty and sham. He has served the University well for a long period and delights in doing all he can to contribute to the individual welfare of all who come to his office. He likes to travel, usually always yielding to the lure of the open road during the summer months. Above all else he would like to continue his studies in some great university. It is our sincere wish that he may go on "evaluating" and "recapitulating" for a great many years, for the message he carries to youth is very much worthwhile.

FINE ARTS . . . the Dean is versatile

We went to Dean deJong's charming wife to find out about him. And do you know, he especially likes chocolate cake. A hard worker, he lives by the motto "Either shoot or give up the gun". It is interesting to know that as a youngster in Holland he spent long hours with music and the languages . . . began the study of English, French, and German on his 12th birthday. Once his father asked him if he'd rather have a piano or a bicycle for a birthday present. He wanted the bicycle but got the piano. Dean Gerrit deJong, Jr., as his title officially names him, speaks about a dozen languages fluently and takes only the better piano students. His is an interesting personality.

DER FREISCHUTZ

The opera "Der Freischutz" by the German composer Carl Maria Von Weber was presented by the combined Chorus' on March 8 and 9 under the direction of John R. Halliday. Based on a romantic old German legend, the story unfolds to the accompaniment of delightful and tuneful music. The opera tells of the love affair of Rudolph, a young German ranger played by Robert Reese, and Agnes, daughter of the chief ranger played by Barbara Smith. In order to win the hand of the fair Agnes, Rudolph must show his superiority as a marksman. To insure his success, Rudolph seeks the aid of Zamiel, the Demon Hunter. Interest and suspense reach a peak when Rudolph goes to the Wolf's Glen where he is to receive help from Zamiel. In a scene of thunder and lightning, Zamiel gives Rudolph seven magic bullets. Several complications arise, but are smoothed out and all ends happily in an impressive finale.

The opera as a whole was well done with outstanding work being done by the leading characters. The duets by Mr. Reese and Miss Smith were particularly beautiful.

The Ladies' Glee Club . . .

Sharing the Leadership Week spotlight with the male songbirds was the Ladies Glee Club. All that was said about the boys goes equally well with the girls. Each year Miss Margaret Summerhays is given charge of this group. Each fall quarter she is greeted by some 40 or 50 budding opera stars and like the good manager she is they soon become a versatile and harmonious unit. Orchids to Miss Summerhays, director, and Miss Martha Facer, president. Their work is largely responsible for the numerous invitations to present recitals in the surrounding communities. On a number of occasions the ladies have combined their talents with those of the men and together have given concerts as a combined chorus.

sponsors the Messiah

On Sunday, December 12, the Brigham Young University music department including chorus, soloists, orchestra and organ presented Handel's Oratorio, the Messiah. The text, selected from the scriptures, was composed September 14, 1741. The initial performance was in Dublin, April 12, 1742. It is presented every year at Christmas time by various musical groups throughout the world. Director Halliday and the entire ensemble were praised for their interpretation of the famous music.

Soloists were:

Sopranos:

Marie Pyott, Carlie Murdock, Ruth Berlin, Edith Harrison.

Altos:

Ina Webb, Maude Jensen, Alceodene Hofer.

Tenors:

Robert Reese, Nolan Taylor.

Basses:

PROFESSOR B. F. LARSEN . . . his criticisms bless and burn
MISS VERLA L. BIRRELL . . . completes initial year as college teacher
PROFESSOR EDGAR M. JENSON . . . tells future teachers how it's done

When Professor B. F. Larsen was contacted for material for this section he came up with information which definitely shows why the Art Department at Young University holds the commanding position among Utah's schools.

Extremely systematic in all he does Professor Larsen is organizing the department around three objectives. These are:

First: To furnish adequate training for those who desire to follow an art career. Our graduates achieved success as art teachers, industrial designers, commercial artists, painters, craftsmen, and interior decorators. Our art alumni includes many outstanding men and women in these professions.

Second: We aim to provide opportunity for acquiring information and skill which will directly help people in other vocations, such as; home planning, commerce, industries, city beautification, etc. People in all vocations profit much by a knowledge of form, color, and texture, and by understanding the principles of art.

Third: The art department provides courses in art appreciation which help people to enjoy the wonders and beauties of nature and art. We attempt to introduce students to a wealth of material which is interesting and profitable for hobbies and other leisure time activities.

To secure these ends Professor Larsen has consistently planned and strengthened the various departments within the art department, that is, those of painting, home planning, commercial art, design, etc. The University owes him thanks for adding to our already excellent fine arts collection, for providing a service in art second to none, and for numerous constructive appreciation lectures before the entire student body.

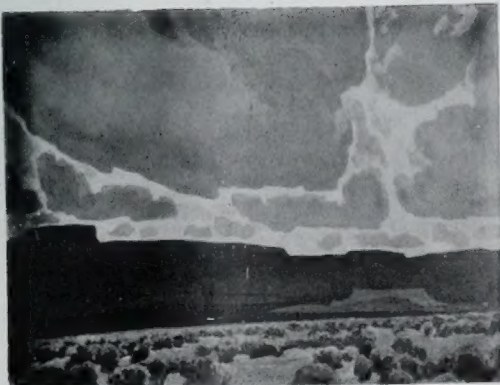

add to collection . . .

For years the Brigham Young University has owned pictures by outstanding men of the West. For several years it has been the definite policy of the department to augment this collection. The year just concluded has seen some noteworthy pieces added to the permanent group. Foremost among this group were a large number of paintings, etchings, block prints, and lithographs by J. T. Harwood, the Dean of Utah painters. Second to this was another large group purchased from Maynard Dixon of Southern California. Mr. Dixon's work seems to breathe the West we know. Among the other pictures secured were those of Lee Greene Richards, Joseph Everett, and the late E. H. Eastmond.

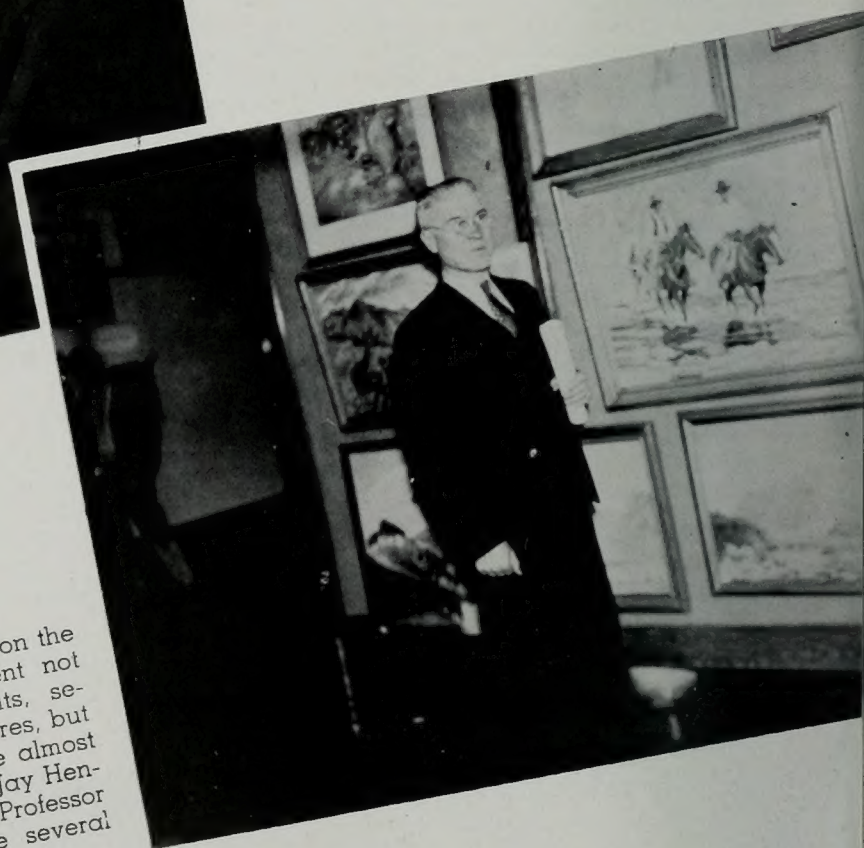

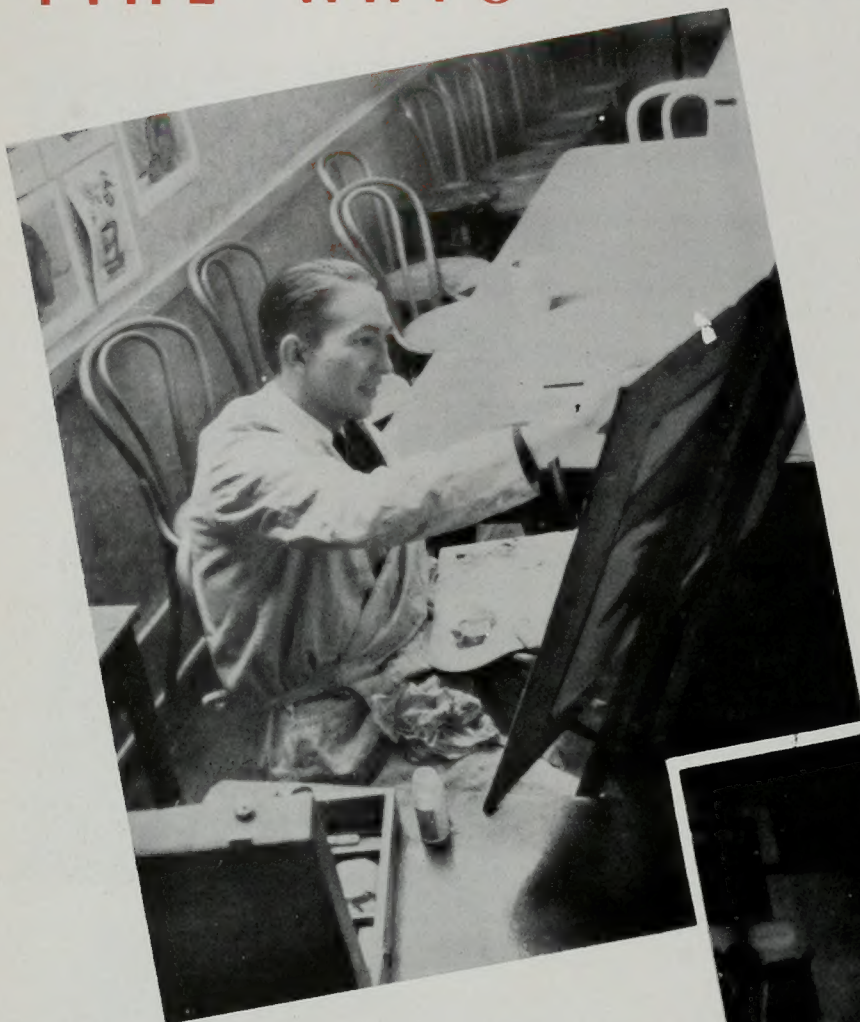

We present here a representative selection from this permanent collection. Reading clockwise, they are: "The Rose Window" by J. T. Harwood, "Granite Street, Rockport" by Anthony Thieme, "Bedver Lanes" by Calvin Fletcher, "High in the Morning", the Great White Throne in Zion Park, by Maynard Dixon, "Spring Plowing" by Harwood, "Mesas in Shadow" by Dixon, and, opposite page, "Convalescence" by Lee Greene Richards.

Comedy and tragedy were interwoven in the ingenious story of un-lived lives and "Lost Horizons," presented Dec. 9 and 10.

In gay mood, upper right, are Lloyd Peay, Ruth Horr, Loraine Adams, Marian Wilson, and Ralph Horlacher. In next view Vernon Wilcox, David Walker, Helen Clark face a crisis in their stock company. Next, in the "hall of records," are Virg Meiling, Ether Hastings, Boyd Lake, Beulah Jensen views the climax, left, as Walker and Wilson meet.

Directors were Kathryn Pardoe, Maurine Murdock. Others in the cast: Jones, Isbell, Fairbanks, Gardner, Mendenhall Salisbury, Hedquist, Johnson, Toland, Kelley, Thomson, Sorenson, F. Clark, Tyndall, Whitaker.

TARTUFFE . . .

Four classics sparkled in the speech department's Festival Week, January 17 to 21. Two were Medieval—"The Devil Among the Skins" and "Everyman," "Tartuffe" was 17th Century and "Lady of Lyons" Victorian.

Moliere's keen satire, "Tartuffe," took to modern dress and made a season's record with six performances. First staged on Jan. 20 and 21, it was repeated twice for Leadership and taken to Heber and Payson as well. Directors were Kathryn B. Pardoe and Ruth Horr.

Beside the pictured characters, Bernice Kelley and Alys Odell Thompson and Virginia Lee and Ruth Horr had important comedy roles. David Walker, Loraine Adams, Lyda Whicker, and Boyd Lake completed the cast.

EVERYMAN . . .

Opening Drama Week, the Medieval period offered "Everyman," January 17. Best known of the Morality plays, it represented the epitome of religious drama in that age.

The struggle of opposing virtues and vices to possess the soul of man forms the basis of the play. Man, summoned by Death, is forsaken of all save Good Deeds.

In the scene at left, Everyman (Jack Davies) has to reckon with Goods (Carl Swalberg) and Death (George Lewis).

Other characters were Ralph Horlacher, Wayne Rogers, Gwendolene Toland, Dean Peay, Gordon Thomson, Keith Archibald, Boyd Lake, Kay Bunnell, Veon Riggs, Ruth Wall, Lorraine Mason, Blanche Rust, Calvin B. Jolley, and Helen Demos.

The director was Dr. T. Earl Pardoe; associate, Gilbert Tolhurst.

LADY OF LYONS . . .

From the Victorian theater came Bulwer-Lytton's historic play, "Lady of Lyons." It was staged Jan. 18 and 19, with Dr. T. Earl Pardoe and Merline Gardner directing.

Being an early production in the Social Hall of Salt Lake Theater, it had unusual interest. The "Zampa" overture was played, and costumed girls sold candy between acts.

Four periwigged gentlemen are shown in a scene of the melodrama. Oliver R. Smith, seated, as the heroine's father, has to bargain with the villain, Lloyd Peay, center. Elvon Jackson and Dean Peay are witnesses.

Maurine Murdock, Dean Isbell, Patricia Jesse, Vernon Wilcox, Marie Bertelsen, Gail Brown, LeGrand Andrews, Morris Shields, Jay Wilson, Robert Reese, Clifford Nelson, June Barnett, and Amelia Dennison played other roles in the story of 'love and pride.'

Devil Among the Skins Night Must Fall

A hilarious Medieval farce, "The Devil Among the Skins," was staged twice on the campus, and at Ogden and Draper. Gilbert Tolhurst was the coach.

The players, shown above in apprehension of the 'Devil' wrapped in the tanner's pack, are Bruce Wakefield, Veon Riggs, Oliver R. Smith, and Lew White.

"Night Must Fall," tense drama by Emlyn Williams, was the polished presentation of Theta Alpha Phi on March 3 and 4. Dr. T. Earl Pardoe and Lafayette Terry directed an experienced cast of seniors and graduates.

Central characters in the mystery play are Wayne Rogers, Ruth Horr, and Norma Pardoe Wright, in the adjoining picture. Also in the cast were Veon Riggs, Alice Todd, Bruce Wakefield, Gilbert Tolhurst, Merline Gardner, Fae Clark, Jack Gibb.

Merry Wives of Windsor

With all the swashbuckling, farcical humor of Shakespearian comedy, "Merry Wives of Windsor" delighted audiences that bulged the walls of College Hall April 8 and 9. A part was also broadcast over KSL.

In the upper view, Jack Davies, center, is harassed by Messrs. Jensen, Martin, and Lewis. Gilbert Tolhurst, in the "roll" of the rotund Falstaff, eyes the horseplay.

A prank of the Windsor Wives is shown as LeRon Stewart and Morris Shields wrestle with a chest containing the sweet Sir John. Enjoying the deception are Keith Archibald, Blanche Jones, and Roslyn Eddington.

Other players were Vernon Wilcox, Sam Sorenson, Verdi Powell, Bernell Tietjen, De Loy McMullin, George Killian, Dan Peterson, Merwyn Fairbanks, Virginia Sundwall, Marvin Smith, LeGrand Andrews, Jim Coleman. Direction: Dr. and Mrs. Pardoe, Marian Wilson.

The Summer Session

An outdoor man is Dean Asael C. Lambert of the Summer Session. In his spare time he turns to hunting, fishing, and outdoor travel. Inside his ambition is to plan and produce the best summer school in the intermountain area. His duties in the teaching of educational administration bring him into contact with a great many students. He is opposed to the general attitude of the students that social life is the first reason for the existence of institutions of higher learning. In fact, he stated his pet phobia is "the distortion of fundamental intellectual pursuits of a university to an overdose of socialization".

The Graduate School . . .

It is not generally known to his students, but Dean Christen Jensen of the Graduate School is a musician and music lover. He plays the piano and loves grand opera. Not to have his morning newspaper would be to ruin the entire day . . . follows all sports events and could tell you the outstanding man in each. He is personally acquainted with national figures in all walks of life. Here in the University his work consists of the control of the college of which he is dean and the teaching of law and political science. After his retirement he plans to devote his time to the study of law. He has no intention of practicing, but wants to follow it merely as a diversion.

The Extension Division

reaches out to students all over the west who find residence study out of the question. The Home Study department this year offered some 200 different subjects to more than 300 students throughout the mountain states. Most popular were English, History, Sociology, Education, and Religious Education.

In an extra effort to reach the adult population professors of the University travelled to various parts of the state and gave instruction in their respective fields one night each week. There were about 17 such classes, averaging 30 students to the class.

Far reaching in its coverage, the Bureau of Visual Instruction has in stock 580 35 millimeter film strips, 21 sets of glass slides, and 650 reels of motion pictures. In 1937 this bureau served an estimated accumulative audience of 1,380,000 people. Colleges, high schools, seminaries, and C.C.C. campus of the intermountain west were the chief users. Utah institutions were responsible for 90 per cent of the total, the rest going to Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, and Nevada, with a few shipments to South Dakota and Washington.

Smiles

MARRIAGEABLE MAURINE MURDOCK, so titled at the Loan Fund Ball, is a shining example of the Y's friendly spirit.

ALLURING ALICE TODD, secretary, keeps track of more things than minutes . . . Probably won't need teachers diploma.

SUPER-SALESMAN FORD T. ROSE, social chairman, runs contrary to his namesake. Once started he is practically impossible to stop.

PREXY WAYNE ROGERS, a speech major, made himself a reputation as the smooth-tongued murderer of the play "Night Must Fall."

And why shouldn't they be? Elected in the spring of last year, they took over the reins at the beginning of school last fall. Supported by about 2300 students of every conceivable type they went about giving a diversified and systematic administration that left nothing to be desired.

Big chief of the whole affair, Wayne Rogers relied on his dramatic ability to subdue and browbeat the hundreds who thronged College Hall on Fridays.

Charming and gracious, Maurine Murdock, vice president, took over the assemblies after Wayne's hue and cry and introduced delightful programs which varied, on occasion, all the way from Bach and Beethoven to Benny Goodman and Cab Calloway.

Next in line, but no less charming in demeanor, is Alice Todd, notetaker and history keeper-upper of the student body.

And then, holding down that newly created office of Social Chairman is Ford T. Rose. Called "Thomas" on the Pontiac-B.Y.U. national broadcast for you guess-why reasons, Ford is the high pressure man who likes us to know that he was the power behind that show and the founder of its social unit campus edition.

... and the Student Council finds it contagious

The Bricker page? No, the Student Council. Brickers or not, these five people with the four on the preceding page constituted the student council in its entirety. Into their hands we entrusted the duties and responsibilities of leadership which in any large group must be given to a chosen few.

To begin the year the Council took a leading part in the orientation of the new students on the campus. They found time to aid in the presentation of the two varsity shows, the Pontiac B.Y.U. national broadcast, and the campus edition which this year replaced the traditional Pep Vodie.

Carrying on in the interests of the multitude the problem of dance programs was rehashed. It was decided that programs should be used only for special occasions, and another matter of great import was settled.

Probably, though, of greatest importance to the Council was the problem of deciding where, when, and how much they should feed themselves and the visiting councils from Logan and Salt Lake. Mighty perplexing!

Freshmen President

Jay Wilson, of Ogden, bids fair to follow his dad's example as student prexy at Young University.

Now it's Public Service with a smile . . .

For nineteen years the Public Service Bureau has been sending out a program every day. Organized in 1919 this bureau serves a twofold purpose, that of advertising the University, and of developing and promoting student talent and participation. Based upon the idea that the students themselves are the school's best advertisement the service has consistently produced student programs that were far above the average. Daily calls came to the office for programs of the unusual kind, and always they were quickly handled. Throughout the whole of the state of Utah and Idaho, programs of any nature were dispatched. All available talent was rounded up and catalogued at the first of the year, if St. George wanted a Shakespearean play or Malad, Idaho, wanted popular music it could be had almost at a minutes notice.

"Quality and not quantity is what we were after throughout the year," quoth George Killian, student second vice president and head of the organization, when asked to make a statement of his stand. With such a plan in mind he gathered around him the outstanding talent to be had at Young University and molded it into the efficient unit that makes up this year's Public Service Bureau. Personnel, besides Killian, consists of Veon Riggs from way down there in Arizona, Ben Lewis the Salt Lake City Preacher, Mt. Pleasant's Louise Barton, Mary Barkdull's piano pounding Ralph Kirkham, and that stuttering auctioneer and lady of letters, Nadine Gleason.

BIG SHOT GEORGE KILLIAN stepped from last year's prom to P.S.B. Chairman.

STOOGETTE VEON RIGGS brightened assemblies with hair-brained wise cracks.

PREACHER BEN LEWIS went to P.S.B. office from mission field. Good man.

PRIDE AND JOY of Mt. Pleasant Louise Barton is mighty dependable help.

LADY OF LETTERS Nadine Gleason delivered humorous readings all over the place.

and the Associated Women are happy . . .

Taking a stand on that age old question of womens equality and making it stick for a night the Associated Women Students had every reason to be happy. Their big moment came the night of November 19, when they sponsored the annual A.W.S. Preference Ball. For a theme they selected "The Power Behind the Throne" and really went to town at both banquet and dance. Weeks ahead the girls of the University had been turning in preference lists. In some manner each girl was allotted one man for the evening, and a total tabulation of slips showed that Willie Stevens was most in demand. He was duly crowned A.W.S. King by Anneliese Buggert, committee member and daughter of the faculty's Gustave Buggert.

And then a gorgeous Junior Prom, Killian sure spread himself then, didn't he? And finally this year, senior parties and meetings. Soon came time for cap and gown orders, invitations, baccalaureate and graduation. Memories to treasure forever.

You

danced at the prom with

THE JUNIORS...

The Prom! Talk about swell! Do you remember how it all came about? Discussions in class meeting last fall, finally candidates were nominated and you reduced the number to two. The following week the whole student body voted Ed Clyde in. Eddie went right to work, you remember, and selected a committee. Then work and work, and there it was, "A Heavenly Rendezvous". There were stars and space ships, and neon lights and mythical people from out in space. At 11:00 o'clock a big space ship came down from the ceiling and the favors, cameos, were given you. It's so awfully much fun to be a Junior!

Junior Officers

SECRETARY Vernon Christensen is right hand to Dean of Men . . .
VICE PRESIDENT Eliethe Fillmore keeps the bookstore out of the red . . .
PRESIDENT Willie Stevens is student presidential timber . . .

Representative Juniors

JACK DAVIES . . . Y News Editor and Viking had a big year.

ORA CHRISTENSEN . . . A.W.S. officer, keeps her eye on K. Clark.

ED CLYDE . . . prom chairman, went out for student office.

EMMA SCHOW . . . A.W.S. officer comes from long line of brightlights.

Well, Juniors do things. This year was memorable in junior history. They sponsored just about the best Prom we have managed to have here. There is no question that it was different with its "Heavenly Rendezvous" theme. Ed Clyde should be thanked for that. He, along with the other three at the top of the page and the officers on the opposite page, were selected as the most representative juniors. At the left is another shot of that Junior-Senior party. Some of the balloons contained coins . . . accounts for the reach. The photos below look like the aforesaid prom.

Secretary K. B. Sauls, Professor R. D. Law and their wives partake of refreshments . . . Chairman Ed Clyde and partner Betha Jensen . . . Clyde, Willie Stevens and partners pose with the patrons.

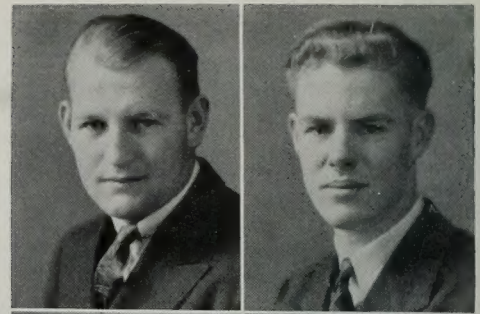

Juniors

step out

Group activity and a sense of wide-awakeness marked the Junior's year. They even achieved a dash of 'esprit de corps'. Thought the class officers: "Our activities too often are in the shadow because general student body events get the big spotlight . . . by keeping things popping we might entice a few members to class meetings, and thus get out from under the cloud." Well, they did!

... turn Balloon Pusters

On November 5th, Juniors first collaborated with Seniors to pack the gym with hydrogen-filled toy balloons and mirth-filled dancers. With "Bubbles" the theme, class names were spelled out with balloons, and coin prizes inside a central cluster led to a brisk scramble. The second class dance, December 3rd, effectively continued the gaiety of the Varsity (radio) Show.

Juniors grow

beards

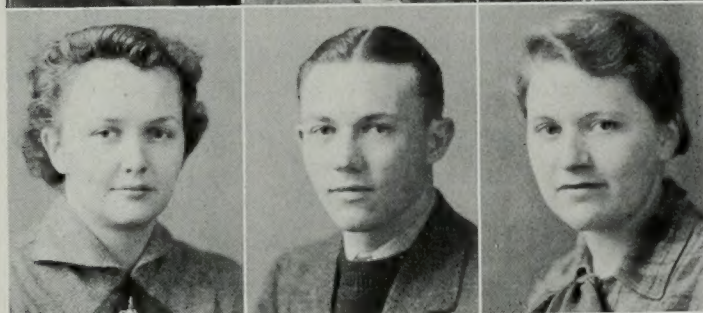

Bristling Junior classmen challenged Senior rivals to a beard-growing version of the annual mustache contest in mid-February. Coaxed out by chairladies Margaret Christensen and Veon Riggs, hirsute appeand-ages blossomed, and honors were split by the two classes with four winners each. Junior standard-wearers were Dan Harrison, Max Bateman, Grant Stewart, DeLoy McMullin.

Planning the Prom

Way, way early, even before fall quarter tests closed in, the Juniors began careful preparation for that event without which their class just wouldn't exist — the Prom. From five nominees the class selected two; in final vote the student body named Ed Clyde to pilot the big fling. He summoned assistants, made elaborate groundwork plans, initiated publicity.

... as a Heavenly Rendezvous

Fertile imaginations brought forth the Prom's theme, "Heavenly Rendezvous." Ed had as lieutenants, Paul Boyer, Helen Holbrook, John Carver, Drew Leonard, Ralph Ungermann, Erma Schow, Sam Calder, Farol Hassell, Joe Strickland, and the class officers. So, on the gay night of March 11, promenaders stepped through the door of a spaceship and waltzed beneath the glow of colored neon.

... thrilled Junior Prom-Goers

Co-eds at their loveliest, men at their handsomest, music at its Swing-iest—romantic young hearts found it easy to be "among the stars". Gold cameo necklaces were the charming favors, lowered in a space-craft. Patrons were: Pres. and Mrs. H. J. Grant, Pres. and Mrs. Harris, Dean and Mrs. Lloyd, Dr. and Mrs. Pardoe, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Clyde, and Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Stevens.

This Class makes history

Juniors played key roles in the year's drama. Sports had Bird, Waters, Leonard, Roberts, Christensen, Jewkes, Beckstead, Bateman, Booth, Pardoe, et al. Ungermann, Wilcox, Walker were tops on stage, Clegg, Carver, Fish, Strickland went places in forensics. Publications were aided by Hassell, Christensen, Jacobs, DeGraff, Pintar.

You

hazed the Frosh with the

SOPHOMORES ...

Well, you finally squared things up. Last year you were so picked on, chased and hazed, thrown in the fountain, forced to sing and eat raw eggs. How you burned inside. "Just wait," you said. Well, everyone waited and this year came your opportunity. You should be ashamed for picking on that little Frosh girl. But she was cute and you had to have some excuse for meeting her. Then, thinking you were completely grown you went on a marriage spree. The Loan Fund Ball you called it, with "Modern Matrimony" as a theme. Met Wilson married you and the girl friend and every other couple present. But it was only for the evening. Heck!

SOPHOMORE OFFICERS

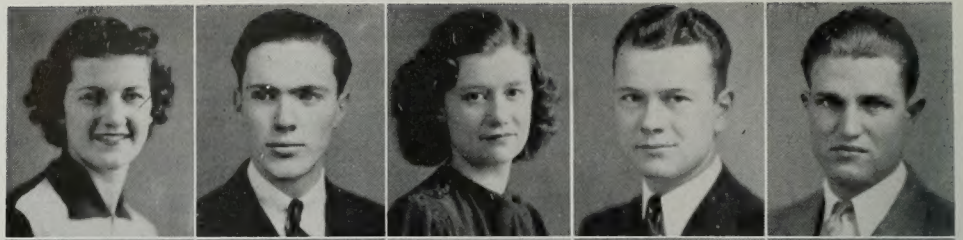

PRESIDENT Verl Clark sold class activity cards . . .
SECRETARY Lyda Whicker was sold on Verl . . .
VICE PRESIDENT Heber Smith made it a crowd . . .

The class officers conceived the brilliant idea of selling the class activity cards. Thus to attend Sophomore activity one must be a Sophomore officially. The plan worked, and at the right we present shots from one of the major parties, the Sophomore-Freshmen Bury the Hatchet Party. At the top is a shot of the crowd, plainly showing the dove of peace the youngsters placed on the back-board. In the center we find Burton Todd pouring drinks, directly behind him is Merlin Slack and girl friend. The gentleman at the left dancing with an arm is none other than Mr. Monroe Paxman. Below is another shot of the crowd.

Sarah Marie Binks, attractive bit of art from Springville, has admirers in a year-round season. As a freshman she kept the log of her class, is now busy in White Key sorority and la Club Francaise. Sally carried the colors of Fidelas social unit among the Banyan's bevy of Sweethearts. She does some individualized "heart-work" as well.

Sophomore

Personalities . . .

Upstanding son of the well-known "Oscar A." is Ned Kirkham, who came into his own by putting on the Soph Loan Fund ball in fall quarter. Its "Modern Matrimony" idea clicked with a mate-minded student body. A week later at the A. W. S. ball he was No. Two popular man on preference lists. Other distinctions are Gold Y, A. K. Psi, and Brickerhood.

Sophomore

Personalities . . .

President
Verl Clark, of the ruddy-hued locks, filled the position of Soph prexy with the traditional presidential smile. Also held frequent "fire-side chats", but usually with class secretary. To the rest of us he was a familiar door greeter at lyceum numbers and devotionals. Managed to be Bricker, Gold Y, and Alpha Kappa Psi during busy year.

Sophomore

Personalities . . .

Comely Lyda Whicker is secretary of more things—Sophomore class, inter-social unit council, and rally committee. On stage she played the ingenue role in "Tartuffe;" in real life stars opposite Verl Clark and other principals. Known for work in White Key, as Advertising Queen for Alpha Kappa Psi, and vice president of Dance Club.

"Modern Matrimony"

The Loan Fund Ball is probably the outstanding thing in the life of the Sophomore at Young University. This year's novel theme of "Modern Matrimony" won the class much prestige. As guests entered they had to sign a marriage certificate (left). After the crowd had gathered Met Wilson performed a mass ceremony (below). Maurine Murdock was selected Model Wife (below left). Chairman Ned Kirkham and partner Neva Strate are happy about it all.

You

were hazed with the

FRESHMEN..

Don't feel sorry for yourself. Of course all those things were hard to bear, senior court, singing the college song. But just think, next year you can get it all back. Next year a gang of green kids, just like you are now, will clutter up the campus and you can have all the fun you want making them behave. Besides, it wasn't so bad anyway, you were in the public eye, had the whole stage. What more could you want? At least it so impressed you with the idea of spotlights and stages that you found time to inaugurate the annual Frosh play. You presented "Stage Door", and we hand it to you, kid, it was good.

CLEO STOLWORTHY... dark-eyed secretary from New Mexico
VIRGINIA SUNDWALL... Sanpete's vice presidential contribution.

LIFE AT COLLEGE—CAREFREE AND GAY!

Days of glorious fun..fellows..girls dates--dances. Founder's Day and Homecoming..football..and before you knew it the quarter had ended ..from final exams to Christmas parties. You hadn't even caught up on your sleep until you were back registering ..two weeks of rushing and goating..varsity show ..and you even managed to squeeze in a basketball game before mid-term. The quarter ended .. leaving you a little breathless and tired . . but it was still fun! And then, spring! Stroll through lovers lane..canyon parties . . moonlight hikes . . girls' day, a date at last with the fellow you'd silently adored all winter. They kept you busy, but how you thrived on Activities!

IN BOOK TWO

HOW ABOUT A DATE FOR THE

LOAN FUND BALL NEXT FRIDAY?

Activities

You

revelled in our exciting

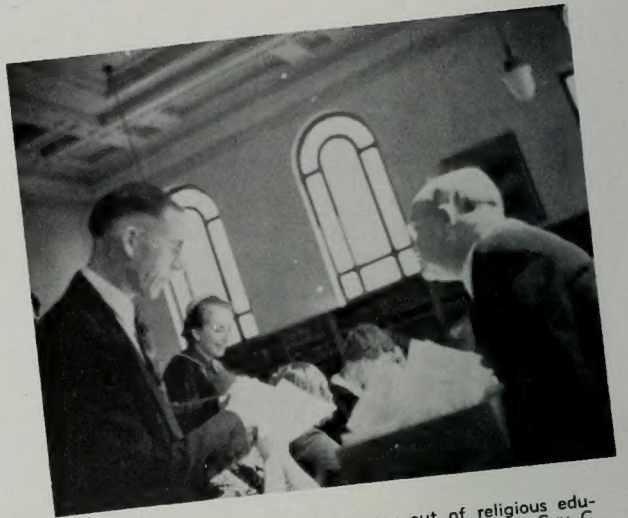

CAMPUS LIFE . . .

Gosh! School was exciting this year. Just one big bunch of fun after another. You recall registration days, there's always something differently interesting then. The student body dances . . . Wednesday matinees, the regular Friday dances, and the special ones like the Loan Fund Ball, the Prom, Girls Day, A.W.S. Ball and all the rest. This year, too, special events like Leadership Week, Y Day, Founder's Day, were the two national broadcasts. Then we had a number of Seems like there just isn't time to worry about lessons, that would be letting college interfere with one's education. What do you say . . . shall we turn the page and live some of these events again?

Beginning another year....

Registration is the order of the day. On September 24, 25, and 27, the doors were opened for the 62nd year of the University. Some 2000 students were on hand for the occasion, each bringing his share of confusion and bewilderment. The procedure was an involved one. First to the office of the Registrar to check on credits. Next down the hall to shake hands with the president. Now in good humor, you became an easy victim of the Treasurer who sent you on to the Library to face your Dean. Despite your carefully preconceived ideas of a desirable course, Friend Dean quietly but firmly told you what you were going to take. Of course you remember that all this was achieved only after waiting through thousands of miles of line. Finally you were all signed up and spent the rest of the time just wandering around. You made new friends and welcomed the old.

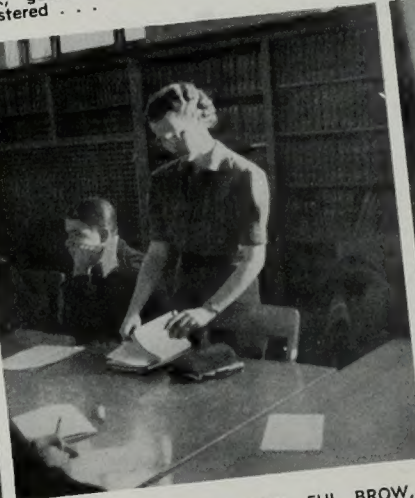

DR. WAYNE B. HALES discusses a problem with Dean T. L. Martin of the College of Applied Sciences . . .

BILL COLTRIN tries to talk his way out of religious education. Two to one he didn't make it. Reasons—Guy C. Wilson and Freda Decker . . .

DEAN GERRIT DEJONG, JR., Fine Arts, okays the schedule of one of his group . . .

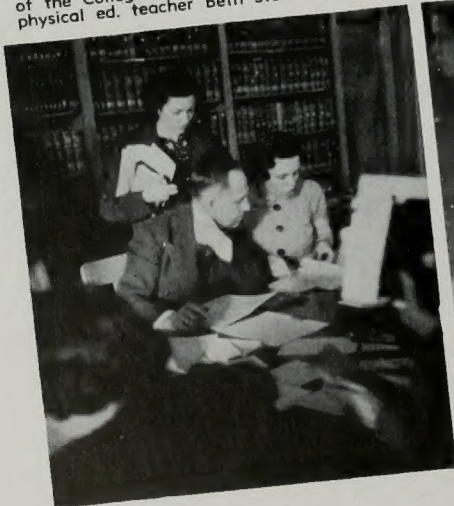

STUDENT VICE PREXY, Maurine Murdock, gathers up her things—she's all registered . . .

ONE OF THE SUTTON TWINS plans her teacher training with Dean A. N. Merrill of the College of Education. Prospective physical ed. teacher Beth Stout looks on.

SUPPORTING A THOUGHT—FUL BROW, Dr. Alonzo Morley counsels Marian Wilson, on ironclad speech requirements.

TO PROF. NICHOLAS' involved chem course explanation Bill Mangum tries to give an intelligent ear . . .

...Freshmen are initiated at Young University

Closely following registration came the Frosh initiations. Carried on under the strict control of the Sophomore police, all offenders were summoned to Senior court. Held at noon and attended by the student body at large, this court meted out all types of laugh-provoking punishments. Indignities of many kinds, including onion-eating and raw-egg shampoos, were heaped upon the youngsters. The week was climaxed on October 8th by the Annual Frosh Trek. Opening with a program in College Hall, it took in all points of interest on the campus and wound up at the Frosh Dance.

THE COLLEGE SONG was heard at anytime or anyplace, sung by Freshmen with the stimulation and direct supervision of the Soph police . . .

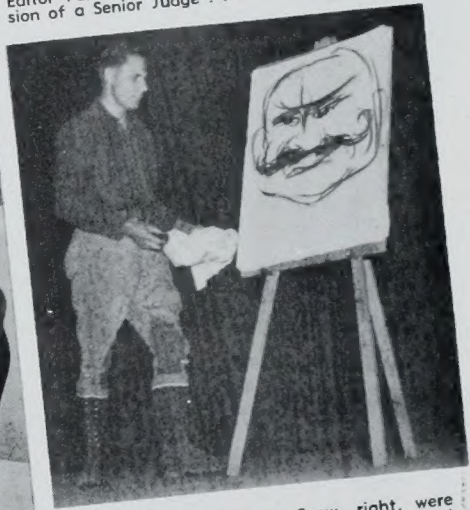

TABOO TO FRESHMEN are front doors of all campus buildings. Caught in the act of violation were these two Frosh girls . . .

FORMER STUDENT PRESIDENT and Banyan Editor Farrell Collett chalk talks his impression of a Senior Judge . . .

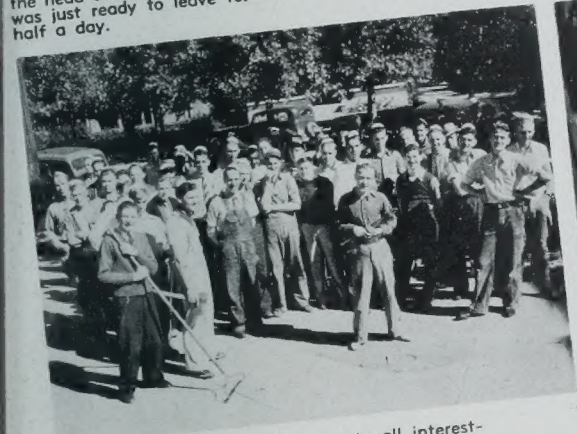

CLEAN THE Y on the east mountain also comes under the head of things to be done by Freshmen. This group was just ready to leave for the work which took about half a day.

HAILED INTO SENIOR COURT that beautiful Bertelsen girl was appropriately punished by Judge Gerald Gillespie with Sophomore Policeman John Weenig's accord.

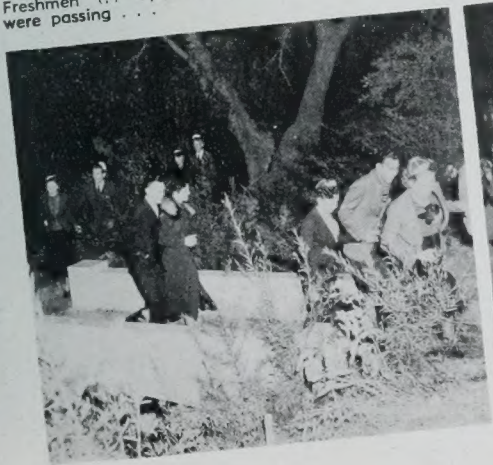

BOUNCERS Lufe Terry, center, and Gordy Snow, right, were entrusted with the special duty of keeping upperclassmen, out much to the embarrassment of Woody Butler . . .

THE TREK takes the young ones to all interesting points on the campus. Unknowingly the photographer shot this one of Lover's Lane just as Freshmen (?) Tyndall, Watson, and Strickland were passing . . .

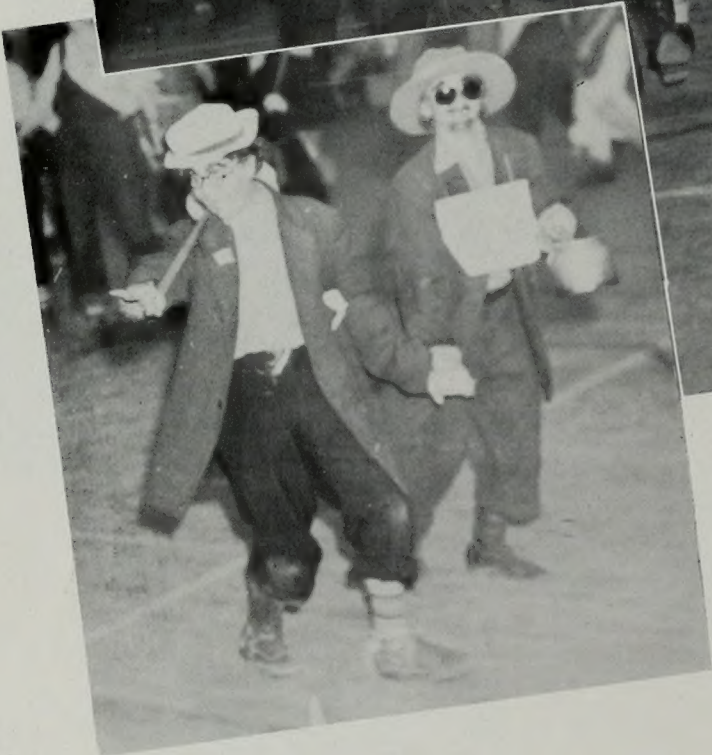

THE DANCE was held exclusively for Freshmen.

Flash

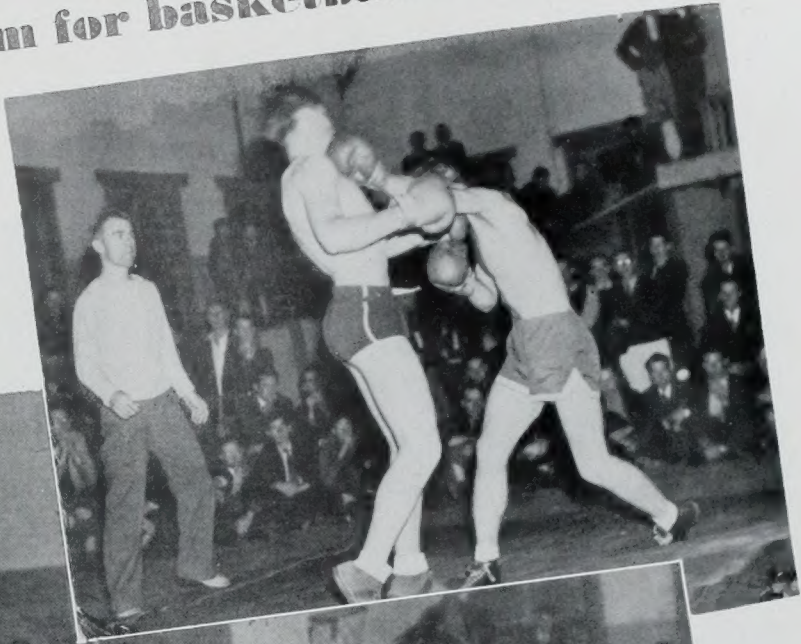

Police round-up underworld characters . . .

Swooping down on Provo's underworld, the police, on October 15, began a vice probe that shook the country. From dark hiding places came a strange procession of hoboes—the ragged, the daft, the deformed and the blind. All were taken to a place of trial. Here they were given one last chance—a chance to prove they could still cut loose—and they did—at the Girls Jamboree in the women's gym! A "Hobo Parade" and stew in tin cans were features of the evening.

Faculty deserts classroom for basketball floor...

Not only that, but the old boys really forgot their scholarly up-bringin' and dignity as they showed the youngsters how they used to "cut up" in the old days. For one evening faculty member and student were on common ground—a smokeless smoker. Pictured: Dean Martin and Arthur Gaeth jump center, and Jim Freestone lays one on Freshman Dahlquist.

Scoop

comes but once each year . . .

PROFESSOR SAUER, in characteristic pose, leads a rousing march by the University band before the ceremonies in the Library reading room.

WHITE KEYS Anneliese Buggert, Bonna Ashby, Ora Christensen, and Marian Wilson set the pace down University Hill.

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICERS and faculty take place behind the band. President Harris, T. N. Taylor, and Stephen L. Chipman.

SENIORS AND JUNIORS, in small numbers, are seen as they participated in the Founder's Day parade.

This year, as always, the students and faculty "took five" from their school work to celebrate Founder's Day. The celebration, on October 16, was particularly momentous this time because it saw the breaking of the ground for the first of what we hope is that long looked for group of new buildings.

The day was opened with a concert by the band in front of the library building. Following this everyone went inside to the reading room where exercises were held. At the close of the program, the White Keys led the parade from the hill, followed by the band, the board of trustees, faculty, and the various classes down through to the training school students. The march ended at the site of "Allen Hall", boys new cooperative dormitory on the corner of First East and Seventh North. Here, during a short ceremony, the ground was officially broken by President T. N. Taylor.

TO THE LEFT, President F. S. Harris of the University and Stephen L. Chipman of the Board of Trustees inspect the grounds preparatory to the ceremony.

BOTTON LEFT, President Harris talks over the plans with the contractor. The building, started in October, was ready for occupancy in March.

BOTTON RIGHT, President T. N. Taylor, of the Board of Trustees, officially breaks the ground and the actual construction is begun.

The classes take a week-end off to play . .

It's "hands up" for money-containing balloons . . Ariel Sharp hides his love from prying photographers.

On Friday, November 5th the Juniors and Seniors forgot their upperclass dignity and "let themselves go" at a balloon dance. At 11 o'clock balloons containing coins were dropped from the ceiling.

On Saturday the Sophomores and Freshmen buried the hatchet. 'Midst doves, white flags, and whatnots, the babyhood of Brigham traded rattles and dances.

REGISTRAR HAYES, left center, seems rather dubious about accepting the "spirits". Burton of the Denver Todds pours the drinks.

'Neath doves of peace the Sophs and Frosh joined hands and played ring around the rosie.

These were interesting items from here and there . . .

PROFESSOR ED. M. ROWE has definitely decided that things aren't what they were in the good old days. Picture by Strebel, LIFE MAGAZINE'S photographers Hansel and Haggel Mieth, visited the campus in late October.

UNKNOWN TO US is this young man who so diligently practices the motto on the pillow. Of course he's preparing—how can he stay awake in class tomorrow without sufficient sleep?

STREBEL—he of the prying eye—has the tables turned on him. Another camera catches him stealing (yes) apples.

COMMON SIGHT in most religious ed. classes—Cornell Peters dreams of days to come or something.

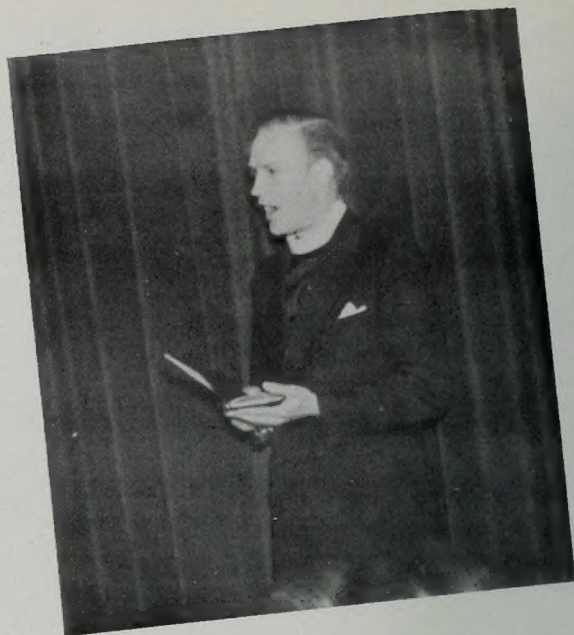

On this page we offer a few shots from here and there. They have no particular connection to each other except that they help to picture this year that we found so interesting. CHARTER MEMBERS of the Brigham Young Photographic Arts Society, left center, are twelve people who have more than a passing interest in photography as a means of expression. KARL MILLER supervises the picking and sorting of hundreds of bushels of apples from the University's orchards.

HASH is the title of this one. We're sorry but it's the best we could do. It seems the Sophomores and Freshmen were having a friendly little sack rush between halves.

For better and for mirth

"Met" Wilson—most eligible campus bachelor—(until he met Marian last fall) turns preacher. In a mass ceremony he married fellows and girls of the university—for an evening. The occasion was the annual Sophomore Loan Fund Ball—November 12—women's gym. The sophomore class elected Ned Kirkham chairman—he chose as committeemen Wilbur Woolf, Carl Lindley and Verl Clark, class president. Together they worked out plans for an evening of "Modern Matrimony". As each couple entered the hall they registered and received a marriage license. The ceremony was performed at ten. Later in the evening Maurine Murdock, vice-prexy, was chosen as "Model Wife". The ticket sale was large and the class turned over a large sum to the Loan Fund.

Willie is A.W.S. King...

Willie Stevens rewards Anneliese Buggert with his famous grin—as she awards him an inscribed A.W.S. wallet and title of "preferred man". Willie was found to be the most popular fellow on the campus as a result of the first A.W.S. preference ball. Each girl handed in names, in one, two, three, four, order of fellows she wanted to attend the ball with. If she was lucky she escorted one of the fellows to the ball. On the appointed day, all the fellows hovered anxiously around the list of those receiving invitations—and then rushed to the table to see who the "lucky girl" was. The dance was held in the ladies gym with "Women Behind the Throne" as theme—was great success and promises to be an annual affair.

Fellows and girls throng around the "giver-outer of invitations to A.W.S. Ball" table. Some of the lucky fellows attending the A.W.S. Ball—and their partners take a "pause that refreshes."

It was crowded—probably one of the largest dances of the year.

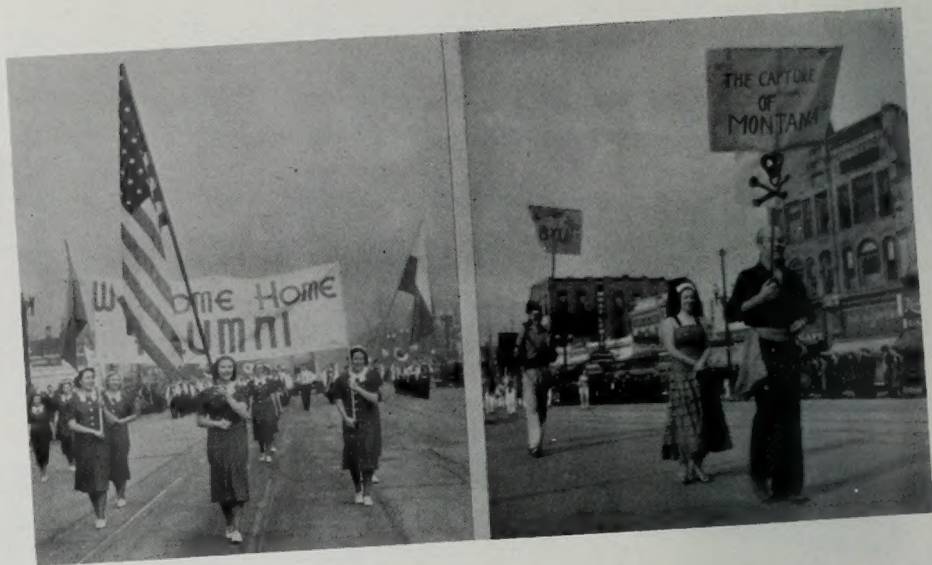

Meet the "power" behind the event—A.W.S. Recreational leader O R A CHRISTENSEN.

Homecoming Parade . . .

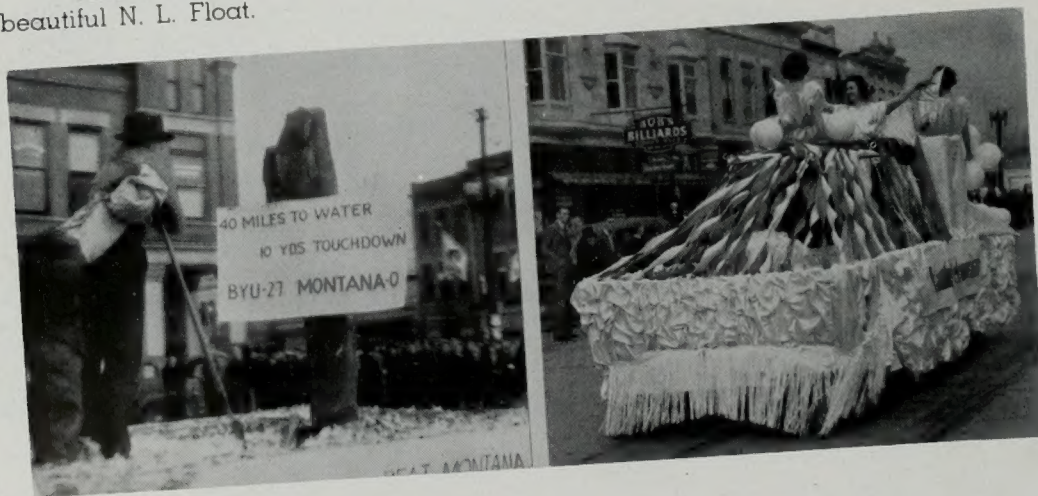

As is customary, the social units and organized groups on the campus made up the Homecoming Day parade on November 20th. The White Key honorary service girls were color bearers. Miss Audrey Rasmussen carried the national flag. This group was followed by the band and the various clubs. Prize for the most novel idea was won by Em Anon with a funeral march, Val Hyrics came second. Nautilus entry was judged the most beautiful. Miss Bonna Ashby was queen, and reigned over the entire day.

Below; the Em Anons chant a funeral dirge as they march. Miss Bonna Ashby, queen and her attendants. The Val Hyrics hang the Montana "Bobcat" in a "Y knot".

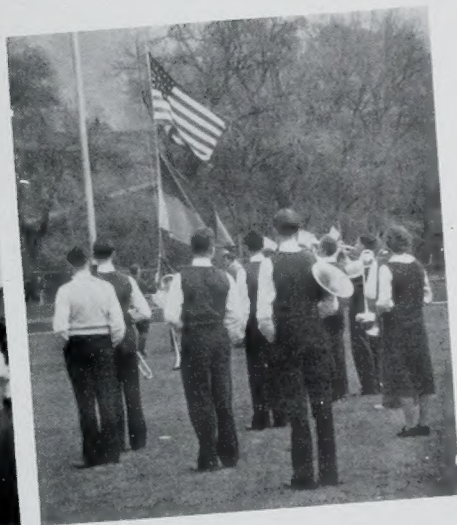

Arizona Club turned out typical Arizona scenery as its contribution. The beautiful N. L. Float.

... Game and Dance

The afternoon and evening was amply filled with a game and dance. The Cougars concluded a highly successful season with a well-earned 19-0 victory. Far left; Lyle Evans, Helen Petty, and Dorothy McGuire are excited (your legs show, girls). Near left; Ruth Stout and Faye Roberts are tickled about something. Center; Clara Jensen gives vent to her feelings ... and lungs. Next; a flag ceremony at half-time is traditional. Lower left, prey Wayne Rogers is a camera hound; he likes to have his picture taken. Below; Queen Bonna Ashby dances with coach Eddie Kimball.

Note—If you are pleased with the program it would be an appreciated act of courtesy to write to Pontiac Motor Division, Pontiac, Michigan, after the broadcast.
CARLTON CULMSEE, Alumni Secretary.

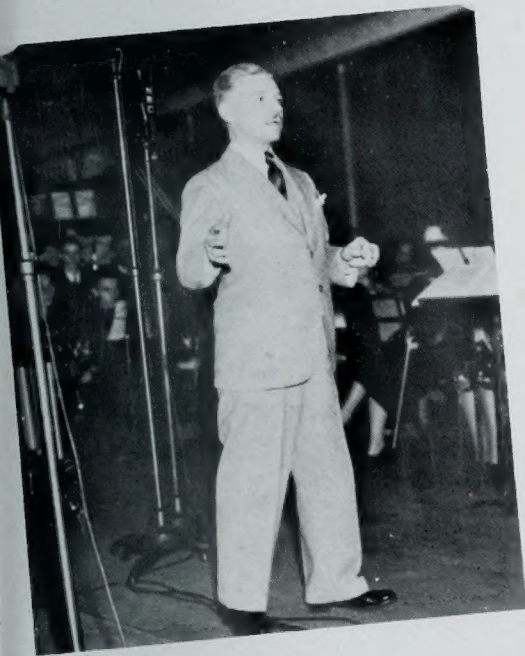

Early in November, Mr. Thomas Stix of the Souvaine advertising agency visited the campus to lay plans for Brigham Young night on Pontiac's Varsity Show over a coast-to-coast network. He was followed by Mr. Gordon White, who spent two weeks auditioning numbers and rehearsing for the big night, set for December 4th.

At the top, Mr. Stix discusses plans with our Harrison R. Merrill. Gordon White talks to the student body at a welcome program. Center, Mr. White and student prexy, Wayne Rogers, chew the rag at rehearsal. Lower, Mr. Paul Dumont, Master of Ceremonies, arrives and aids in rehearsal. Ford "Thomas" scratches his ear, here's one thing he can't figure out.

Came December 4, and we're on the air for one half hour. The program included a mixture of popular, classical, and semi-classical works. The University band and orchestra, the Swing Band, Coed Chorus, Trumpet Trio, and several other campus groups, took part. At the top the technician listens to chimes in New York and prepare to cut Young in. Center; Mr. Dumont was held. Lower: the Utah Stake tabernacle where the show Dean Alsop, and Dean Steineckert, hit it up. Ted Maynard sings from one of Prof. Wm. F. Hansen's operas. Professor LeRoy J. Robertson directs the orchestra.

Jottings . . .

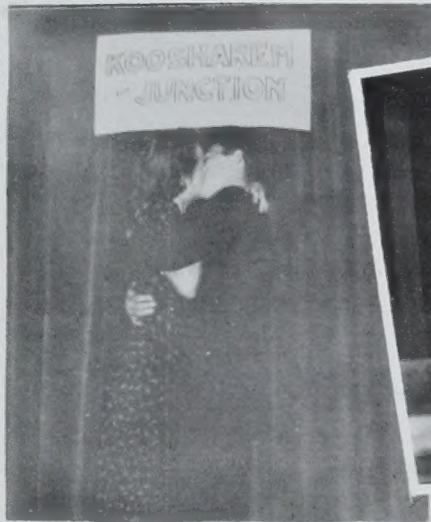

Each year so many little things of interest happen that to cover them would take a volume in itself. We have tried to select some of the highlights for you in this section, and this page covers several which are worthy of mention. Right; cheerleaders TED BECK and RALPH WINTERTON. Next below is the rally committee we'd say Winterton doesn't believe Ford. Early in the winter quarter AVARD FAIRBANKS, former Utah and prominent American sculptor, visited and lectured on our campus. First, he demonstrates the Egyptian, stiff, unlife-like pose. Next finds him working on his model. Finally, he is seen with his father, J. B. Fairbanks, Utah artist. Lower; the annual Snow Carnival was held this year in Daniels Canyon; STAN CLARK, Ski Club president, is on the rear of the toboggan. J. T. HARWOOD, the Dean of Utah painters, came to visit us in the fall before sailing for an extended stay in France.

Programs . . .

Three times each week assemblies are held at Young University. Three times each week students gather in tradition rich College Hall to witness inspirational and enjoyable hours. Mondays, the programs are devoted to appreciation subjects. Wednesdays bring prominent lecturers and faculty members. Fridays are student programs and may be either Young University talent or exchange programs from other Utah colleges.

Clubs and various other groups are assigned hours and the whole is under the direction of Miss Maurine Murdock, student vice prexy. At left; Santa Claus visited the campus at the last program of the fall quarter. Next; the Smith brothers lay an egg in the name of the Y News. Across the center; Utah U. boys present a skit on the exchange hour. Delta Phi gives a lesson in how it's done, those boys! Bob Reese, of the soothing tenor voice, sings on the Banyan program. Lower row; the Prom program with Clyde, Christensen, Fillmore, and Stevens. Frank Fister of the A. C. with a pair of nifties. Vice prexy Murdock gives Wayne Softe his block Y, Rogers beams.

Parties . . .

Social life is varied at Young U. To support our contention we present photos from a Junior Prom to a Bowery Brawl. Each year the student body sponsors a great many parties, and this total is increased by club and social unit functions. Such life is the spice of college, and we offer these typical shots. First, at left, is ED CLYDE, Prom chairman, and his partner, Beth Jensen. Leland Priday, 1936 Banyan editor, stands under the neon sign. Across the center is more variety. The "woo" twins, TOM PETERSON and DALE JONES, attend the Viking Jiggs party. HARVEY MOORE receives a free airplane trip to L. A. from Banyan Manager Harold Larsen. VAL HYRICS invited guests to an Invitational. And then, lower, THE BRICKERS line up for a photo at the Misit. The last two snaps cover the BRIGADIER Bowery Brawl, the last one especially tells all, cause "Tweet" Bird cuts Kent Clark's grass. How could you?

... Varsity Show

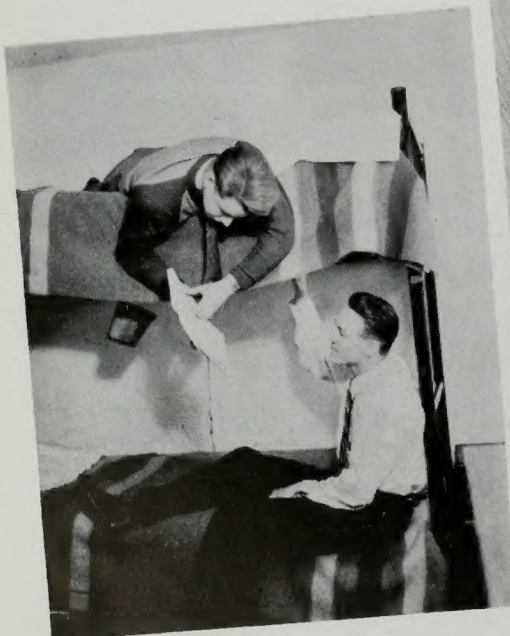

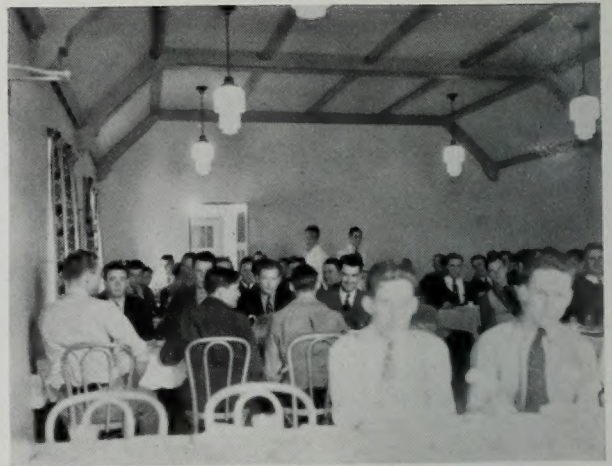

Thanks to Ford T. Rose's fertile brain the rather worn Pep Vodie this year became the Varsity Show. However, a change of name in no way prevented the Vikings from winning again. The song and dance act went over so well last year that Hawaii gave them material for a similar program. Funniest were Charles Fletcher, Monroe Paxman, and Kay Bunnel as ship-wrecked, half-cracked sailors. Other winners were Val Norr, center, and Nautilus, shown here in rehearsal. Finalists, but not in the money, were La Vadis, Bricker, and Brigadier acts.

"Nuts of Allen Hall"

The building started on Founder's Day, October 16, 1937 (page 153) was completed in March and became known as Allen Hall, honoring prominent contributors to the University building fund. Too new to be very heavily steeped in tradition we have secured a few shots which we feel will represent typical situations in the years to come.

To begin the parade, however, we have one actual shot; that of the dining hall (at the right). Across the center we find HAM REBENTISCH on the floor, a nightmare has unceremoniously dumped him from a top berth. Next, BRIANT JACOBS sneaks in from Barbara Tietjen's rather early to find his room mate holding the door Bottom Row finds CRANDALL GIDDINGS (lower) and his partner doing a bit of studying. Next to it is Allen Hall itself.

... of interest

For nearly a score of years the University has annually played host to hundreds of Leadership Week visitors. The event, held each January draws adults from the entire west with programs which serve to fill the education need so many feel. Rather typical are the three photos we present. First, at left; visitors inspect the photo exhibit which brought salon prints from many of America's outstanding photographers. In the center: Mr. W. O. Robinson, of the M. I. A. Board, dances with student Virga Bartholomew. The next picture is typical of the crowd the school accommodated.

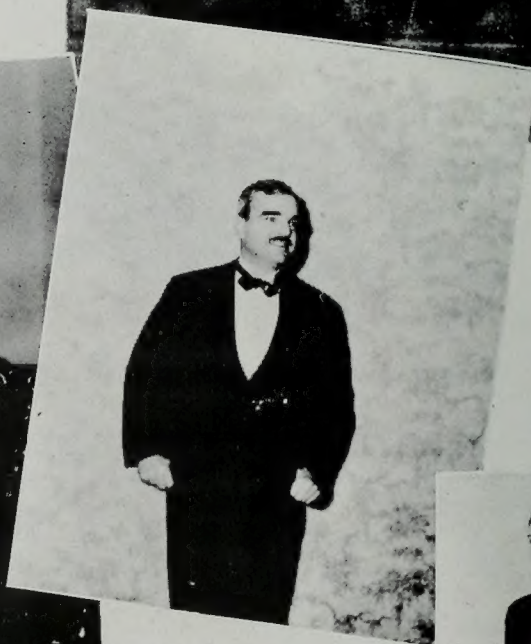

In conclusion, maybe we have heard enough of the band uniform situation. To seniors it has been a cry for four years. Well, it was worth it, they look swell. And finally final, is GEORGE. Strelbel has been responsible for about 95% of the pictures, outside of portraits, taken on this campus. Long life to George, the Banyan likes him.

Outstanding

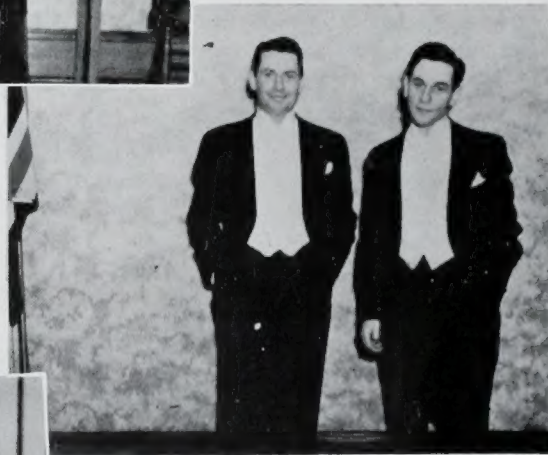

This year the Lyceum program became known as the Provo Community Concert Association. The programs were held in the Utah Stake Tabernacle to accommodate the large crowds. The program was started by Nicholas Roosevelt, formerly United States Minister to Hungary and Vice Governor of the Philippines. He was followed throughout the year by twenty-two other personalities.

Lyceum Program

Mary Ellen Chase, outstanding American author and professor of English literature at Smith College, came to our University on the night of Thursday, January 20. She was preceded, on January 17, by Luther King, prominent colored tenor, shown here with his wife. Just below Mr. King is Wilbur Evans and his accompanist. Mr. Evans is a distinguished American baritone and is heard on the radio weekly. Lower left is George Slocombe, noted European journalist and chief correspondent for the London "Daily Herald". He was heard on Monday, November 29. Next to him is Mrs. Forbes—Robertson Hale, actress, author, and lecturer.

... a magician

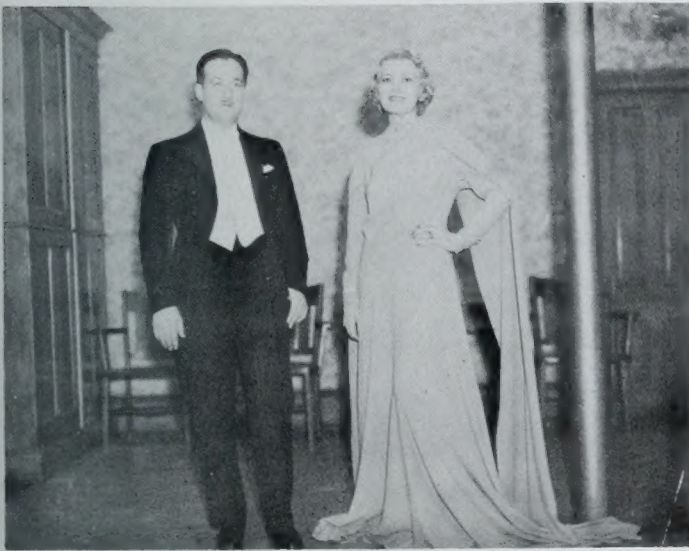

Our Lyceum program was continued with the appearance of John Mulholland on Monday, January 31. Mr. Mulholland is a world famous magician and former instructor at Teachers College, Columbia University. Next we find Gasper Cassado (at the right) and his accompanist, Mr. Hans Horwitz. At the bottom is Ethan Colton, annual visitor, and Mischa Elman, world-renowned violin virtuoso.

... a poet

William Rose Benet, eminent American poet, heads this last page of distinguished visitors to our campus. In the center is Helen Jepson, leading soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Association, and her accompanist. Appearing on May 2, Miss Jepson was the last of this year's group. Across the bottom; Stuart Chase, famous economist and author. S. K. Ratcliffe, British lecturer and journalist. Thus was concluded the greatest year of the University Lyceum Committee, a year which brought untold wealth to students and townspeople in the form of this extra-curricular activity.

The Banyan is probably the only college annual in the United States which is produced practically entirely by students. Outside of such things as covers, binding, etc., all work is done right here on the campus. Student craftsmen plan and make the layouts and pictures, do the printing and assembling. HONORARIES . . .

Honoraries! What a high sounding word that is. Way back in those Freshman days you often wondered about them; how one got in and what they did there. Remember how the student prexy was a Blue Key and big sister belonged to Theta Alpha Phi. Then time sped by and now you will turn the page and see yourself there among the supposedly select. You came to college knowing all the time you would be a success in your field. Well, they just couldn't keep you out. You soon showed them. Honoraries generally don't do much in the social field, but they do bring a lot of prestige to members. Next page, White key, first of the honoraries.

A local honorary for girls who have distinguished themselves in extra-curricular work. Though they sponsor a formal dinner dance and a number of other parties their function is largely that of service. MARIAN WILSON of the Val Norn sisterhood is president. N. L.'s MARTHA COLEMAN is vice president. MAJ JACOBS, Fidelas' capable president is club secretary and treasurer. Their smart costumes are seen at all special student functions where minute men and errand runners are needed.

Blue Key, national honorary leadership frat, has no social calendar. Its activity is concerned with the sponsoring of various campus projects. This year, as always, they took full charge of the Frosh Trek in the fall quarter, were instrumental in the Invitational Track Meet, Leadership Week and other University programs. As minute men they handled a number of student body parties and dances. Camera-carrying VERN HALES was president, GORDON SNOW, vice president, GRANT HOLT, secretary and treasurer, and GEORGE KILLIAN, corresponding secretary.

Underclassmen's honorary is this group. Their existence seems to be primarily for the purpose of doing jobs Blue Key doesn't care to tackle. JAY S. BROADBENT, Bricker, is president. MARTELL BIRD, Brigadier, is vice president. PHIL JENSEN, J. FRED AHLANDER, and ROBERT G. HODSON are secretary, treasurer, and reporter, respectively. In an advisory capacity are faculty members Carlton Culmsee and Harold T. Christensen.

A.W.S. in disguise, the Mentors are upperclass girls of the University who feel it their especial duty to take new girls in tow and see that they become oriented to life at Young U. Presided over by A.W.S. officers, BONNA ASHBY, MARTHA COLEMAN, ERMA SCHOW, and ORA CHRISTENSEN, the girls are divided into groups of two. Each group takes about 20 new girls and becomes big sisters, sponsoring novel and interesting parties. A special attempt is made to organize new girls units. A very commendable work this . . .

A. K. Psi has an activity list as long as the officer group. September 25 saw a farewell banquet for Dr. A. Rex Johnson. Talks by H. V. Hoyt, Maud May Babcock, Earl J. Glade, and Claude G. Salisbury came in that order. Parties included a Thanksgiving luncheon, Formal Dinner Dance (page 253), a get-together with U. of U. Chapter. The Advertising Ball was tops in the spring quarter. Final rituals and a Mother's Tea climaxed the year.

The local chapter of Delta Phi national honorary returned missionary fraternity is probably one of the strongest organized groups on our campus. The boys have all been out in the world and have fought and stood for what they believed true. Drilled in these principles it is no wonder they are strong for each other. Annually they hold a number of parties, chief of which are a chapter formal here in Provo and a tri-chapter formal with the other two Utah chapters.

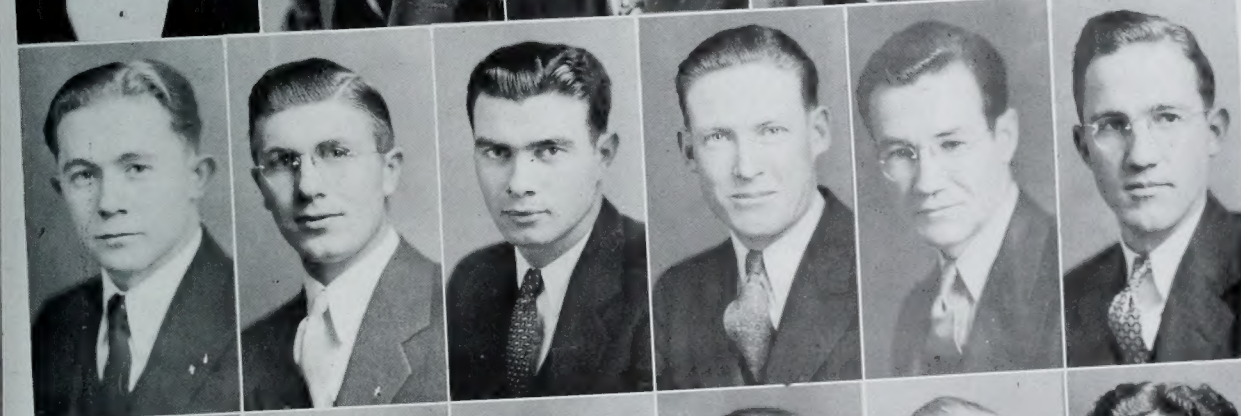

Globe-trotting ARTHUR GAETH of the long legs and soft ball ability is this year's chief preacher. Gentleman KENNETH TAYLOR was entrusted with the vice presidential cares. MORRIS E. SORENSON puts down the black marks for the unfaithful. Then that other man who has been to school all over the country, OLIVER "from Palmyra, New York" SMITH is the national delegate.

Theta Alpha Phi, National Honorary dramatic fraternity, was installed on this campus in 1924. Its activity is dictated by MISS MERLINE GARDNER, president; SAM SORENSON of Springville, vice president; BETH PRATT, secretary; and JACK GIBB, university psychology instructor, handles the historian's work. Annually the organization sponsors various dramatic presentations, and are always found ushering at department plays.

Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary forensic fraternity, was organized in Indiana in May 1908, and installed on this campus in May 1922. One of the oldest honorary organizations on the campus, it has reason to be proud. Provo's ED MOE this year handles all the duties connected with the president's chair. Formally organized at an installation banquet on March 12, 1938, PHI CHI THETA is the local chapter of a national womens business fraternity. MISS LUCILLE FOWKES was installed as the first president. As assistants she was given MISS MARY CALLAN for vice-president, and MISS LAVINIA LUDLOW for secretary and treasurer. Reaching out into the social they sponsored a number of luncheons and inspirational meetings, and on April 14 entertained guests at an Invitational Dancing party.

Phi Delta Pi, national professional physical education fraternity, was organized in Indianapolis, Indiana, in 1916. The local, Xi chapter, was installed on this campus November 21, 1931. This year LAURA CHADWICK of Ogden is president, ALTA SPALDING occupies the vice president's office, and BETH STOUT, girl's day chairman, is secretary. The sponsors on this campus are Aline C. Out of the din of the college building comes, from time to time, noise a little above the average. Just as soon as that noise reaches the semblance of better music its maker is set upon and pledged by Upsilon Chi Mu, honorary music frat. This group, organized in 1934, is composed of outstanding students of the department. Its function is that of furthering music appreciation in the University. Heading the group are NEWELL B. WEIGHT, president, DEARWYN SARDONI, vice president, NADINE GLEASON, secretary-treasurer, DEANE ALSOP, reporter, and HELEN JOHNSTON, socials.

This honorary, as its name implies, is composed of the men students of the University who qualified as Eagle Scouts in the Boy Scouts of America. They carry on in an attempt to keep the qualities of the scout movement alive in older boys. Brigadier president JOSEPH PACE holds a like position here. Captain FOREST BIRD of the 1938 Cougar football squad is vice president, and HEBER J. SMITH of Salt Lake City is secretary.

SOCIAL UNITS

That queer kind of thing native to Brigham Young University. The administration banned social frats because of the expense and substituted social units, frats on a minor scale. That is what you wanted when you came here, because you thought that not to belong was not to rate. Nuts! You didn't realize what you were in for. All during rush week you were dined and wined, treated like a king. Boy, that was the life! Parties and special invitations. Then one day you signed and were pledged. What a rude awakening, the next day you were just a goat who mopped floors, ran silly errands, and ate indigestible things. Finally though, you were pledged and allowed to have your picture on the following pages.

Control of the social unit system of the University is vested in these people. They are the presidents of the twenty-one organized social groups on the campus. Each week they meet and formulate the policy which keeps the system working smoothly. GRANT HOLT, Brick-er, is president. MAJ JACOBS, Fidelas, is vice president, and LYDA WHICKER, La Vadis, is secretary. In addition to those pictured, Nettie Neff Smart, Dean of Women, and Registrar John E. Hayes are faculty members.

Here is one group that took advantage of the Mentor system to become a social unit. Leah D. Harris and June Bateman receive much of the credit, for though they are already affiliated they did all they could to see that their mentor group organized into a permanent group. Go-getter CLARA JENSEN is the first president; KARLYN CHATFIELD, vice-president; ALTA CHRISTENSEN, secretary; ALTA NEILSON, treasurer; and BETH TUFT, reporter. Activities: Formal pledging of Charter members, an Invitational, and a number of stags.

Each unit holds meetings and get-togethers too numerous to mention, but a few parties stand out so much that not to mention them would be to forget the unit entirely. Those parties, which Alta Mitra sponsored, were a deliriously funny Scavenger Hunt in the fall quarter, an Invitational Dancing Party in the winter, and a highly successful Formal Dinner Dance in the spring . . .

Gunnison sent PHYLLIS HERMANSEN up here to be president of Alta Mitra this year. RAMONA HINCKLEY came all the way from Chicago to be vice president. Athletically inclined JEAN WEBB holds down the secretary and treasurer work, and CLARA MCOMIE writes the unit history. That, in our opinion, is a mighty efficient group of officers, and their work bears us out.

To AUDREY RASMUSSEN, president, goes credit for this year of achievement in the life of Cesta Tie. She and her assistants filled the year with a variety of activity which meant never a dull moment. The above mentioned assistants are found in the persons of HELEN HOLBROOK, vice president; MARJORIE KILLPACK, secretary and treasurer; and LA PRIEL WINTERTON, reporter. MRS. LOREN C. BRYNER has been active as unit sponsor.

The activity saw a Christmas Tea as the major program in the fall quarter. Typical of unit functions in the winter was a Balloon Dance. Then in the spring came activity galore in the form of the Annual Invitational Dancing Party, the Spring Formal at Memory Grove in Salt Lake City, and an Old Mill Party.

MARGARET JOHNSON, president, IONE JENSEN, vice president, LYDIA ALLRED, secretary and treasurer, and HELEN DEMOS, reporter, of the unit saw fit to fill the calendar with so many and so different activities that this year has been really worthwhile for members. Beginning with the annual Birthday Tea in the fall quarter, each activity was planned to give an interesting variety that would keep up group interest. How well they succeeded can be seen by a glance at the calendar on the next page.

The calendar, as planned by the officers, opened with a Birthday Tea early in the fall quarter. A second item of special interest in that quarter was the Christmas Dance. The winter quarter saw an exciting Valentine Party and a highly commendable Mother's Tea. Concluding unit activities in the spring quarter, they sponsored a Barn Dance, a novel Slumber Party, and a Senior Breakfast. It was really an exciting and eventful year for members of the group.

MAJ JACOBS, selected typical leadership student, qualifies her selection in her duties as Fidelas president. Possessing the only neon shield on the campus, much credit is due Maj and the rest of the officers for an outstanding year. These other officers include CAROL TANNER, vice prexy, LEONA NELSON, secretary and treasurer, and BLANCHE STEWART, reporter. May their stars shine bright and long.

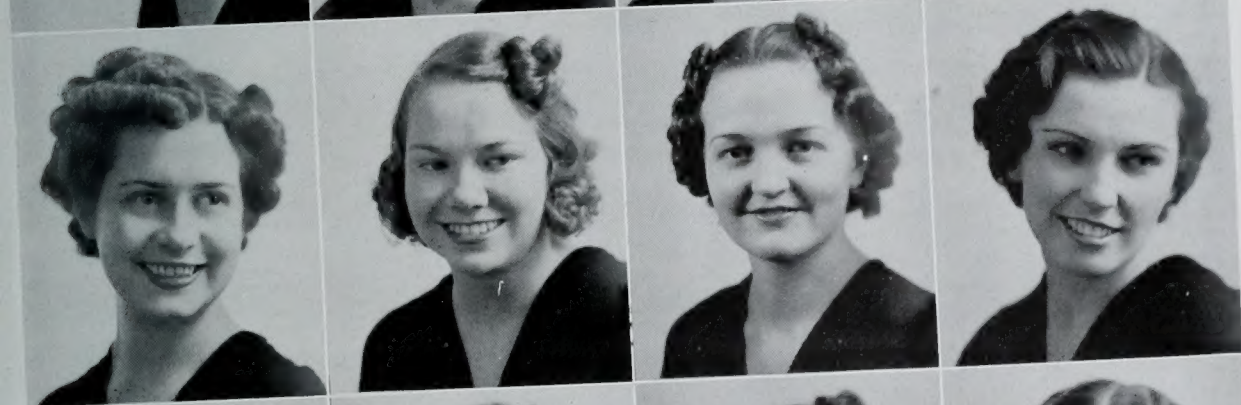

A full calendar kept the Fidelas girl happy. An Autumn Tea started things. Then an Invitational Dancing Party, a Xmas Party, and a Formal Dinner Dance at Salt Lake's Hotel Utah. Moving on we might mention the numerous rush parties scattered over the year, a dancing party on one of the boats at Utah Lake, an Easter and a Graduation Breakfast, and a Mother's Tea.

ELCEE LAW, president, mixed things up for the Banyan when she changed horses in the middle of the stream. We started out by calling her Elcee Law, then in the middle of the winter quarter she changed it to ELCEE L. HODSON. You'll find it both ways in this here volume. Anyway, the rest were more consistent. A mighty good bunch of officers were LOUISE WEST, vice president, EDITH HEYWOOD and VIRGINIA MEILING, secretary and treasurer, and reporter ORA ANN SMITH.

Activity was plentiful this year in La Vadis. The Annual Christmas Dance was the big party in the fall. A little later came the New Year's Tea. Then the 1938 Traffic Jam-Dance Invitational, a Candle Light Dance, an Apron and Overall Dance, and the year was concluded with the annual Formal Dinner Dance in Salt Lake City.

DOROTHY HEDQUIST held down the secretary and treasurer job, and MARGARET CHRISTENSEN and FLO ELLERTSON were historian and reporter, respectively.

Numbered among the oldest units on the campus, Nautilus held its seventeenth birthday celebration in the fall quarter. The members and partners froliced at a Halloween dancing party . . . invited guests to "Club Nautilus" for the annual Christmas invitation formal . . . honored their mothers at a Mother's Day tea in May . . . entertained boy friends at a formal dinner dance and old mill party in the spring . . . made plans for annual garden party held in the summer.

Directly behind her stand Provo's HELEN CLARK, vice president, Helen's neighbors DOROTHY DURRANT and DORIS ALDER as secretary and treasurer. Then, being cosmopolitan, they went to "Whizzer" White's Boulder, Colorado, and cornered NORMA JACKSON for reporter.

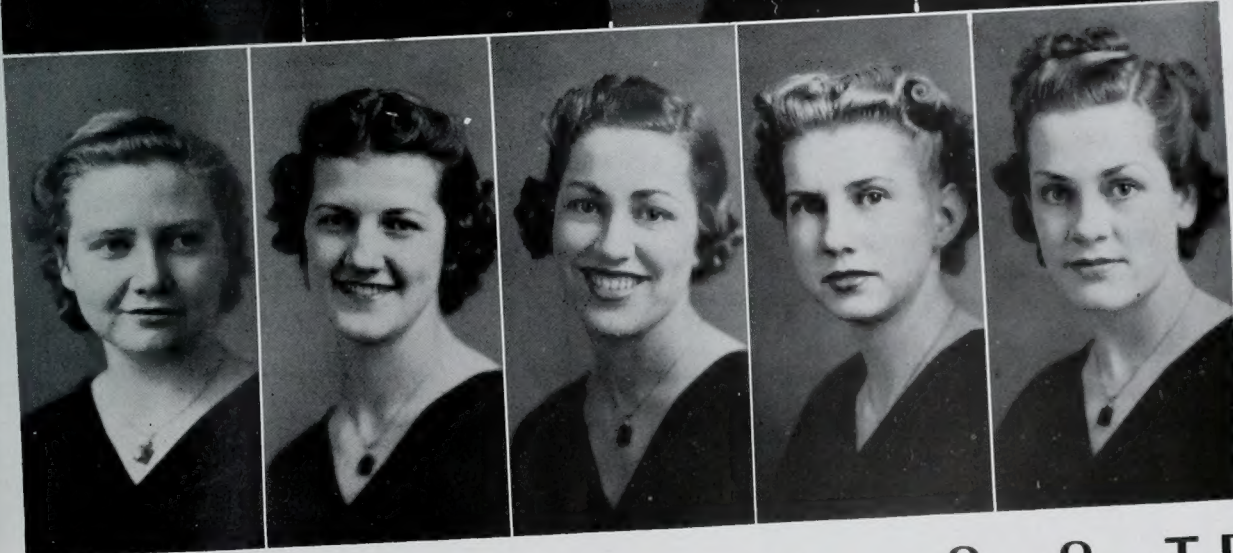

Beginning the year with just stags and business meetings, O. S. rested on their laurels till about Christmas time when they sponsored an extra special Christmas Dance. The winter quarter found them in the middle of rushing and pledging parties — outstanding activities for that period were a Colonial Ball and an Invitational Dancing party. A Progressive Dinner Party and a Formal Dinner Dance in the spring completed the calendar for the year.

The activity was rather varied among this group. The fall quarter saw an Invitational and a Barn Dance. Capability is written all over this group of officers and it showed in their administration.

Autumn activities included a number of stag get-togethers and an Autumn Tea. The winter quarter saw the Thalian Invitational Dancing Party and the spring quarter brought the formal dancing party. Thus was concluded an interesting chapter in Thalian history.

Val Norn, another of the older campus organizations, is this year headed by lovely MARIAN WILSON of Ogden. MARGIE CUTLER of Salt Lake City holds the vice presidential chair. KAY PACE is secretary, and LEAH D. HARRIS of the University Hill Harris' passes out the receipts when and if dues are paid. DONNA SMUIN is responsible for publicizing the many and varied social activities.

The year started with a Garden Party in the fall quarter. In the winter quarter were the Annual Fashion Tea, a Rushing Dance, and a Slumming Party, the latter was probably a social call on the Vikes. The spring quarter saw their Invitational, a Formal Dinner Dance, a Mother's Tea, and the Annual Yellow Rose Installation Banquet.

Geferan, one of the newer units on the campus, seems to have won the fight and we predict a brilliant future for them. Largely responsible in the struggle to survive the first two years are the officers; president HELEN BROWN, vice president EDITH COLLETT, and secretary-treasurer DORIS ROBINSON. Activity included a Christmas party, a Candlelight Tea, a Friendship Breakfast, a Valentine Invitational, a Spring Invitational, and was concluded with a Maytime Formal.

HELEN M. RICHARDS of Salt Lake City holds the presidential chair in La Deja. LOUISE HEINER of Morgan is vice president. RUTH JOHNSTON is secretary and LOLA HACKING is the reporting. Parties included a Rush Tea during Rush Week, an Invitational Dance in April, and a Dinner Dance in May. The Unit entered one of the strongest basketball teams to play in the social unit tourney.

Beset with the numerous difficulties which usually meet a new unit, this group fought for a niche in B.Y.U.'s scheme of social life. A bouquet is due them, they seem sure to survive the fate of most new units. Credit goes to MISS DOROTHY FULLER, president, MISS IDA NIELSON, vice president, MISS RANEE HARDER, secretary and treasurer, and MISS FAYE STRONG, reporter. Activities have included a stag inaugural in the fall, a dinner party, an invitational, a basket party, a Timp hike, and the usual unit formal dancing party.

A new boys unit which has really made a definite connection. Somehow the boys don't seem to be able to make new units last as do the girls, however this one not only started with a bang last year but has kept up the pace this year. We can't help giving a hand to the very resourceful CARLYLE LAMBERT, president, who is serving his second year in office. Credit, too, must be given to BILL GRANGE, vice president, to ELWOOD HAWS, secretary and treasurer, and to PAUL J. MERRILL, who has ably filled the reporter's shoes.

The 20th Annual Formal Dinner Dance was the highlight of the fall quarter. Of interest, was a Halloween Dance at the Y.W.M.I.A. Home in Provo Canyon. In the winter the boys didn't win the Varsity Show with a crazy "Inferno Good" act, but they did have a crazier Misfit party and some interesting rush parties. JOSEPH PACE from somewhere on East Center Street has led the Brigadiers through one of their best years. "Pudgy" has found time to really do a great job with the unit and deserves plenty of credit. Of course, that was only possible because of the cooperation he received from MARTELL BIRD, vice president, GORDON CHRISTENSEN as secretary-treasurer for the first two quarters, and JOHN WLEENIG during the spring.

Activity started with a dancing party at the M. I. A. home in Provo Canyon. The annual Bowery Brawl early in December was a hilarious affair as usual. A New Year's watch party rounded out the fall quarter. The winter quarter brought the "Puppy Love" formal dinner dance at the Hotel Newhouse. Various rushing and pledging parties were naturally the order of the day. A semi-formal party wrote finis to that quarter. "May Daze" Invitational party was the big show in the spring. A number of stags and the always fun canyon party ended the year for Brigadier.

Tausigs held their fifteenth annual alumni banquet on Homecoming day and their first annual formal Coronation and Invitational on December 3. Activity began in the fall quarter with a Freshman Partner (sure, we'll guess with you) Party. The other party of importance that quarter was the annual Christmas Dance. The big event of the winter quarter was the Invitational at Springville's Memorial Hall. In the spring the Val Hyric was made happy at a Boating Party, on Utah Lake we imagine. CRANDALL GIDDINGS is serving his second year as president of this, the newest men's social unit. They, too, have had a fight the last two years, and seems to have surmounted all obstacles. DUANE BROWN, varsity football man, is vice president, and MILTON BROWN collects dues. A Thanksgiving Dinner highlighted the fall quarter. Other interesting activity included swimming and dancing parties, a canyon party, and a roller skating bee.

Vikes win show . . .

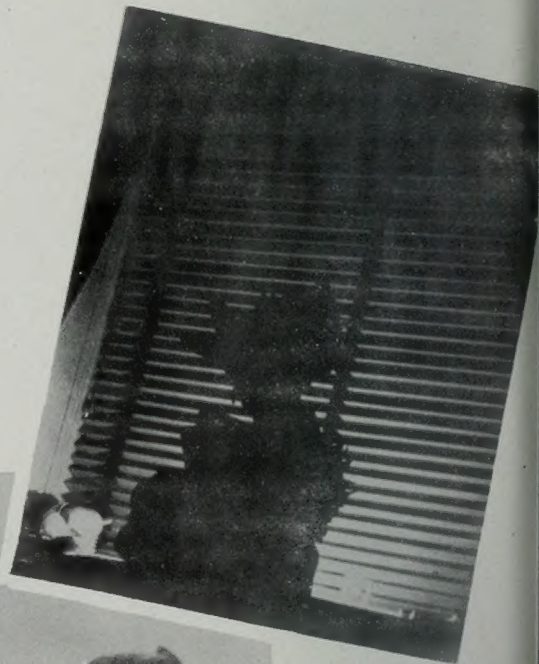

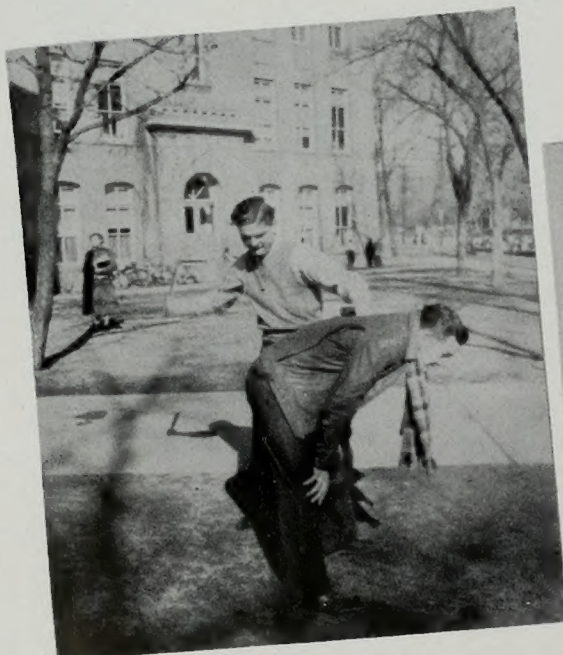

For the second straight year the Vikings walked off with the social unit show. This year the show was changed from the traditional old Pep Vodie to the Varsity Show, and was moved from the Paramount to College Hall. The other money acts were Val Norn and Nautilus, while the La Vadis, Bricker, Brigadier contributions were gratis. Practically every organized unit on the campus went into the tryouts, and the six above were selected for final presentation with results as already stated.

A new ruling prevented rushing of new students until after one quarter residence at the University, thus Rush Week came the first week or so of January . . . that is, formal and above board rushing did. After a week of backslapping and all those things came pledging and goating week. In the pictures at the top we find the Bricker and Brigadier goats picketing the Paramount . . . theatre management declared business increased about 200 percent. Lower: Jay Broadbent warms up Jay Wilson, Bricker goat, and Frosh president. June Schow and Hazel Poulton, Alta Mitras goats, are forced to show their manners in the school cafeteria.

Starting across the page and continuing here is the Brigadier "Puppy Love" shindig. Featured are the puppy, Mary Barkdull, and Joe Pace, with girl friend, using the hotel stationery.

THE CLUBS...

Clubs are numerous. We have geographic clubs, departmental clubs, and all kinds of special clubs. You probably belonged to three or four, and everyone of them wanted fifty cents to put your picture on the Banyan page. If you belonged to a geographic club you belonged with a bunch of kids from home. That might be home town, county, state or nation. Your department, be it chemistry or German, had a club that collected dues. The Strutters pledged you if you were female, liked to ride and had a dollar every week to buy hay for a broken down work horse. But laugh at them if you want, they are still not far from being the backbone of the University.

From down in the giant cactus country comes the Arizonians. Doing things in a big way they had a "Round Up" in the fall, and at Christmas time chartered a bus to take them home for the holidays. They combined with three other geographic groups for a Four-Club party in the winter, and had an annual spring picnic near the close of the year. A look at the officers will find LIN MAXWELL as president; HAZEL CARMACK, vice president; CAROL DRIGGS, secretary-treasurer, and VEON RIGGS as social chairman.

The supposedly queer people who haunt the top floor of the education building. Swear that there is no truth in the story about artists climbing into attics and starving to death. The Art Guild has sponsored lectures and demonstrations in all branches of the arts and crafts. Credit goes to GLEN TURNER, MAX GERMER, and VIRGINIA MEILING, president, vice president, and secretary and treasurer, respectively. Special credit always goes to the man each member of the Art Guild respects and admires so very much—Professor B. F. Larsen

The Maple leaf is carried to the Y by an unusually large group of Canadians this year. Though the majority come from Alberta, the rest of the Dominion is well represented. EMERSON BLUMELL is president for the second year. THORA CARLSON takes time off at the Women's Gym to be vice president, and MORRIS SHIELDS handles the secretary and treasurer duties. Canadians play a leading role in life at the University. Marvin and Oliver Smith, Del Miller, Alex Bland, are among campus brightlights.

October 4, a welcome party, that is the way the Canadian Club started to do things. On November 24, they sponsored a kind of Thanksgiving consolation party. It was largely attended, even by Canadian Students from Salt Lake's U. of U. The student body dance on February 12 was sponsored by the gang. In the spring quarter they held a pair of interesting and fun parties.

Brigham Young is largely attended by out-of-state students. This is probably due to the fact that it is a private institution and non-resident fees do not exist. Anyway, the Golden State each year sends us a number of outstanding students. New arrivals this year include two valuable additions to the Cougar football squad, namely Manuel Pacheco and Isadore Spector. THELL BAILEY presides over the Coloradans and is ably assisted by LENNA HOLMAN in the vice presidential chair and MARJORIE GRASSE as tax collector and notetaker.

Residents of sunny California are these seventeen people. DEAN of the Thora, Sam, Paul, Dean FRANCIS quartet is president. MERIAL LAMBERT ably takes care of the duties allotted her as secretary and treasurer. LUCILLE MCALLISTER was responsible for what ever vice presidents are responsible for. Next year's Y News big shot, "WEE WILLIE" COLTRIN got into practice by taking care of the club publicity. Parties included several dinner parties and a rock canyon hike.

"To welcome and promote social activities for students who attend B. Y. U. from distant places." That is the purpose of this group of "furriners". From Canada on the north to Mexico on the south, and from New York and Massachusetts on the east to the Pacific Coast, and farther away into the Islands they come to attend Young U. Electing CLARENCE TYNDALL, president; LUCILLE FARNSWORTH, vice president; JACK TRUNNELL, secretary and treasurer, and THOMAS PETERSON, sponsor, they have had a busy, activity filled year.

From out in the Dinosaur country comes this group. Calling the Uintah Basin home, this is one of the University's most versatile clubs. They are found in every department and activity of the school. FLOYD ROSS is president of the group. He is assisted by LARENE EINERSON, vice president, and CATHERINE HALL, secretary.

Vernon Wilcox, president.

The Mask Club is composed of students and University supporters who are especially interested in the study of drama. The group, organized in 1921, each year hears the reading of three act plays by some twenty or more of its members. The officers this year are:

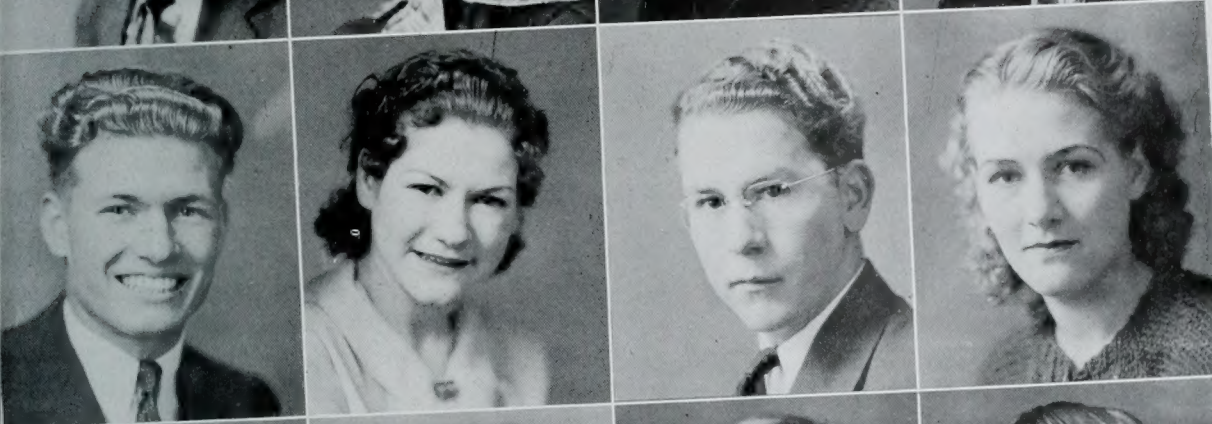

- VERNON WILCOX president
- RALPH UNGERMANN vice president
- RUTH HARR secretary - treasurer

This geographic group is made up of the boys and girls from down south in Garfield county. WALTER HENDERSON serves as head, EDITH HEYWOOD is vice president, while MARGARET HURST is secretary and treasurer and VOYLE MUNSON handles the reportorial duties. Activities included a dinner party, a roller skating party, and a dancing party.

ROWDON STOLWORTHY, formerly of Ricks Junior College is president of the Gem State contingent. He is ably assisted by the singer, MAX HADDOCK. MARGARET BELNAP, of Glens Ferry is second vice president. EDDY MARTIN pulls in the cash so that ROLAND HODGSON can throw another big party. LOIS MURRI brings the refreshments, DEAN WILLIAMS does the decorating and IDON CHADWICK tells the world about it.

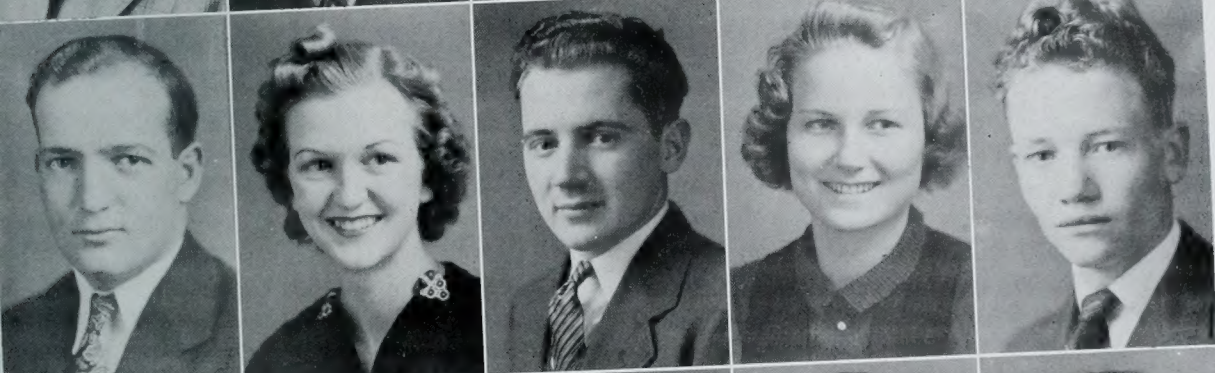

The foregoing group did all those things at a big Get Acquainted Dance at the Farrer Jr. High School last fall quarter, kept it up at an Auto Party in the winter. Then, feeling extra full of energy, joined hands with the folks from Snow-Sanpete and Arizona and sponsored a big Tri-Club party. Not content to rest on just those laurels, the Idaho people went to town at a big Spring Festival, and the year was concluded.

Idaho stands second only to Utah in enrollment at Young U. So great is the number that the club this year bought three pages instead of the customary two. Then, of course, not all Gem State students join the club. Prominent in student activities in the group are Chester May, A. K. Psi prexy; Alton Wagstaff of the newly organized Strutters Club; sophomore president Verl Clark, newswoman Idon Chadwick, and actress Mariana Webster.

EDWARD MOE as president; MAJ JACOBS, vice president; PETER J. SPEROS, secretary and treasurer; that is the way the International Relations group voted officers to carry on this year. This group is made up of those who want to know more about the affairs of the world, a kind of a Junior League of Nations, maybe. Anyway, they have heard talks on current problems by prominent men in all walks of life.

A departmental group is the Club of Landscape Architecture. Composed largely of majors in landscape architecture and related fields, the club meets on the top floor of the Brimhall Building and talks shop. ROBERT BIRD is the president, LEON FREHNER is vice president. The secretary is GRANT BUNDERSON. Professor L. S. Morris, who is at present in charge of roadside improvements for the state, and his wife, Mrs. Rae B. Morris are sponsors. Botanist Edna Snow is an honorary member.

Old Wyoming annually sends a large contingent to the Y. Possessed of common interests they naturally band together—result; the Wyoming Club. Heading this group of out-of-staters is LEVAR RASMUSSEN from Burlington, Wyoming. To back him up the club members selected VERL BRAILSFORD of Cody, and ROBERTA ROBERTS — strangely enough she calls Salt Lake City home. Activity included roller skating, dinner and dancing parties spread throughout the year.

The Y Psychological Society claims as members those who are either majors or have an interest in the science of psychology. Last year's Frosh prexy, California CALVIN JOLLEY took over this year's club. Dark-eyed ELVA WUNDERLI is his understudy in the vice presidential role and her assistant is OWEN ROBINSON, second vice president. To collect the dues and write the receipts the group called on JUNNE WOOD.

Largely responsible for the policy of the group, and instrumental in its organization and the obtaining of outstanding lecturers and programs for it is Professor M. WILFORD POULSON. Head of the Department of Psychology, Professor Poulson is assisted by JACK GIBB, graduate of 1936 and a present instructor in the department.

Brigham Young University is distinctive in the way it can be composed of so many smaller units and yet be one large democratic whole. One of these units is the Sevier club, a geographic group from Sevier county. BLAKE CLOWARD handles the presidential duties, the POULSON SISTERS, LORNA and ENID are vice president and social chairman, and the Campus No. 1 ROSS NIELSON is secretary and treasurer.

New to the campus this year is the group we have featured on the Clubs sub-division page. Calling themselves the Strutters they take Friday afternoons off and head for Springville where they carry or are carried by certain riding horses. Credit is due them, it is an interesting and worthwhile activity. Its members are gathered from all social units and unaffiliated girls. President is AFTON WAGSTAFF, Ta Lenta's VERLE ALLEN is vice prexy BETH CARLSON secretary, and CLARA JENSEN spreads the news.

Thrills

TIME FOR THE WHISTLE--THE GAME IS ON!

Thrills! Color! Spectacle! Autumn Quarter, the stadium and a Saturday afternoon. The Whistle, and the kick-off! A forward pass or a blocked punt! Such is the essence of college sports. Week after week the stadium fills with fans who warm at the sight of a smoothly timed play, an intercepted forward pass, or a well executed block. In winter, the Women's Gym and lightning passes. A basket, then another, and another. It's fast and furious! Then spring, the cinder paths and spiked shoes. Take your marks... get set... the gun! A photo finish and a new record. And behind the scenes a part of the drama few see... long hours of practice and training... lectures from the coach. Put it all together and we have

MEN'S SPORTS

This is probably the most colorful part of college life, as you can testify. There's nothing quite like the thrill of a long run or beautifully completed pass. To equal a thriller on the basket ball floor which sees a game won with a freak shot in the last few seconds would be impossible. And on the track, split second action. A record broken by a fraction of an inch. But, be all that as it may, we mustn't forget the boys who play only for their own benefit. Intra-murals are on a high level here. Each year the athletic department gives a cup for proficiency in sports among the social units. Did you help your unit in the drive toward that cup?

COACHES

Coach Edwin R. Kimball . . .

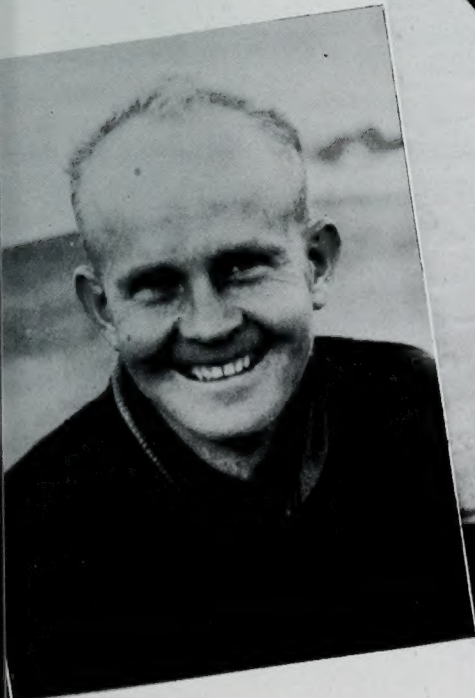

Athletic Director Edwin R. Kimball . . . known among the fellows as "Eddie" . . . has just finished his first full year as athletic director at the Y. Called the "kid coach" by some of his fellow mentors, he came through with one of the finest football teams that has ever worn the blue and white. Eddie also coaches the freshmen basketeers, and seems to be headed for a fine coaching future at the "Mormon" school.

Coach W. Floyd Millet's chief duty is to coach the boys who represent the Y in track . . . is also frosh football instructor and head wrestling coach. Floyd brought one of the strongest freshmen track squads to the school last fall that has been seen around the Y in a long time. His likeable characteristics, fine ability, and good material should make a combination that will keep the Y at the top of the track picture.

and the men who back him up.

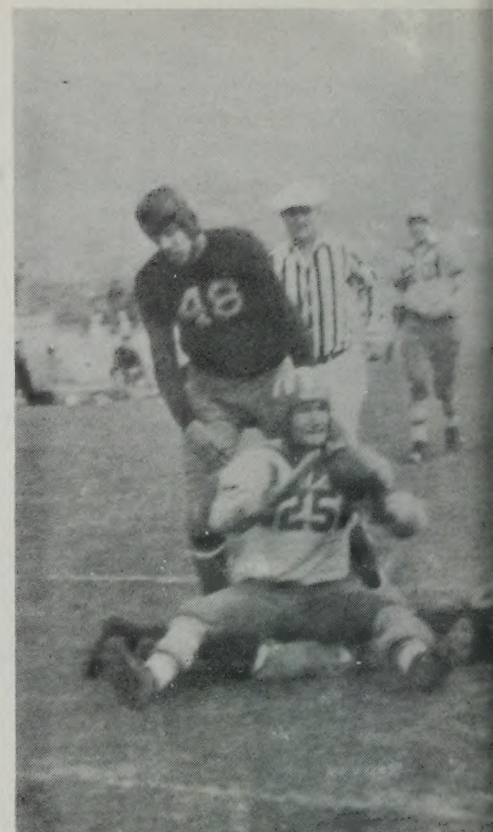

Associate Professor of Physical Education, Charles J. "Chick" Hart, whose activities with the annual B.Y.U. Invitational Track and Field Meet and Relay Carnival have made him known throughout the intermountain west is in the center below. "Chick" is a decided favorite among the fellows and townspeople. His sense of fair play is unsurpassed. Coach Fred W. "Buck" Dixon, below right, is widely known for his own tennis ability as well as for the job he has done in coaching the Cougar netmen. "Buck" came through with a tennis squad last year that defeated the Utes for the first time in seven years. With some fine freshmen material on hand his squads seem headed for a sparkling future. Rodney Kimball, custodian of athletic equipment and general caretaker around the stadium, is an undergraduate, and the many duties that are thrown on his shoulders give him a great deal to do. His ready smile and spontaneous laugh is fast becoming a landmark at and around the field-house.

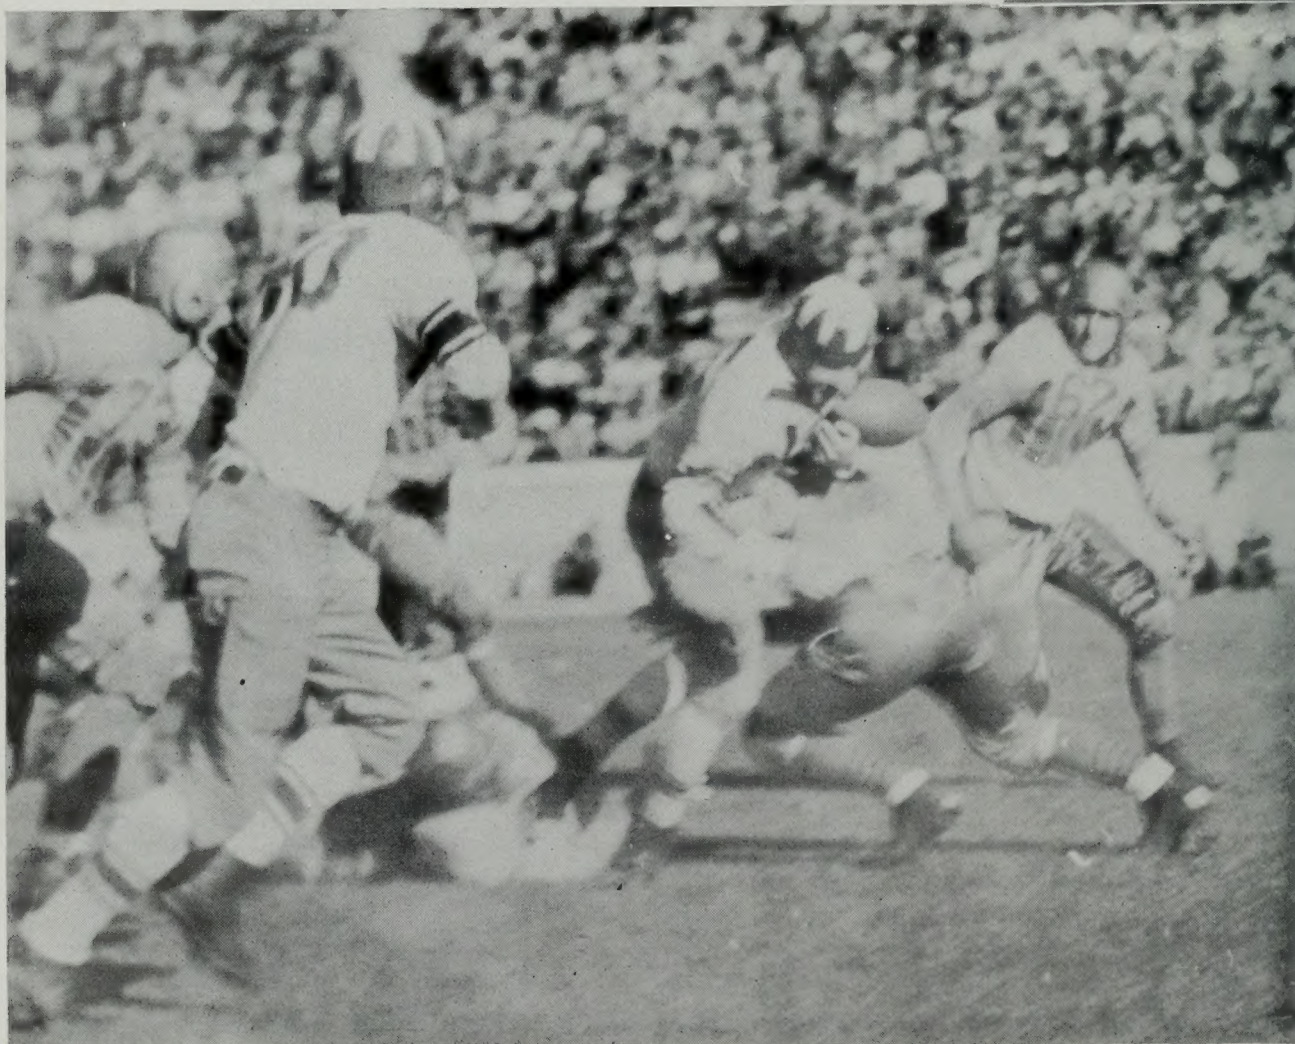

The season begins . . .

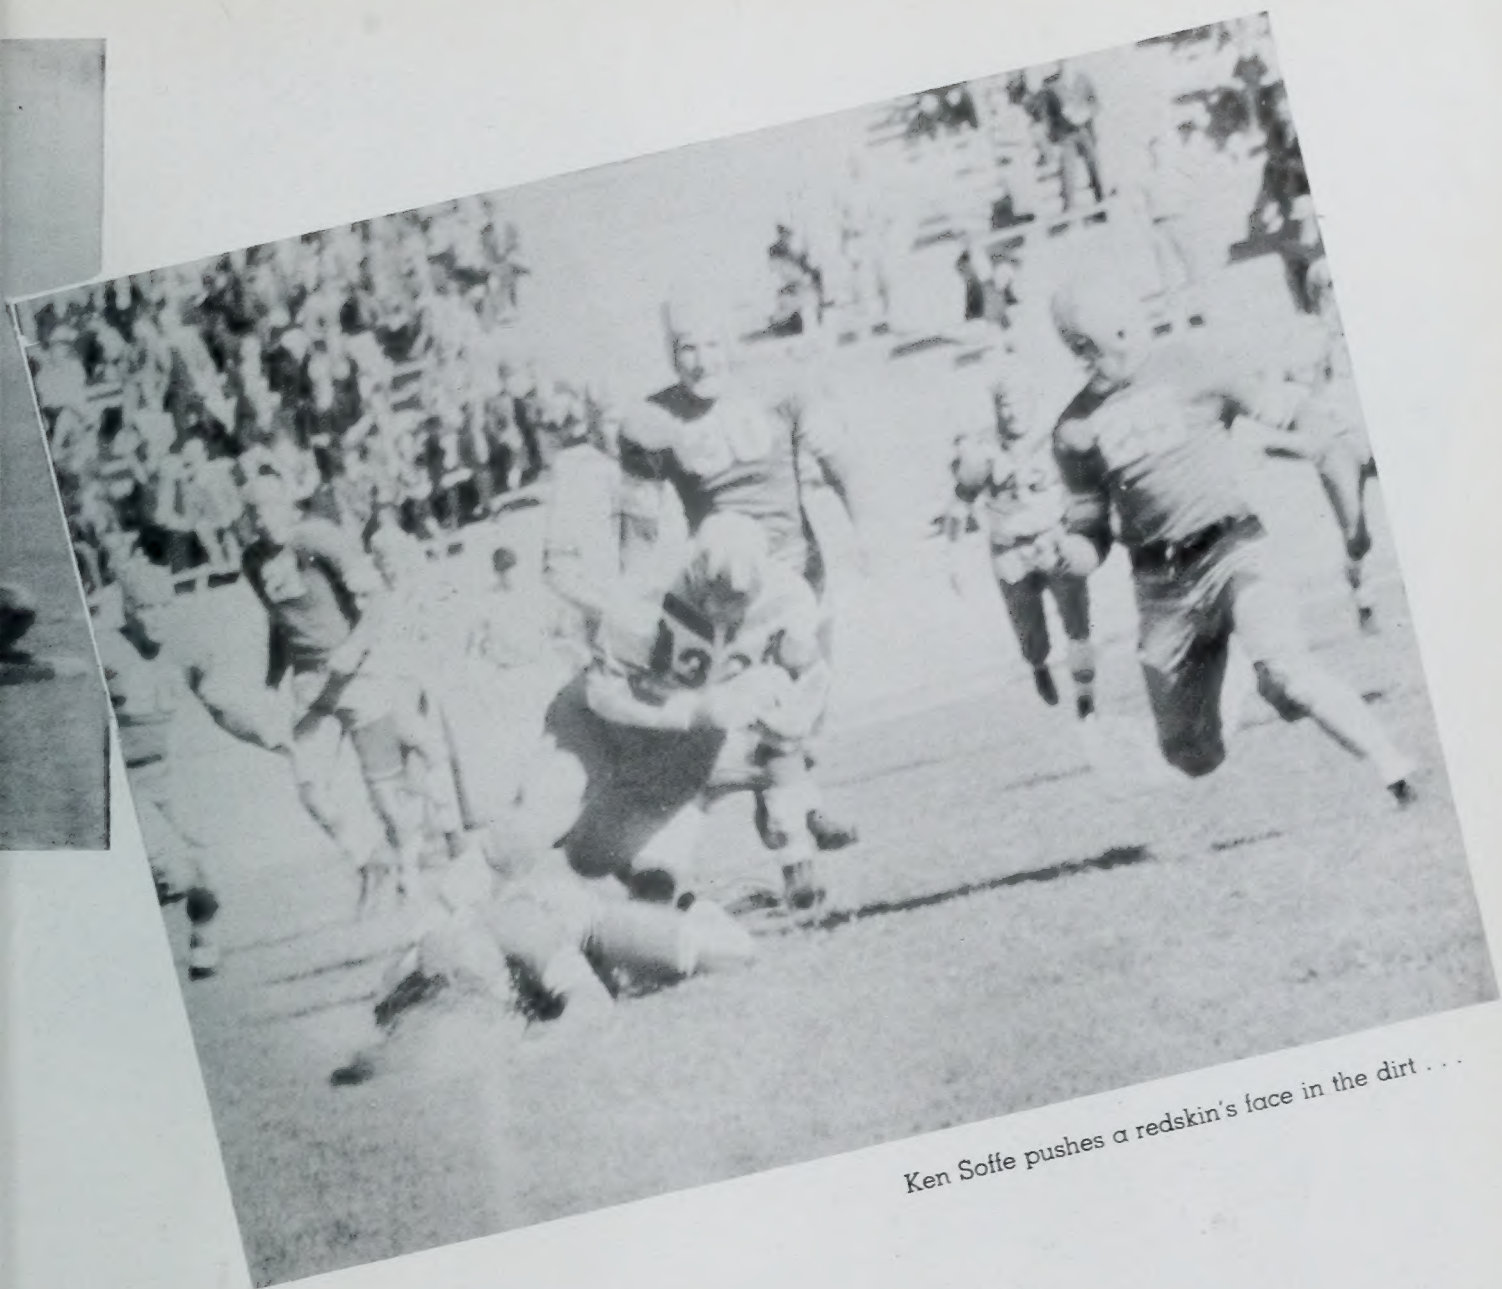

Standing on the threshold of the 1937 football season, the future looked very bright for the Cougars. With their new coach, "Eddie" Kimball, and their host of returning lettermen, the whole conference was looking for a lot of trouble from the Y. "Eddie" doesn't go in for spectacular play—instead his entire team is wrapped up in a thorough knowledge of fundamentals. The wisdom of his coaching plan was evident when the sons of Brigham hung up their suits for the last time—behind them was one of the most successful seasons that any Y team had ever had.

Opening the season with a bang, the Cougars turned back a scrappy Greeley State aggregation 7-0. It was a hard fought game, with the Colorado boys having several good chances to score. Young came out victorious because of their ability to capitalize on chances to score, plus the line charging of Stringham, and the fine running and defensive work of Roberts.

Below: Stan Watts fumbles when hit by Greeley man. Right: Captain Soffe gives the ball back. That's a nice boy . . .

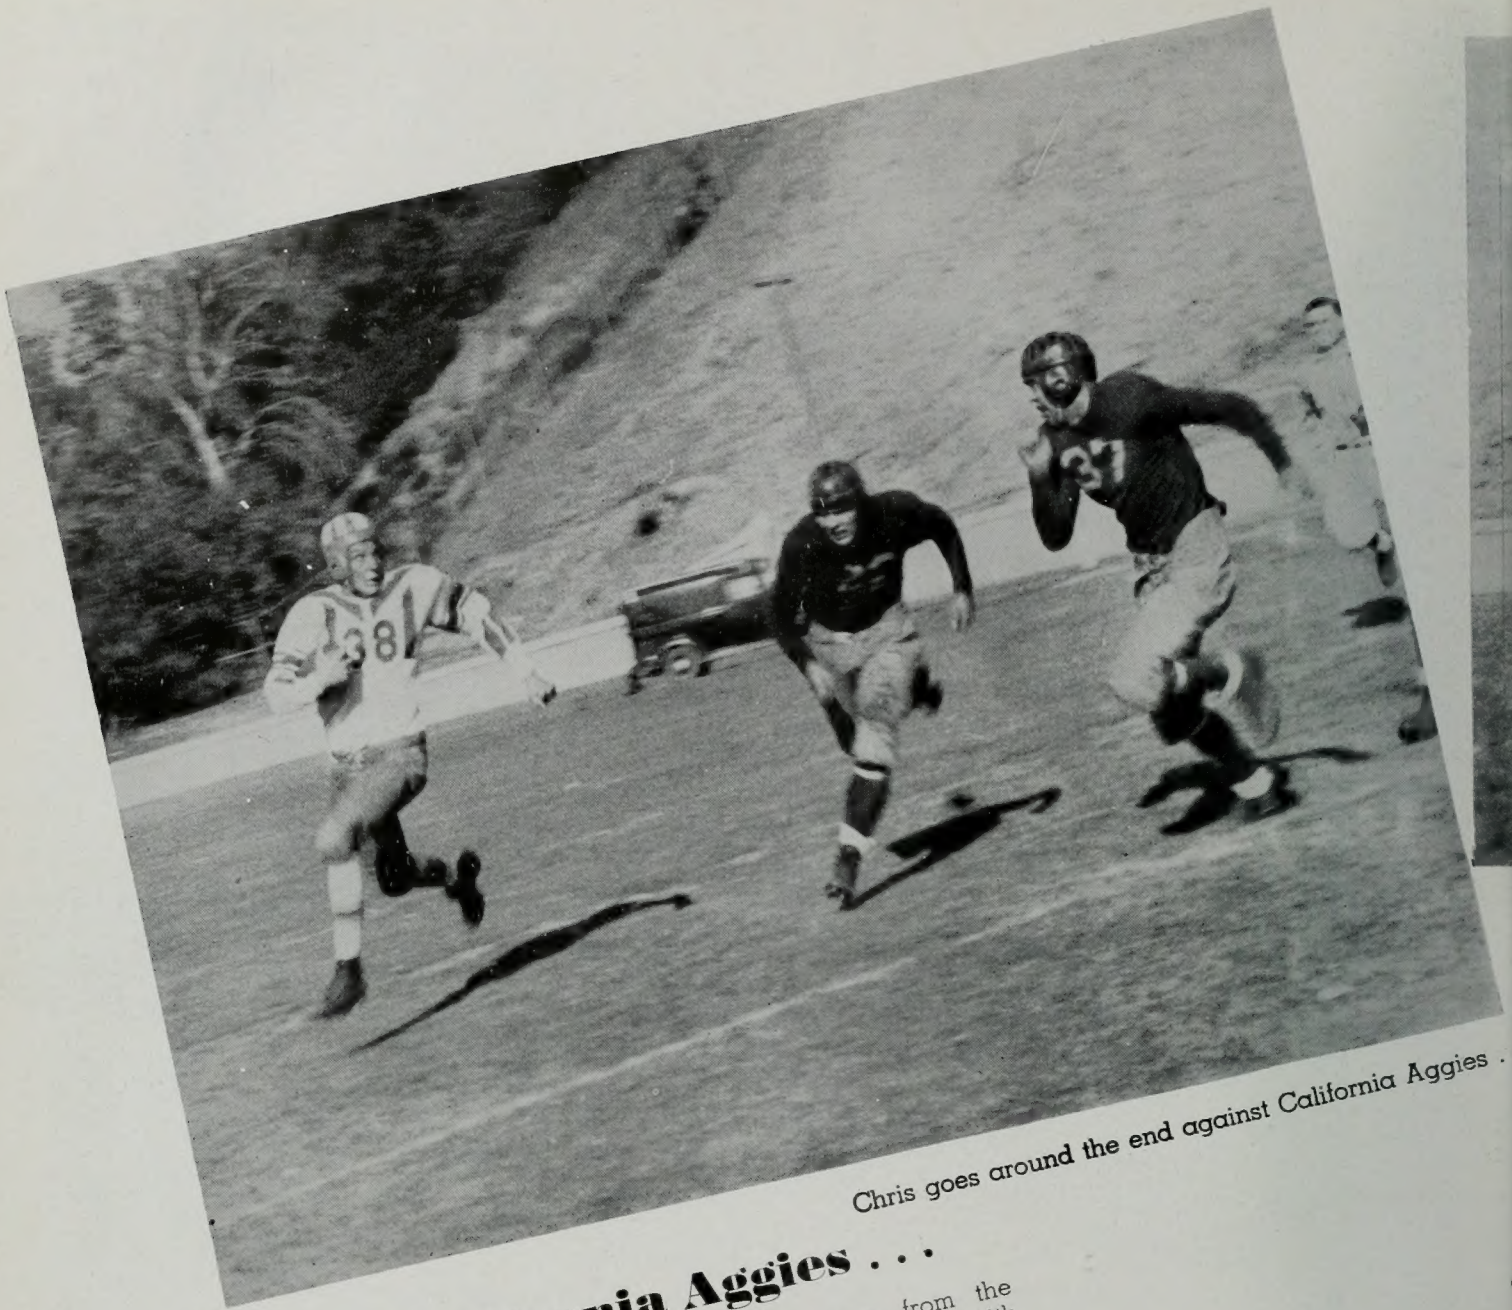

Ken Softe pushes a redskin's face in the dirt . . .

We meet Utah . . .

With the taste of victory still fresh, the Cougars made their perennial trip to the Ute stadium the following week. It was their job to break a sixteen year old Redskin winning streak, but despite their strong bid for victory, and despite the good chance they were given by sport experts, they again came home on the short end of the score—this time a 14-0 Utah victory.

Under perfect weather conditions, the two teams battled before a sellout crowd. The Redskins displayed a running game that far outclassed the Cougars, but what the Y lacked in the running department they made up for in passing. Young was outweighed on the line, but faster charging discounted the lack of weight. "The Cougars lost the game, but they gained the complete respect of the Utah players and fans, who hailed the squad as the best Y team they had ever seen." Salt Lake Tribune. Stringham's charging, and the Jewkes, Roberts passing duo stood out for the Y.

Chris goes around the end against California Aggies . . .

Came California Aggies . . .

Determined to make a comeback, the boys from the "Mormon" school hit the invading California Aggies with everything they had the following week. Young turned back the fighting but outclassed coast team 34-0. Charlie Roberts and Jack Christensen did most of the ball toting, and started to earn their well known reputation as the gold dust twins. Ken Soffe was outstanding as a blocker and converted all of his four tries for after-touchdown points.

Against the championship bound Colorado Bullaloes the next week, however, the Cougars didn't fare so well. Determined to stop All-American "Whizzer" White, the Provo team threw him for a loss in his running plays, but like a real champion, the "Whizzer" came back to pass his team to a 14-0 victory. Full of fight and stubborn, the Cougars looked the best team during the first half, but weakened in the second. Siringham, Roberts, Christensen, Gillespie, and Soffe were outstanding for the Y.

Walloped Western State . . .

Traveling from the home of Colorado U. to Portland, the Cougars lost their second straight game 13-10. The Oregon Catholic boys, in the throes of a losing streak, seemed determined to chalk up an inter-conference victory; the travel weary Utah team saw their 10-7 lead evaporate late in the last period when a muddy kick went wild, and the Portland team smashed over a score from the one yard line.

With four games left to play, and all off them being conference engagements, the Cougars settled down to make their home stretch drive a winning one. Led by the battering Jack Stringham, and the swivel-hipped Jack Christensen, the sons of Brigham turned on the heat against Western States, and thoroughly trounced the Colorado team 21-0. Grabbing off 391 yards as compared to their opponents 122, the Cougars left 4000 wildly cheering blue and white fans happy with the thought that, despite two losses, the Y still had a real team.

Plowed the Farmers under . . .

The rampaging Cougars continued their victory drive by defeating Wyoming U. 19-0 in the Cowboys homecoming game. Held in check for two quarters by a determined Cowboy machine, Young U. went wild in the second half to score three smashing touchdowns. Merrill Waters' spectacular pass snaring; Gillespie's powerful line work; Stringham's smashing line plunging; and sensational runs by the gold dust twins, Roberts and Christensen, were highlights in a completely Cougar game.

Determined to wipe out the sting of four losses, Young journeyed to Logan with only one thought in mind—a crushing Aggie defeat. Their so called "kid coach", piloting the Y for the first time against their farmer rivals, was just as anxious for a win. The result—a record smashing, brutal, yet glorious, 54-0 victory. Up and down the field the Cougars marched—employing every weapon known to football warfare. Their play was clean but hard, and a seemingly never ending march of injured farmers from the field to the bench, was ample evidence of Cougar spirit. The entire team starred in this sparkling display of blue and white power.

Ken Soffe clears the way for a gain by Mel Warner . . .

Thumped Montana . . .

Putting on a whirlwind second half rally before 7000 cheering blue and white homecoming fans, the Cougars ended the season by swamping the Montana Bobcats 19-0. Held scoreless for two quarters by a surprisingly strong golden Bobcat machine, the Y team cut loose to end their most successful season with another clear cut victory. Sensational punting by Charlie Roberts; scintillating runs by Roberts and Christensen; beautiful place kicking and strong blocking by Ken Soffe; smashing line plunges and highly effective blocking by Jack Stringham; great end work by Waters, Soffe, and Leonard; and an abundance of fight on the part of every man on the Cougar line, was in evidence at the game—as it has been all year.

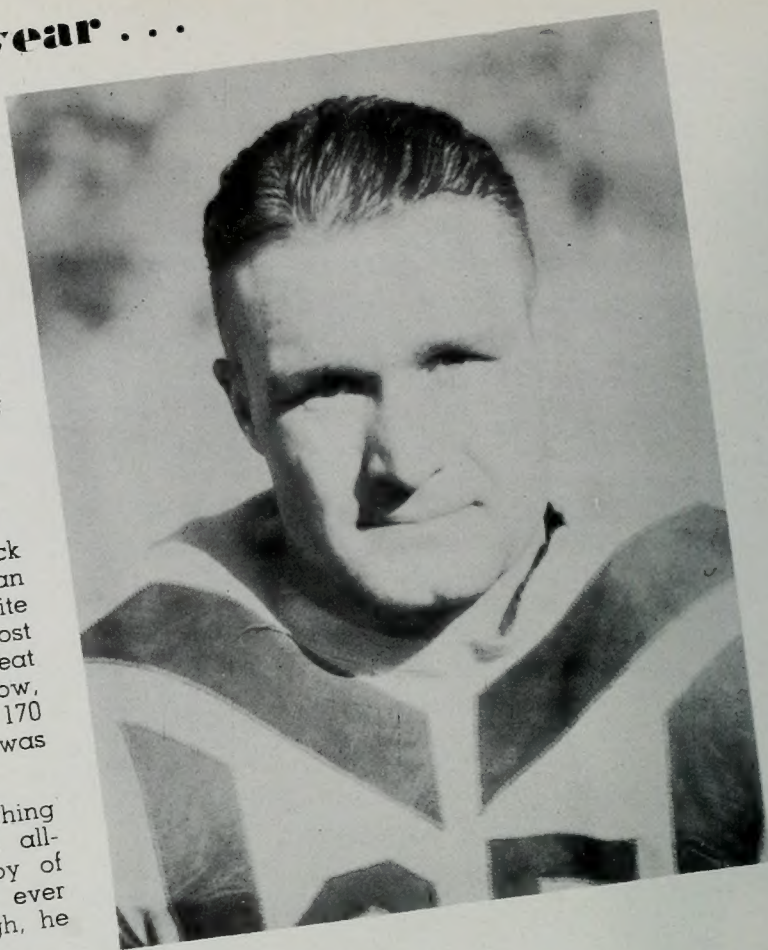

And so: having scored 120 points as compared with 28 being scored by their opponents, the Cougars ended a year that is hailed as the best in B.Y.U. gridiron history.

These boys finish up this year . . .

Captain Wayne Soffe

182 pounds of 21 year old football talent, came from the Jordan High School, and developed into one of the best ends in the R.M.C.; being chosen as an all-conference man on several selections. A good student in school, and a regular guy, he was well liked by all who know him. Wayne did a fine job of captaining the Cougars, and will be missed a lot when the going gets tough next fall.

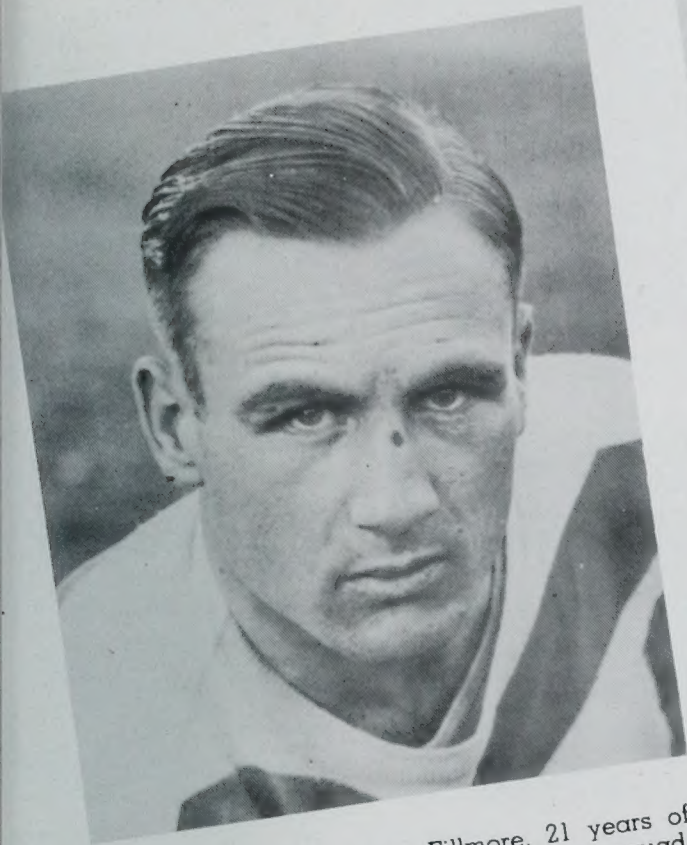

All Conference

JACK STRINGHAM, a battering red-headed fullback who was always good for a yard or two through an airtight line, came to the Cougar camp from Granite High. A wonderful blocker, Jack was one of the most valuable players on the squad, and will be a great help to the Brooklyn Dodgers next fall. A quiet fellow, one would never guess that he could turn into 170 lbs. of dynamite when he received the ball. Jack was unanimously chosen as all-conference fullback.

GERALD GILESPIE, 21 years of age and weighing 188 lbs., was another popular choice as an all-conference man. "Bulldog" played for the joy of playing, and was one of the smartest guards ever developed at the Y. Coming from Tooele High, he turns pro with the Cleveland Rams next season.

MELDON WARNER, from Fillmore, 21 years of age. Weight 170. Fastest man on squad. Played fullback.

STANLEY WATTS, a 25 year old, 175 lb. fullback transfer from Weber in Ogden. Stan played a smart game.

HERMAN MINES, a 22 year old, 160 lb. fullback transfer from Weber J. C. Kept out large part of season with injury.

PAUL MCBETH, 21 year old halfback. Weighed only 145 lbs., but was a valuable broken field runner. Transfer from Utah U.

Presenting the boys . . .

JACKSON JEWKES . . . a 193 lb. half-back from Carbon . . . can run, pass, and really block.

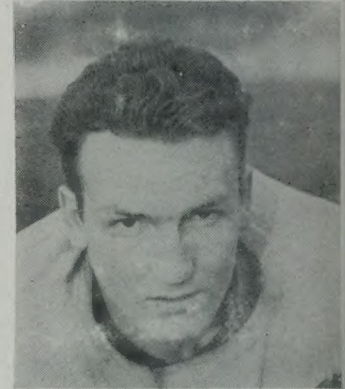

JACK CHRISTENSEN . . . light, tall, and speedy . . . one of best Cougar yard gainers.

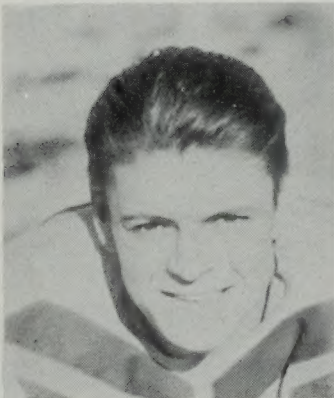

JOHN WEENIG . . . 6'3", and one of the most colorful men on the squad.

HAFEN LEAVITT . . . big and strong, Hafe came from Virgin Valley . . . a tough lineman.

MAX BATEMAN . . . 5'10" guard from East High . . . a real red-headed lineman.

MERRILL WATERS . . . a 6'2" end from Sheridan, Wyo. . . . played regularly.

FOREST BIRD . . . a steady, smart ball player . . . "Tweet" was elected next year's captain.

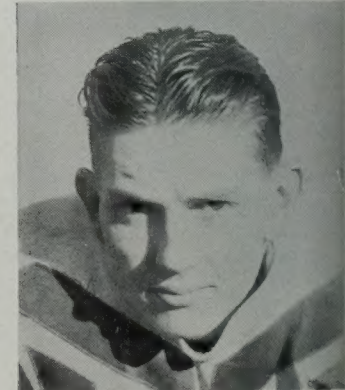

VAUGHN LLOYD . . . 175 lb. guard from Jordan . . . "Toughy" lived up to his nickname.

CHAD BECKSTEAD . . . 6'2" and a fine center . . . "Beck" hails from Jordan High.

KENNETH SOFFE . . . big and tough, Ken is a fine blocker and a great place kicker.

CHARLES ROBERTS . . . speedy and elusive . . . a fine kicker . . . a sparkling broken field man.

VILLARD DEVITT . . . sophomore fullback from American Fork . . . may fill Stringham's shoes.

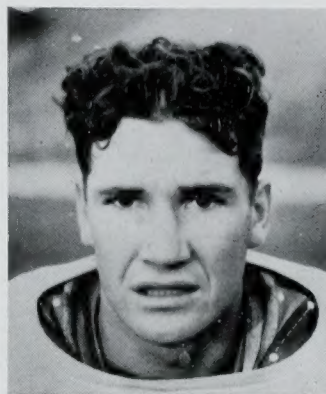

DAN THOMAS . . . 160 lb. boy from Weber . . . Danny is well known for his A.A.U. boxing.

CHRIS MORTENSEN . . . quiet, likeable, smart . . . stole the "center" spotlight this year.

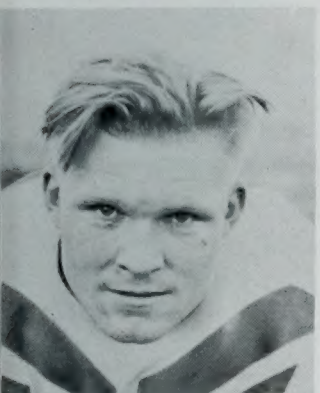

MARK MURRY . . . 20 year old guard from Las Vegas, Nevada . . . is a scoutmaster.

MOYLE KNUDSEN . . . 6'3" and the biggest boy on the squad . . . "Joe" is a great tackle.

DREW LEONARD . . . a fine big boy from Huntington . . . will ably fill vacant end position.

REX CHRISTENSEN . . . 185 lb. strong man from Manti . . . "Reverend" is religious ed. major.

EDDIE ALLEN . . . a 190 lb. 6 ft. tackle from Granite . . . is also a varsity wrestler.

HOWARD KEMPTON . . . an elongated end from Payson who will go a long way next year.

RALPH SEARLE . . . a 6' center from Spanish Fork . . . Ralph shows up well on defense.

BOB KLEMMER . . . a good guard prospect from Bozeman, Mont . . . 5'9" and 160 lbs.

TOM KIMBALL . . . a j. c. transfer from Phoenix . . . did some good work at tackle.

ARIEL HARDY . . . a sophomore, and a promising end . . . Ariel came from Oakley, Idaho.

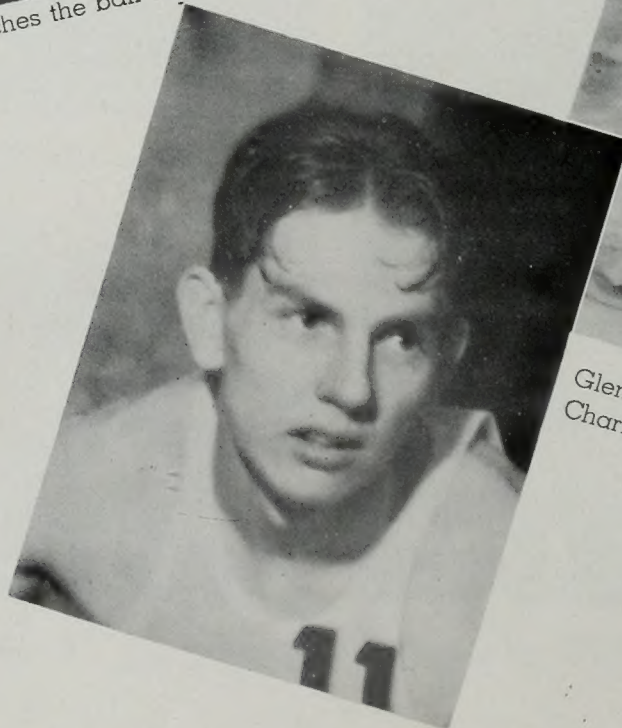

DUANE BROWN . . . a fine sophomore guard from Provo High . . . is an "A" student.

The basketball campaign . . .

Suffering from the loss of last year's leading scorer, Earl Giles, and his chief ball rustler, Capt. Turpin, the Cougars started the 1938 campaign as the dark horse in the newly created Big Seven circuit. No one man on the team was much greater than his mates—and this situation made it doubly hard to fit together a winning combination. Determined to keep the Cougar pennant near the top of the heap, the boys journeyed to Denver for their first game of the season. Displaying a wealth of power they turned back the Pioneers 65-51.

... a call on the Utags

Going to Boulder, Colorado the next night, they met the champion-to-be Buffaloes. In the first few minutes of play, Captain Guss Black, flashy Cougar guard, who was definitely slated for an all-conference berth, received a knee injury when he collided with "Whizzer" White. The injury not only put Guss out of the game for the rest of the season, but put Coach Dixon right back where he had started at the beginning of pre-season activities. Young lost the game 54-39. Journeying to Logan the next Friday, the Cougars met an inspired Aggie team that refused to bow in defeat. Both teams played brilliant ball, and the Cougars seemed slated for a win until just before the final gun. The final score read 60-53 in favor of the Farmers. The Cougars suffered their third straight defeat the next night, when they met the University of Utah Redskins in Provo. The boys all played well, but Kump was sensational in his first home game. His ball rustling kept the fans on their feet during most of the last half. A "Sophomore find" in Gracie Allen put new hope in the hearts of Y supporters; but we lost the game 49-42.

Allred tips one in against Colorado State.

came the Whizzer . . .

Determined to put a stop to their losing streak, the Y team met Colorado State in Provo the next week and defeated them 60-56. Trailing most of the way, the Cougars came through with a desperate last half rally to chalk up the victory. The much publicized game with Colorado University was played before a sellout crowd the next night. The boys from across the mountains displayed a cool, heady, block-heroic efforts of Kump, Roberts, and Christensen. Despite the home on the long end of a 47-36. The Buffaloes went

... and the cowboys

With only one game to play the next week end, and that one being against the towering Laramie Cowboys in Provo, the Young U. team had hopes of turning back the eastern invaders. The Cowboys had too much on the ball, however, and took a hard fought game 48-37. Despite the defeat, the Cougars were highly praised by prominent sports writers for their fight and strength. Against the highly touted farmers the next week, it was a different story. With 48-37. Despite the defeat, the Cougars had finally found their stride. A winning combination of Kump, Watts, Devitt, Roberts, and Christensen, were really starting to click; and the Aggies didn't have a chance against the victory hungry Cougars. The final score read 58-50.

... an indian uprising

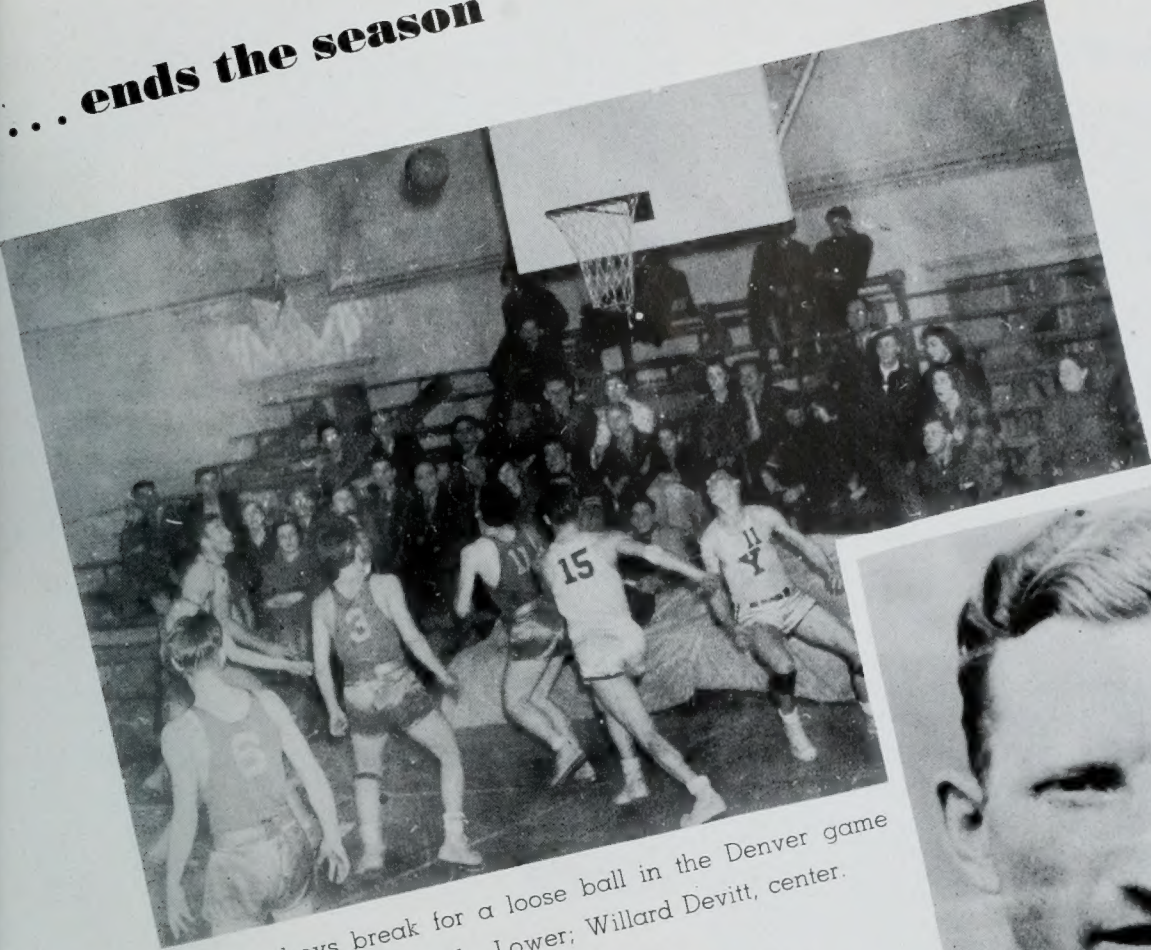

After a two weeks rest, the Cougars journeyed across the mountains for their last 1938 invasion of the eastern half of the Big Seven. On Friday night they met the Wyoming Cowboys, a tribe of giants from Laramie, Wyoming. Against the towering Cowboys, on their own half-acre floor, the "Mormon" boys were outclassed 61-47. Against Colorado State at Ft. Collins the next night, the tide seemed to change in favor of the Cougars, and the Provo boys were leading 21-18 at the half. Coming back with speed to burn in the last period however, the staters finally won 45-39. Kump, Booth, Roberts, and Christensen played great ball for the Y. Kump especially seemed headed for all-conference recognition.

Top; Vir Richins, guard. Center; Bill Pardoe, guard. Lower; Charles Roberts goes way up for a setup in the Utah game.

... ends the season

Top; the boys break for a loose ball in the Denver game

Against Denver the next night, the Cougars were still too hot for any team to try to handle. Starting with the opening gun, the Y team started hitting the hoop with a regularity that soon piled up a lead that was never threatened. When the final gun went, they were leading 74-41, a score that lacked one point of being equal to the conference record. The Cougars were placed in a key position for their final game—a game that was the last one in 1938 Big Seven competition, and which would give Utah either a tie with C.U. for the title or push them down to second place. With two fine wins behind them, the Cougars went to Salt Lake with a great hope in their hearts—but once again they couldn't click. The result—a 54-43 victory for the Utes.

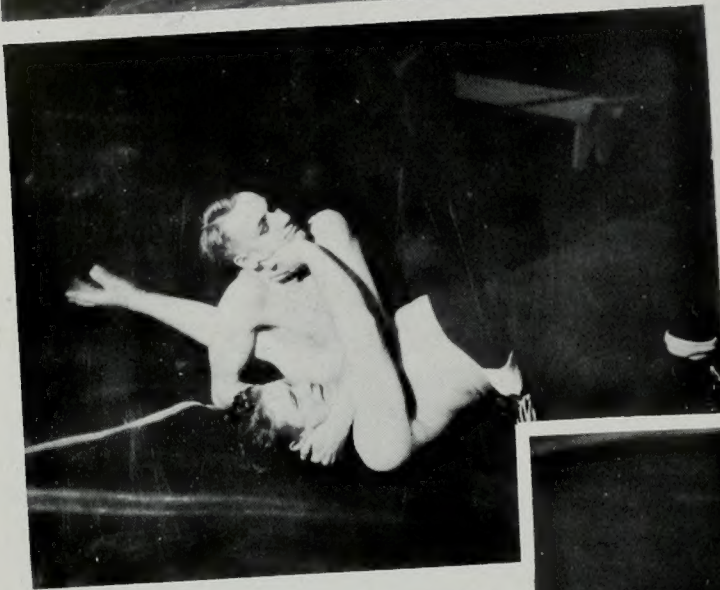

Bone-crushers . . .

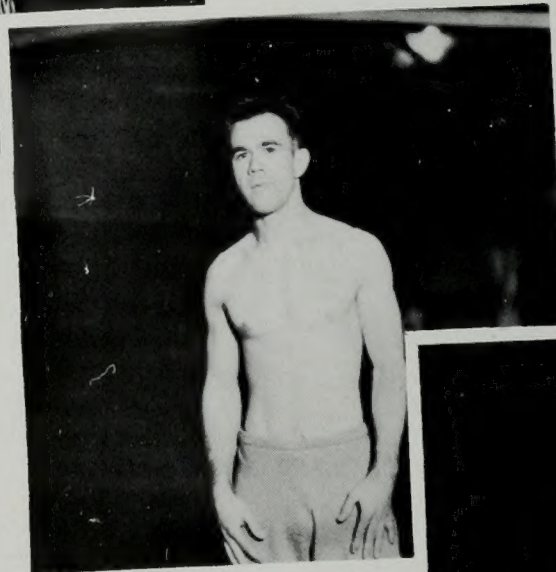

In a western division tournament that was supposed to be a duel between the Redskins and the Aggies, the Y grapplers turned on the heat that had been smothered all season by sickness, and all but kept the farmer school from winning its first wrestling championship in nine years. Capt. Lewis and Hullinger each won a western division championship, and Allen, Golding, and Larsen came through with second place points to boost the total Y score to 30—only one point less than the Aggies. The "Mormon" boys, coached by Floyd Millet and Neff Smart—the latter a returned missionary wrestling champion of Great Britain—lost both dual meets with the other two Utah schools. They dropped a close one to the Aggies, and a much disputed duel with the Redskins.

Swamped with a deluge of lightweights at the first of the season, the coaches were unable to find anyone to wear the blue and white in the heavy weight division until Eddie Allen, colorful football lineman, decided to turn out. With one problem solved, another greater one came to the fore—that of team sickness—and not until the division meet did the team reach full strength.

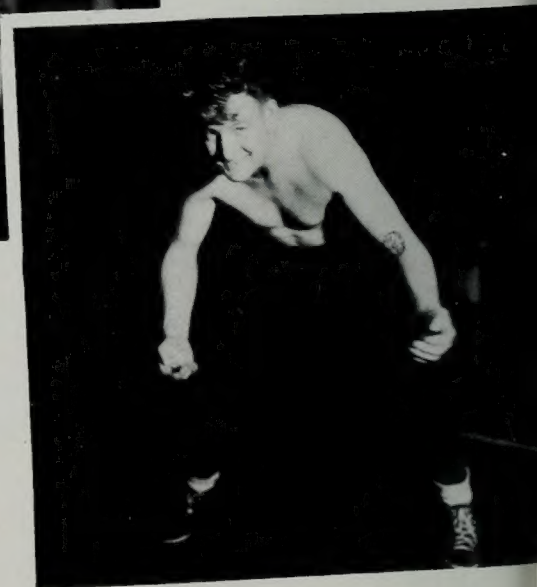

Top: the squad; L. Golding, B. Teichert, O. Hullinger, R. Larsen, G. Gillespie, C. Mortensen, J. Stringham, R. Jeffery, E. Allen, and M. Bateman. Kneeling; Capt. LeGrande Lewis and Coach Neff Smart.

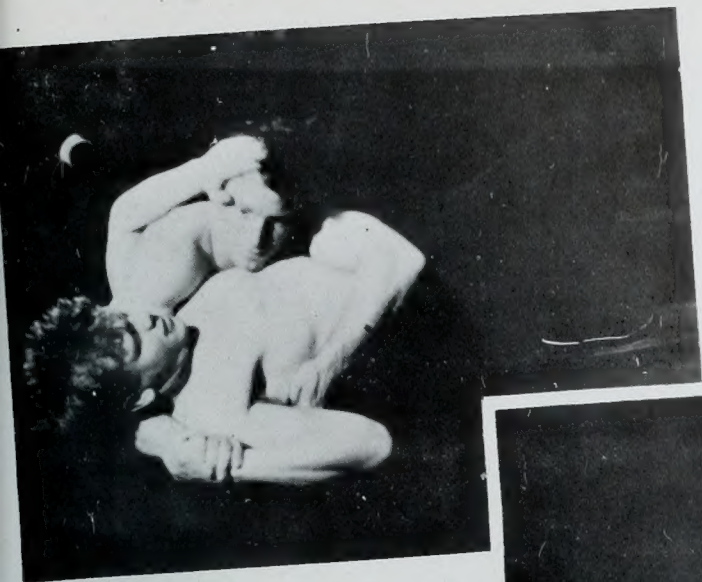

Above; Capt. Lewis and Orville Hullinger—now turned pro.—work on each other.

Below left; a twisted-up mass of humanity in the Utah - B.Y.U. dual meet in Provo. The Utes won on a disputed "draw" decision. And lower right; another action shot of the same meet—they look happy don't they?

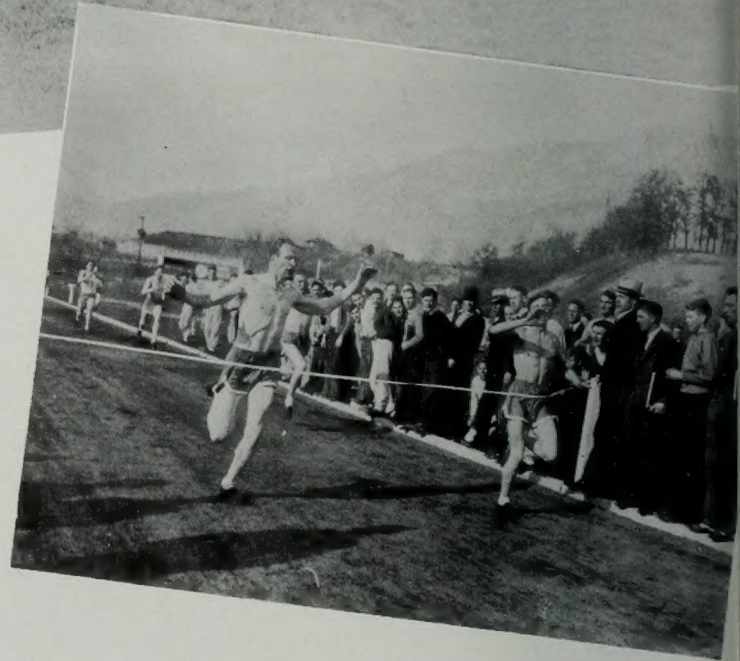

Varsity track . . .

After four years of undisputed supremacy on the cinders—the Cougars slipped to second place in the conference last year. Graduation played havoc with all but four of our point winners, and things looked plenty black at the start of the track season. The boys improved rapidly however, and lost to the Aggies by only two points in one dual meet. In the other meet with Utah, we dropped a 72-68 decision. Improving with every practice, the sons of Brigham came back easily to clinch second place in the western division of the Big Seven.

Above is Gordon Christensen, Young's high jumper, clearing the bar in one of his fine leaps. At the left is Les Cannon who came through with some needed places in the discus, hammer, and shot. He was Young's sole hope in the field until Eddie Allen turned out to give his aid. Lower left is Captain Paul McBeth, conference hurdle champion, clearing a low obstacle in his specialty—the 220 low hurdles. And on the right is Carl Clark, new state record holder in the pole vault. He leaped 13' 4" at the dual meet in Logan.

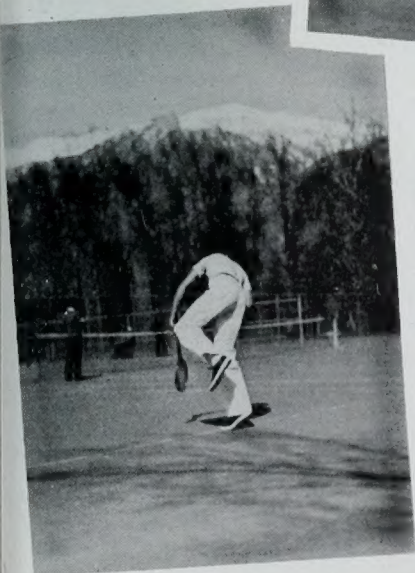

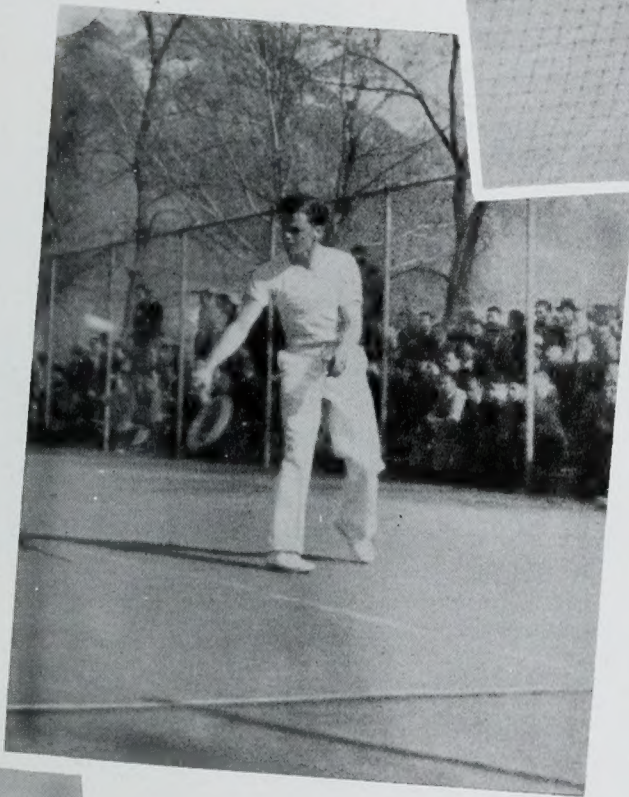

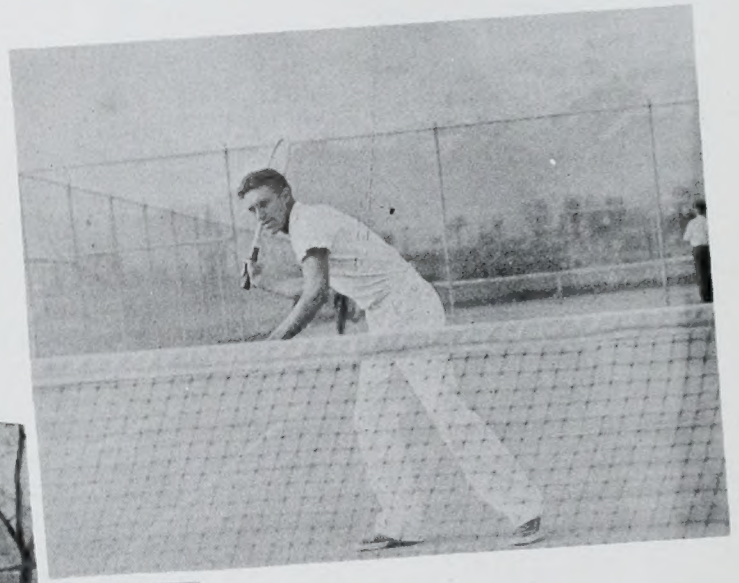

Last year's western division tennis champions started out the season without their most consistent match winners, Stoddard and Stevens who graduated last spring. Coach Fred "Buck" Dixon started early to mould another championship team, but Utah was just too good for the Young netters — winning both dual meets to the tune of 4-3. The Y easily clinched second place by trouncing the Aggies 7-0 in both meets with the Logan school.

Captain Malcolm Booth proved hero of the Cougar camp by turning back Dick Bennion twice out of the three times that they met. He defeated the Utah "superman" 6-2, 9-7, to win the intercollegiate singles championship.

Racket swingers . . .

Bill Pardoe, No. 2 ranking singles player, is seen at the top ready for one of his smashing volleys. He teamed with Booth to form the Y's most consistent point winning doubles team. In the center is "Chuck" Fletcher, popular campus "hotshot"; and at the bottom is Captain Booth, silent but friendly, finishing one of his blazing serves that started on the bottom of the opposite page (huh?)

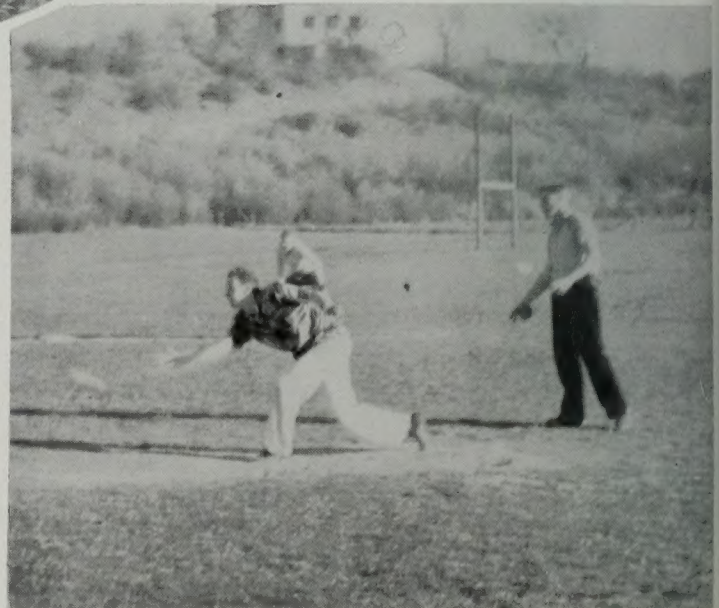

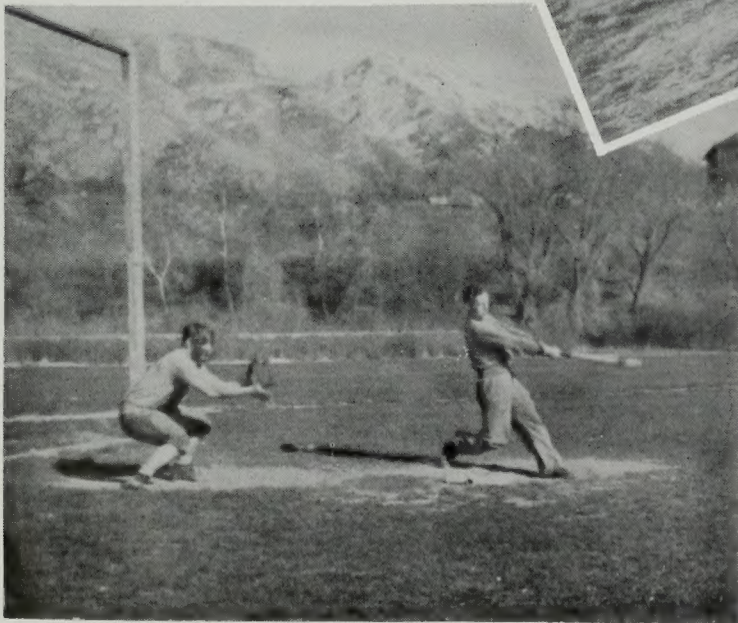

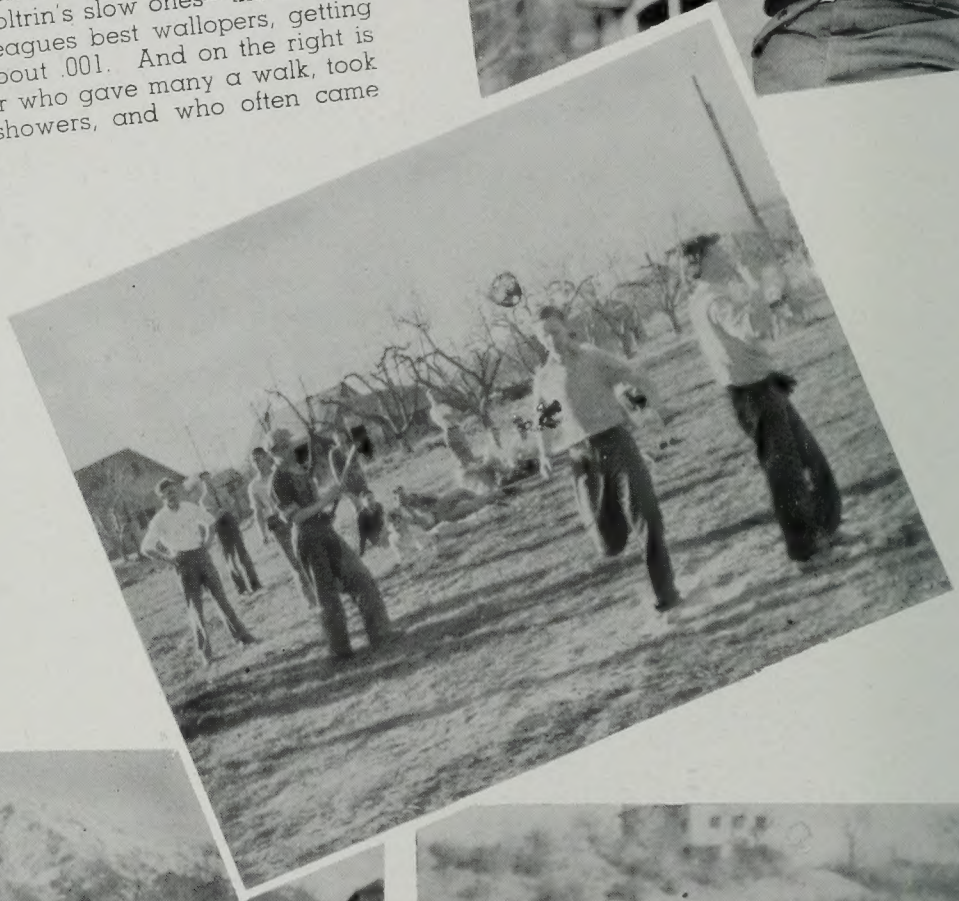

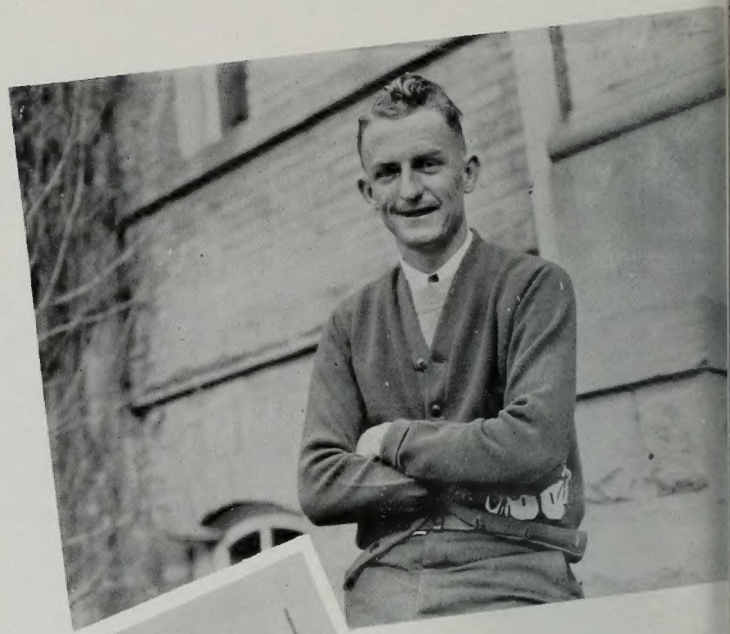

Intra-murals . . .

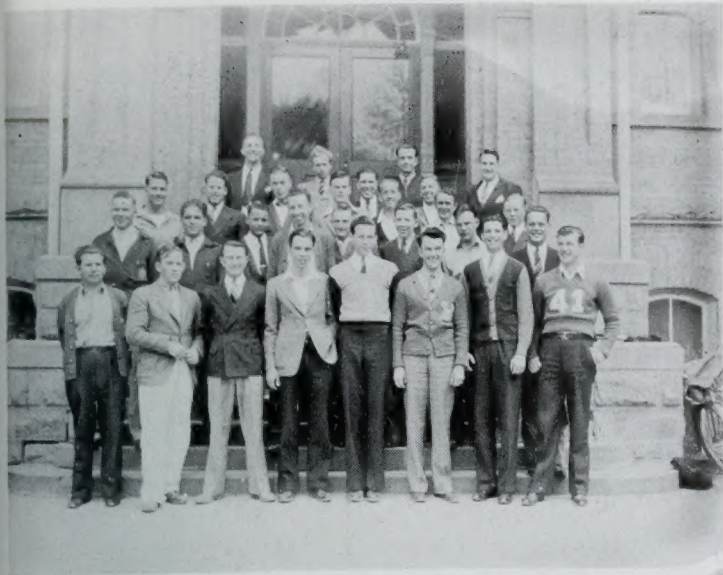

Under the watchful eye of John Lewis, smiling characteristically at the right, the intra-mural program really went places this year.

Leagues were formed for social unit, club, and class participation in softball, touch-football, basketball, volleyball, and tennis. A lot of interest was shown in touch-football—a new game to the intra-mural camp; and it seems headed for a bright future at the garden city school.

Rivalry was intense in many events—with everyone laying for the Brigadiers who finally won the intra-mural championship cup.

At the upper left are the championship Brigadiers—winners of the intramural crown for the second consecutive year. Especially strong in softball, they walked off with both fall and spring editions of that sport. Upper right is a shot of the Box Elder club who beat out the Brickers for the Intra-mural basketball. These boys were also successful in winning the freshmen basketball tournament and are all fine prospects for next year's football squad. ffl ffl ffl ffl

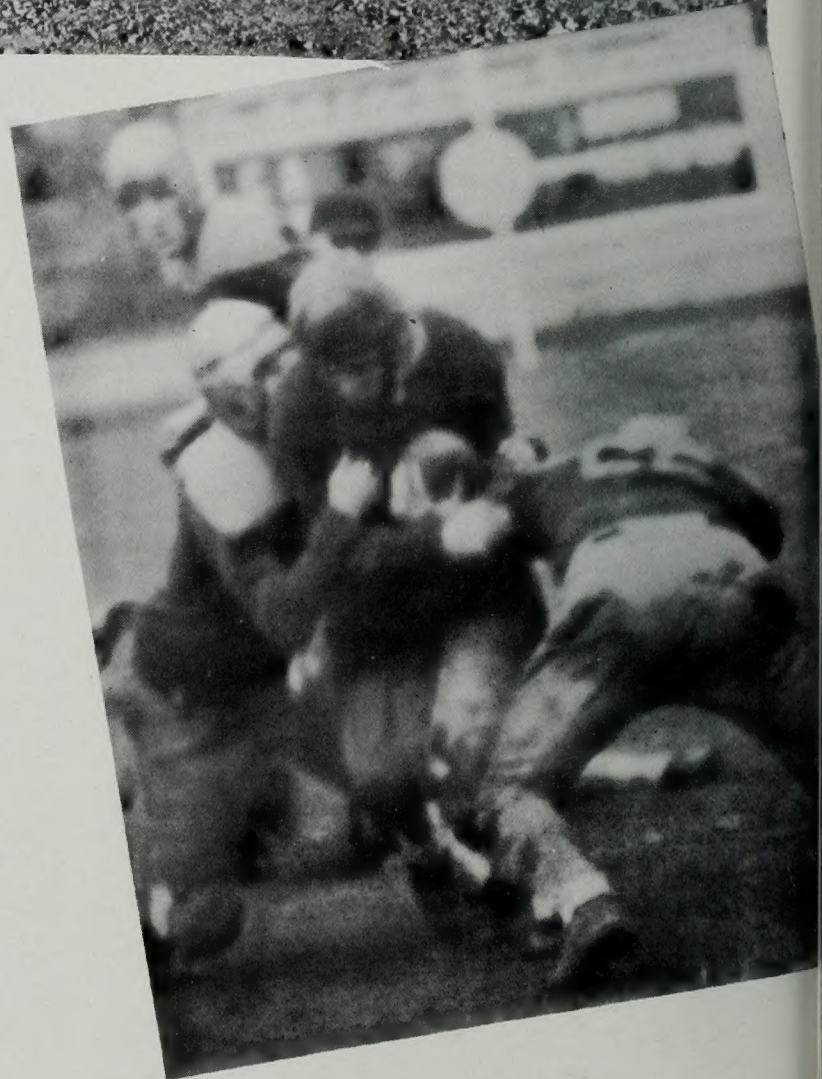

In the center are the Brickers—the school's so-called 500. The boys took time out from their social activities long enough to annex the social unit casaba crown.

And at the bottom are the Vikings—the chorus girls of the college. They made good use of their beautiful lower appendages, however, by winning the touch-football championship. In this "new" game, the Val Hyrics, led by "Whizzer" Clegg, came through with a never-to-be-forgotten victory over the Brigs to oust them out of a tie with the Vikes.

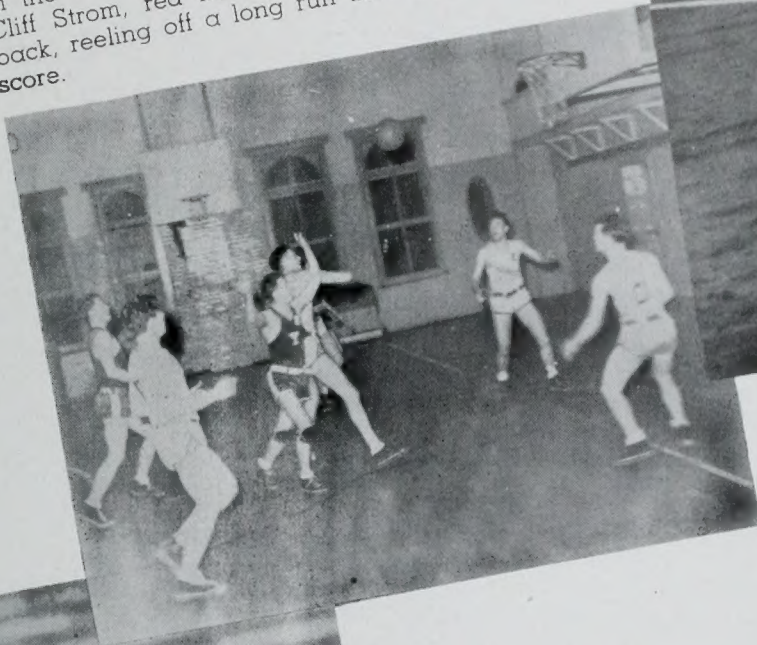

Freshmen Athletics ...

A Big Seven ruling kept the freshmen out of all inter-collegiate team competition but football this year, and this new setup makes it rather hard to tell just how the boys measure up to other first year squads. The football boys look plenty good, and spring training showed that the newcomers will more than make up for our losses through graduation. In their only game of the season, the greenlings turned back Westminster 19-0. Playing under the name of "Bennetts of Provo", Young's casaba freshmen walked off with the A.A.U. state championship. And at the annual Y invitation meet, our frosh were victorious in tennis, and took all but one first place in track. All in all, athletics seem to be looking up at the garden city school. The boys in the picture are: Front row: Trunnell, S. Hart, A. Terry, L. Blade, C. Fullenbach, O. Hess, B. McLeese, R. LaFevre, L. Hatch, M. Ogden. Second Row: McComish, M. Brown, D. Burgess, B. Berry, K. Maynard, Waters, Duke. Third Row: P. Francis, K. Jensen, Spector, Bateman, Strom, D. Francis, W. Reeve, Mont Anderson, M. Skousen. Back Row: Coach Buck Dixon, Price, R. Jensen, Whiteman.

WOMEN'S SPORTS

The male part of the student body must look to their laurels. If you are male, keep on your toes, if female, congratulations. Year by year the athletic program for the fair sex has been built up till now the W.A.A. sponsors an activity program which will keep you in the pink throughout the year. Badminton, tennis, basketball, softball, dancing, all are sponsored. Were you there when Phi Delta Pi won the basket ball title for units and the Juniors copped it for classes? Maybe it was the weaker sex, but all in all they show they are just as capable as the men in all phases of athletic activity.

Athletic Amazons . . .

Headed by a group of very efficient and diligent officers, the Women's Athletic Association experienced one of its finest years. Competition between social units, classes, open tournament teams, and individuals, was keen; yet behind it all was a friendly and cooperative spirit that speaks well for the women students of the B.Y.U. The W.A.A. never let a week pass during the entire year that didn't contain some phase of their diversified and far reaching program. Their attempt to reach every girl in the Y through some extra-curricular activity that would tend to improve her physical development, was highly successful. The young ladies responsible for this program are pictured below. They are from left to right: Dorothy Henderson, recorder; Mary Pintar, reporter; Wanda Andrus, president; and Beth Soffe, vice president. Leith Hayes, secretary, is absent from the picture.

A few action shots always help to bring back memories of hard fought games; of last second goals that spelled victory or defeat, and of thrills that attended the winning of a championship. At the top is a hectic moment in the senior-junior battle for class supremacy. The juniors finally came out on top of the heap. In the center, three Y Jelles start their shots in shuffleboard competition; and at the bottom is another basketball "hot moment"—this time a social unit fracas.

Showing plenty of vim, vigor, vitality, the juniors walked off with the class basketball championship for the second consecutive year. At the left is seen the winning team. The players are from top to bottom: Wanda Andrus, Mary Pintar, Lorean Lewis, Beth Soffe, Thora Carlson, and Gretta Carlson. Leith Hayes, star forward, is absent from the picture. In the center is fascinating Helen Loveless from up Bingham way, who stroked her way to the intra-mural singles tennis championship. And at the bottom is the unaffiliated team which won the intra-mural volleyball championship. From left to right they are: Olive Thaxton, Beth Soffe, Ardelle Paul, Alice Dixon, Roberta Roberts, Wanda Andrus, Helen Loveless, and Mary Pintar. Interesting sidelights on W.A.A. champions are that nearly every champion or member of a championship squad, is active in all association activities. As a whole, the girls who participated in women's sports are above the average in their classroom grades; and among the boys—these athletic amazons are tops.

A freshman walked off with the singles badminton championship this year. At the top is Dorothy Henderson, recorder of the W.A.A., posed on the steps of the women's gym just after she won the title. In the center are the two Carlson sisters, Gretta and Thora. These ex-school teachers came to the Y from Canada, and immediately became well known for their versatility on Young's campus. Gretta, the one on the left, was elected queen for the annual Y snow carnival. They teamed together to win the intra-mural badminton title. On the right are some of the members of the Phi Delta Pi national fraternity. These girls easily overcame all competition to win the intra-mural basketball championship. From left to right they are: Laura Swenson, Beth Softe, Beth Stout, Mary Pintar, Mae Markham, Laura Chadwick, and LaRaine Swenson.

Higher Education in Utah . . .

is making marvelous progress and the Brigham Young University is in the front. Keeping time with this progress the Utah Power & Light Company has reduced their rates very materially. Our average residential rate is now approximately 3.5c per kilowatt hour. This is 21% below the national average. With this new low rate you can have a modern all electric kitchen at a lower operating cost than any other type of service.

THE BUNYON Review

By Don Searle

Well, by now you have either waded through the collection of material which is slung together to form the main part of "The Banyan", or else you still have the book open to your unit page and are wondering how you ever managed to take such an extremely unflattering picture. In either event you have seen enough to reach one conclusion, viz; the book lacks verve; it is completely devoid of "yumph". If we may be permitted to coin a phrase, it hasn't got any stuff.

The reason for this is simple. The editor, in a last desperate attempt to keep from getting kicked out of school, has bent over backwards, trying to please everybody. In doing so he has blindly omitted the truth. He has ignored the warning of Xerxes who said, "He that seeketh not the truth, let him be classed as a twerp".

But we of the "Buny'on" staff make no such mistake. We give you the truth or better. Our motto is: "Anyone who is a heel will get his toes stepped on."

So enough for that. Bear with us while we start at the first and give you a critical discussion of the contents of the book. If we don't say anything bad about you, it is because what we would like to say is unprintable.

The Faculty Many a proud alumnus points to the fact that B.Y.U. has the homeliest faculty west of Des Moines, Iowa. It is estimated that by 1957 only 3.4 of them will have died or been sent out as mission presidents, which is extremely alarming to say the least

The Student Body Officers Concrete proof of the prevalence of vote-buying. During the year their attention has been directed almost entirely towards not getting us a new Union Building. In this they have been successful. The only bright spots in the year have been when we shipped them off to Logan or Salt Lake for the week-end.

CLASSES

The Seniors What the Seniors lack in quality they make up in quantity. The fact that they would elect Dean Peterson president indicates the caliber of the class as a whole. Twenty seven of them will graduate between one and thirteen years from now when they get out of jail.

The Juniors Exactly 73.4% of the Juniors are politicians. The rest are (censored).

The Sophomores The trouble with the Sophomores is that they are not smart enough to realize how dumb they are. The Sophomores are still Freshmen at heart, in spite of the fact they have been pushed ahead a year.

The Freshmen There is nothing in the belief that this year's Freshmen class is the least intelligent in the history of the school. Research shows that one year after the school was founded there were only two members to the Freshman class. In the middle of the fall quarter one of them was kicked by a horse and lost his mind, making a total of fifty per cent of the class who were cracked, which is slightly above the present figure.

Athletics

Football This will always be remembered as the season we didn't beat Utah. It was a terrific upset, but the boys offered no excuses. Then of course we lost to Colorado, too, but this was only due to the fact that Colorado made more touchdowns, and not due to any inferior playing on our part.

Basketball The players are apt to offer as an excuse for such a lousy season the fact that Guss Black tripped over Whizzer White and hurt his knee. Witnesses says, however, that the whole incident had been over emphasized, and that if Black had been sober it wouldn't have happened.

Track At the beginning of the season it looked like we were going to have a fairly good track team, but then Ed Clyde reported for practice, and our stock dropped. The trouble with our track men is that they all spend too much time with their studies—especially the freshmen.

Tennis, Intra-murals, Boxing, etc. These minor sports are just the idle pastime of the privileged few; and because we belong to the masses, and are glad to t, we refuse to write about them. Note: If interested in further research into biased "Y" sports consult Del Miller's personal files. He has kept every Y News issue with his picture in—every issue.

SOCIAL UNITS

Brickers Anybody can join the Brickers if he plays up to the actives long enough. We could go on citing examples for hours. But why waste time on them?

Brigadiers These boys hate to admit it, but they just don't rate. Take one look at any of them and you will see why.

Vikings Rumor has it that they are slipping, but this can hardly be true, as they never reached any heights to slip from. They performed the feat of taking the same legs and song and dance and winning first place in the Varsity Show two years in a row.

Tausigs There are very few seniors in this outfit. The reason is that they usually get kicked out of school before that time.

Val Hyrics A nice bunch of boys. This is the worst thing you can say about a unit.

Trojans We can't find out much about this unit because we can't find anyone who admits belonging to it.

O.S. Trovata A nice unit, the dues are low, and any one can join. Most of them are not very intelligent, but who cares.

Val Norns A nice date if you figure on getting married or have to cram for a history test.

Cesta Ties Never heard of them till now.

Nautilus Some people try to wise crack and twist this name to read "Naughty Lasses". It isn't true, however; they're good girls. With the kind of boy friends they rate, no girl would want to be bad.

La Vadis They try hard, but they don't seem to get around.

Fidelas The trouble with the girls in this unit, as we see it, is that they are too much like Fidelas's'.

NO NAME

He held my hand,
And looked into my eyes.
To see if there was pain
Or maybe just surprise.

The night was softly warm
The light was not too low.
He asked if I would mind,
I gently answered "no".

So my hand he held,
He meant it without doubt,
We struggled for a minute,
Finally that sliver came out.

I learned to do—
and to don't,
I learned to woo—
but still won't!

There was darkness
No light—
Just night—
And he was alone,
Life of starkness
No joy—
Poor boy—
Heart cold as bone.
Then came spring,
All light—
No night—
When love was found,
The birds did sing,
All joy—
Oh boy—
Spring had come around.

CONFLICT

There should be no conflict, no pain
When that feeling steals my heart;
Yet why do I struggle against it,
Seeking to curb every start?

I yearn for the mad ecstasy of love,
For its tender, pulsating beat;
Yet when the bud is gently unfolding,
I run—that love and I never meet.

Just to imagine the elation flying hope,
Of that joyous, supreme desire,
Prompts me to acquiescence;
Yet I turn to quench the fire.

I want to have understanding, joy,
To have a companion, a reason for life;
Yet I refuse every little dream
That draws happiness from strife.

Is his fight for freedom eternal?
Will I always have such fear,
Of letting life and love enter,
And of clasping someone near?

Tenseless straining every face,
Eyes roaming, staring into space—
Bodies stiff with expectation,
Hands smother every exclamation.

Ears keyed to finest detection,
Ready to catch any inflection—
Mind wandering, losing all count,
How the minutes slowly mount.

Then when reason begins to wane,
And no more can stand the strain—
At last freedom in view—
The Bell—classtime is thru.

ASHES

Someplace, sometime—I heard the word
ashes.

The meaning then wasn't clear,
But later I found its worth;
It isn't joy or mirth,
But a mask with a pasty lear.

A mask that has no heart and no feeling,
A mask that's dead from time,
Time that wears off glamour,
Time that dulls sweet amour,
Silence invades love's chime.

Ashes! That's all that remains in my heart,
Hopes have ceased their winging,
We burned the flame out,
It's dead,—dead without doubt,
Birds have ceased their singing.

I don't mind being left alone,
With heart turned to cold stone,
But I loathe ashes!

Poems by Lee Stokes

ON A PETRIFIED WORM TRAIL

Here crawled the lowly earthworm long ago
 When this enduring stone was slimy clay
 No peer it had in all its wide domain
 A worm the highest creature of the day!

But mighty ages passed with ponderous tread
 The mountain crumbled and the hills decayed
 While Nature finished her creative work
 Brought forth a man by wonderous reason swayed.

How vast the span of time 'twixt thee and me
 And yet your record stands into my day
 When time completes the cycle will there be
 As much as this to show I passed this way?

THE FRESHMAN ENGLISH TEACHER

He pounds upon the desk
 And sets his jaw
 Then lights upon the Freshmen
 In his class

He challenges them
 As to their place of origin
 Berates them for their Base provincialism.

His words vitrolic
 Are well chosen to incite
 Freshmen to greater heights
 If such there be.

Thirty five minutes he spends
 On morals and decorum
 And perhaps the I reshman
 Get ten of English

Alas we feel for him
 This poor Prometheus
 That all his heaven born fire
 Is wasted on a College English Class.

FIRST LOVE FANCY

Lee Stokes

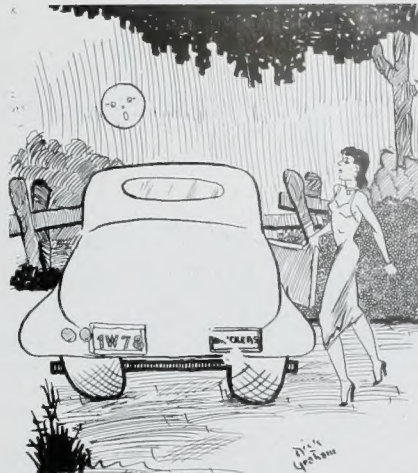

So, you want to hear of my first love
 Oh, what a love was mine
 She was as fair as the fairest are Sweet as the Columbine.

I loved and I worshiped her from afar
 A bashful Romeo.
 But she did not return my love,
 She had a handsomer beau.

I thought I should confess my love
 And end the awful doubt
 But every time I tried to speak
 The words would not come out.

But strange to say my passion passed
 I didn't go insane,
 But I know it isn't in my heart
 To love like that again.

And now you have heard of my first love
 The love I thought divine
 She was only eight years old,
 And I was only Nine.

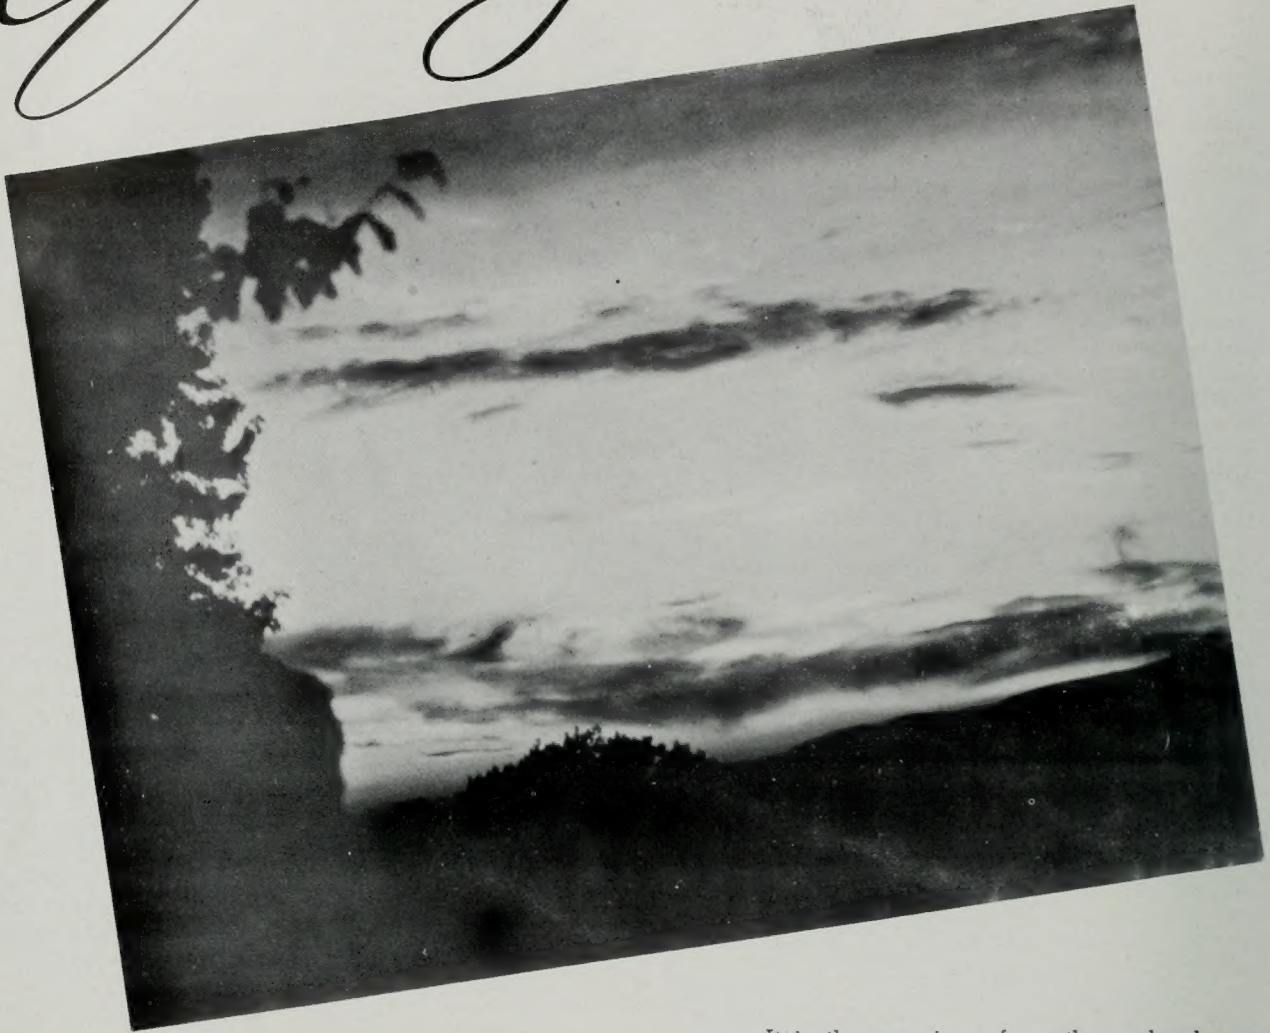

SO YOU WOULD TAKE ME OUT AN NOT GET FRESH-HUH?

Evening on the campus ...

It is the evening of another school year. And like the glorious sunset that goes out in a blaze of color this year passes into history in one grand and beautiful gesture. Always it will live in the hearts of those of us who are leaving; its last breath fraught with the knowledge of the bountiful years to come to Young University.

We are indebted to all who have contributed to this book in any way. We want to thank the staff, the Press, the Graham Printers, Molloy Cover Co., and all who have helped us help you remember this outstanding year at Brigham Young University.
